Life span of average American is 71.4 years

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Better health services have helped add about seven months to the life of the average American, who now can expect to live 71.4 years, according to a United Nations report Saturday.

But the longer life span for Americans —from 70.8 years in 1971 to 71.4 years in 1974 —still is two years less than the 73.3 years the average Japanese can expect to live. Japan is at the top of the list.

The figures in the U.N. report on the world social situation seem to dispel the myth that the simple life on a tropical isle can be enjoyed longer than the rat race of industrialized nations.

All of the most developed regions, from Japan through to temperate South America, listed an average life expectancy of 71.2 years. For the less developed regions, Polynesia to Western Africa, life expectancy was 53.9 years.

The shortest life span was in Western Africa, where it is 41.3 years.

The report said that the longer life expectancy in developed countries has slowed down, although women on the average live 5 to 7 years longer than men and are further widening the gap.

"One reason is that the human life span cannot be extended indefinitely because of inevitable biological deterioration of the organisms at advanced age," it said.

"Knowledge and means available for the postponement of death are now exploited almost to the full and a further breakthrough in medical knowledge is not within the immediate prospect."

The report listed cancer and diseases of the circulatory and nervous systems as the leading causes of death in advanced age in developed nations.

The report projected world population at the end of this year as 3,988,000,000, one billion more people than were on the globe 15 years ago.

All but one-sixth of the population explosion was in the poorer countries, which accounted for almost three-fourths of the world's people.

China's population was the largest at 838 million, followed by South Asia as a group (including India, Pakistan and Bangladesh) at 1.2 billion.

The population for northern America —the United States and Canada --was 237 million, for the Soviet Union 252 million and Japan 111 million.

The reproduction rate for most industrialized countries, including the United States, Japan, the Soviet Union and Europe were now so low, the report said, that they ensured long-run population replacement "but not much more."

FIRE IN TOKYO BAY

Japanese oil tanker burns furiously after it collided with a Liberian freighter in Tokyo Bay Saturday. The tanker was filled with oil and liquid gas which burned so swiftly that rescue attempts were abandoned. Four crewmen on the two ships are known dead and 25 are missing.

Four dead, 29 missing

Ships collide, burn at sea

TOKYO (UPI) — Long after rescue workers had given up hope of finding any more survivors, a Chinese crewman was rescued early Sunday from a Liberian freighter which collided in a ball of fire with a Japanese tanker in Tokyo Bay.

A spokesman for the Maritime Safety Agency said a Chinese crewman of the 10,874-ton Pacific Ares climbed out of the ship by himself after rescue workers had abandoned their effort. He was taken to a nearby hospital, groggy but apparently uninjured.

Three seamen from the Pacific Ares and one from the Yuyo Maru No. 10 were confirmed killed in the collision that engulfed the two ships in flames in Japan's busiest waterway. Thirty-three crewmen of the Japanese tanker were rescued by patrol boats.

The spokesman said four of the 38 crewmen of the 43,723-ton Japanese tanker Yuyo Maru No. 10 and 25 of the Pacific Ares' 29-man crew were still missing at 8 a.m. today (6 p.m. EST Saturday).

The collision took place in a waterway in the mouth of Tokyo Bay, only five miles from Yokohama, Japan's major seaport, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The safety agency said the Yuyo Maru No. 10 was carrying 40,000 tons of liquified gas and 127,733 barrels of oil. The Pacific Ares had been carrying 15,000 tons of steel pipes.

The safety agency said the collision occured under good visibility and calm sea. The spokesman said firefighters managed to get aboard the Pacific Ares and found three bodies badly charred. It had been manned by 28 sailors from Nationalist China and one from South Korea, according to the ship's agent in Japan.

New quake panics Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — An earthquake rocked Lima and the central coast of Peru on Saturday and briefly panicked the area's quake-conscious inhabitants but caused no casualties and little damage.

The earthquake struck the same zone where 37 days ago a much more powerful earthquake killed 76 people and caused millions of dollars in damage.

Spokesmen of the national civil defense agency said the earthquake Saturday caused no deaths or injuries. Property damage was largely confined to older buildings weakened and evacuated since the killer quake of Oct. 3.

The Saturday morning quake caused a disproportionate amount of panic. The six million people in the quake area have been living through a month of minor earth tremors which usually follow major earthquakes.

Striking just as many people were getting out of bed on a sunny morning, the quake sent thousands of residents of Lima and coastal towns to the south runnning into the streets in their underclothing and pajamas.

Others fell to their knees in their rooms and prayed. Electricity was not disrupted, but the telephone system quickly became overloaded.

The national geophysical institute said that the earthquake had a magnitude on the Richter scale of 5.6.

The quake Saturday occurred at 7:59 a.m. Peruvian time (the same as EST) and lasted 40 seconds. Its epicenter was in the Pacifc Ocean 80 miles South of Lima and about 25 miles south of the epicenter of Oct. 3.

Kissinger returns from 18-day trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived home Saturday from a 26,880-mile mission which diplomatic officials said may stimulate new Middle East talks and U.S.-Soviet arms negotiations.

Kissinger said at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., he was "reasonably happy" with the results of his 18-day, 18-country journey. He was expected to report to President Ford today at Camp David.

Dies in fire; brother survives

A house fire at 1244 Calbourne St. in Walnut claimed the life of Robert Osborne, 18, Saturday morning.

Cause of the $15,000 fire has not yet been determined. Investigation by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's department is continuing.

The fire apparently started about 4:20 and was reported by a neighbor at 4:40 a.m. Captain Jim Moss, Los Angeles County Fire Department station 61, reported that by that time the house was fully ablaze and the glow of the fire could be seen in the sky.

Osborne lived at the Walnut address with his father, Jim, and his younger brother, Craig. Moss said that the father was not home at the time of the blaze. The younger brother, awakened by the fire, was able to escape uninjured.

Coal talks

Some progress but still not close to accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiators for a new nationwide contract for more than 100,000 soft coal miners made progress Saturday toward agreement on a new pact, but both union and industry officials agreed there were "some knotty problems to be resolved" before Tuesday's strike deadline.

Other stories on Pages 6, 7

After two sessions Saturday, the bargainers recessed talks until 9:30 this morning, United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said after the sessions that both sides were drafting language for consideration at today's sessions.

"We still have the economic package and one or two other serious items," Miller said.

The current three-year contract expires at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday. A strike would affect miners in 25 states.

"We're still not hovering on the brink of settlement, but we're making progress," he said. "We're not drafting language on the nitty-gritty."

Miller has indicated that a strike of at least two weeks is almost certain because, for the first time in its history, the union's rank-and-file must ratify the agreement and the UMW has a long-standing tradition of "no contract, no work."

Guy Farmer, chief spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said the negotiators "still have some knotty problems to be resolved."

Farmer said an agreement before Sunday night was "not very likely", but that he is still hoping for settlement before the contract expires.

Farmer said the negotiators had reached tentative agreement on a number of issues, including a cost of living clause.

He said that details of the escalator clause, one of the major union demands, have not yet been worked out.

Explosion is only two blocks from White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An explosion ripped through offices of the Organization of American States Saturday night, while the OAS foreign ministers were meeting in Quito, Ecuador, to discuss lifting economic sanctions against Cuba.

No one was injured and police said the blast was "definitely due to a bomb."

The FBI began investigating "to determine if there was a federal violation which involves protection of a foreign official."

In Quito, where the foreign ministers of the OAS are meeting this weekend on a proposal to lift the 10-year-old economic and political blockade against Cuba, bombs exploded Thursday at the Bolivian embassy and the Brazilian cultural center. A third was disarmed at the Paraguayan embassy.

All three countries are likely to come out against the readmission of Cuba to the hemispheric community.

The explosion occurred within a few feet of the office of OAS Secretary General H.E. Galo Plaza, who along with most other officials are in Quito.

The bomb went off about 8:30 p.m. in the southwest corner of the Pan American Union, a two-story ornate building at 17th Street and Constitution Ave. in the middle of a complex of government buildings and about two blocks from the White House.

"Apparently the bomb or dynamite or explosive was placed in or near a public telephone booth which was completely shattered," said OAS press officer Thomas J. Stone.

"There was considerable damage," he said. "We don't have an estimate, but it would run into several thousand dollars easily," Stone said.

A radio engineer and night watchman were the only persons in the building, he said, and they were in the basement.

An iron railing by the back staircase was ripped up and there were holes in the walls, damage to the ceiling and fallen plaster and broken windows, Stone said, adding that the second floor area "is not occupiable."

OAS ambassadors and representatives have the same status as foreign ambassadors and embassy personnel.

Motorcyclist killed in crash; 1st fatality of year for city

The city of La Verne recorded its first traffic fatality of the year Saturday when a motorcyclist died at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after an 11:30 a.m. collision with an auto at Foothill Boulevard and Williams Avenue.

Robert Buxton, 17, of 2799 Sixth St., La Verne, was pronounced dead at the hospital at 12:06 p.m.

Police reported that Buxton's motorcycle ran broadside into an automobile operated by a youth, 17, whom they declined to identify.

The youth said that he was southbound on Williams Avenue, had stopped for the stop sign, and was beginning to turn left onto Foothill Boulevard when he was hit.

Police said that Buxton applied his brakes but was unable to avoid a collision.

BUTZ OF ARABIA

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz sits on a camel and models Arab garb during a sightseeing visit to the Pyramids at Giza. Butz is in Egypt to sign an agreement to sell that country about 200,000 tons of wheat in the second quarter of 1975 and to assess Egypt's agricultural needs.

GOP conservatives making 3rd party noises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The spectre of a conservative third party is haunting the GOP and threatens to rise from the election day ashes of defeated Republicans.

Perhaps more than at any time within recent memory, conservatives within the Republican Party are talking about junking the GOP and going it alone with a national third party.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, perhaps the leading conservative spokesman within the party next to Sen. Barry Goldwater, has clearly indicated he might lead such a movement.

Others, including Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and James Buckley, R-N.Y., have called for "a new alignment" of the two major political parties along conservative and liberal lines.

Leaders of major conservative political organizations say their mail is overwhelmingly against both major parties and for a third party course.

Growing dissatisfaction with the GOP was bitterly expressed recently by the conservative weekly Human Events: "The Republican Party may self-destruct in the near future, and more and more people are beginning to think the idea wouldn't be so bad after all ... The truth is that the GOP, once a major hope for implementing conservative policies, no longer seems much interested in limiting government, diminishing taxes and keeping the currency solvent.

"What kind of Republican party is it, anyway, that wants Nelson Rockefeller, a big spending liberal, for vice president, that picks Charley Goodell for any position at all, that pushes for a comprehensive national health insurance program in the teeth of a roaring inflation and embraces a surtax?" the publication complained.

Interviewed just before Tuesday's election, Reagan said he might lead a conservative third party presidential effort in 1976 if the two major parties failed to "represent the will of the American people."

Reagan was a leading GOP presidential contender for 1976 before Gerald Ford ascended to the presidency and may still challenge him for the nomination "if things have grown worse instead of better."

Reagan said that whether he will lead the movement (for a third party) or "join in support of such a movement I think would have to depend on whether it became evident that both parties had so far failed that they no longer could represent the will of the American people.

M. Stanton Evans, chairman of the American Conservative Union —a political activist organization —also says that "a significant number of conservative spokesmen have become convinced that the Republican Party is moribund if not already finished and...the sooner this fact is communicated to the party rank and file, the sooner the job of reconstruction can get started."

"The kind of reconstruction that is increasingly being talked of is movement toward a third political party," Evans said.

Rockefeller's nomination, amnesty for draft evaders, the tax surcharge proposal, and a disinclination by Ford to appoint conservatives to his inner circle are only a few of the factors that have spurred third-party talk. It goes deeper than that.

Public opinion polls indicate that while the number of Republicans is at an all-time low —24 per cent —the proportion of Americans who label themselves "conservative" is at an all-time high — 59 per cent.

Human Events editor Tom Winter said his mail "has never been stronger for a third party. The polls show that 'conservative' is a more acceptable label than 'Republican.' Why not go with a more acceptable term?"

HERE I AM!

Swept into 25 m.p.h. waters

Girl, 14, rescued after dunking

A 14-year-old Pomona girl was swept 200 yards down concrete lined San Jose Wash in Ganesha Park Saturday before being rescued by a fireman.

She is Karen Thayer of 330 E. Jefferson Ave.

Fireman said there was about two feet of water moving between 20 and 25 miles per hour down the wash. They reported that Miss Thayer received a good soaking, but only minor scrapes and bruises and was released to her parents following her rescue.

Fireman Bruce Price climbed down a 35-foot extension ladder to pluck the girl from a culvert she had managed to reach.

Fireman said that apparently Miss Thayer and a companion, Christy Bouchard, 14, of 333 E. Columbia Ave., Pomona, had been walking in Ganesha Park when they entered aa dry channel which intersects with the San Jose Wash.

They walked through the dry channel, then sat down on a ledge to dangle their feet in the swiftly moving water in the wash.

Miss Brouchard ran back through the dry channel, out into the park and called for help. The initial call came in to the police department and immediately was referred to the fire department rescue unit.

Senate secretive about price tag on new carpet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senatorial slippers will trod 9,040 yards of plush new blue and white carpeting when Congress reconvenes Nov. 18. It is being installed while members are away for their monuth-long election recess.

Getting a look at the new flooring isn't difficult —the process of laying it can be watched from the open galleries. But finding out how much it costs is something else again.

Apparently wary of being called big spenders by that big white house at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, Senate officials are keeping the price tag secret.

Initially, the Architect's Office seemed the logical place to acquire this information. However, the office said carpet's cost was under the juris- the Sergeant at Arms.

A call to the office of the Sergeant at Arms revealed that it, too, was unaware of the carpet's worth, but the Financial Clerk might be of some help.

"Why do you want to know?", the Financial Clerk asked.

"For a news story," was the reply.

"I don't have that information," the clerk said.

He indicated, however, that the Sergeant at Arms would probably know the answer.

The Service Department of the Sergeant at Arms referred the caller back to the Sergeant at Arms himself.

A third call to the Sergeant at Arms revealed that not only was he gone for the day, he probably wouldn't be in next week either.

A last ditch call to the office of the Democratic Policy Committee to find out why one couldn't obtain information on the carpet's cost was fruitless.

The mystery of the Senate carpet will not go unanswered indefinitely, however. The American taxpayer will know the price tag in March, 1975, when it shows up somewhere in the required report of the Secretary of the Senate.

Following a six-hour cabinet session, the government announced that the pound had been pegged at 6 to the American dollar, down from the previous rate of 4.2 per dollar.

It was the Jewish state's first devaluation in more than three years and its sixth in 26 years of independence.

In a statement broadcast after midnight Saturday, Finance Minister Yehoshua Rabinowitz said the devaluation was designed to reduce imports, increase exports and halt a growing drain on Israel's hard currency reserves.

"After the devaluation," he said, "we expect an increase in investment and capital imports. These, too, are indispensable conditions for continuation of full employment."

Finance ministry sources said the six-month ban on foreign cars, luxury appliances, textiles and gourmet foods would save about $140 million.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Andrew E Gibson, President Ford's beleaugured choice to head the Federal Energy Administration, said after a White House meeting Friday he still has the President's support and believes he can do a good job.

But a White House aide, who declined to be identified, said: "I'll be surprised if the nomination ever goes to the Senate."

John Wayne with Boys Republic wreath campaign

Actor John Wayne has been named national chairman of the 51st Della Robbia Wreath campaign, proceeds of which benefit Boys Republic in Chino.

The wreath campaign is a tradition begun by the boys who made and sold 18 Christmas wreaths more than 50 years ago. Last year, more than 50,000 Della Robbia wreaths were made and sold, throughout the country.

The wreaths are made in classic Della Robbia pattern, after a ceramic by the noted Florentine family, and assembled using natural materials — foliage, fruits, nuts and seed pods, which the boys gather throughout the year.

Proceeds from the campaign will go toward rebuilding two residence cottages at the Chino home and school for disadvantaged boys.

For information on ordering the wreaths, call 964-2391.

Other austerity measures

Israel hikes gas to $2.66

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel devalued its pound by more than 40 per cent Sunday, raised gasoline prices to a world record $2.66 a gallon and announced a series of other austerity measures to combat a deteriorating economic situation.

High-octane gasoline went up from $1.38 per gallon to $2.66, which government sources said made Israeli oil products the costliest in the world. Even at the old $1.38 price, Israeli gasoline had been the third most expensive in the world, after Italy and Greece.

The government also announced a six-month ban on imports of foreign luxury items and a series of price hikes on government-subsidized commodities to bring them in line with world market conditions.

Sugar tripled in price from 24 to 72 cents a pound, bread doubled from 6 to 12 cents a pound and butter increased by more than 50 per cent from 30 to 48 cents per bar.

The government also increased dividend and corporate capital gains taxes and raised the foreign travel tax from 15 to 35 per cent on the value of each plane or ship ticket.

Police were posted at the doors of banks in the pre-dawn hours as a precaution against last-minute atempts to make easy profits before they opened Sunday, a regular business day in Israel.

Coin find linked to Drake landing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Discovery of an Elizabethan-era coin at a Miwok Indian village site has added new credence to the theory that English explorer Sir Francis Drake sailed into San Francisco Bay in 1579 and landed near the present site of San Quentin Prison.

Historians have never been able to agree on whether Drake landed inside the bay or on the Northern California coast outside the Golden Gate.

But Friday, archeologist Charles Slaymaker told the California Park Commission that he found the coin at Rancho Olompali, a Miwok site north of Novato, near the northern tip of the bay.

The English sixpence, bearing the image of Elizabeth I, was believed minted in 1577, two years before the arrival of Drake. Slaymaker said he sent the coin to the British Museum for verification.

The archeologist said he also found a glass paste bead of the type used by the English for trade with Indians.

Robert Poner, chairman of the California Heritage Preservation Commission, said if the artifacts were left behind by Drake himself, it would make Olompali the oldest Indian-Anglo contact site in North America.

Bolivian leader announces get tough policy after revolt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Acting on a blunt command from his armed forces to forget about elections and run the country like a strong military dictator, President Gen. Hugo Banzer Saturday swore in a new all-military cabinet and announced a series of tough measures to stifle opposition.

Banzer, who two days ago put down an armed revolt against his regime, fired his previous cabinet and formed a new "national reconstruction" government. The revolt had apparently been triggered by disagreement over the timing of promised elections.

He suspended all political parties, which he said no longer served any use, as well as all employers organizations, labor unions and professional associations.

Banzer said he would demand "discipline, work and unity" from everyone, beginning with himself, and would severely punish corruption in government.

"Here and now, a new history will begin for Bolivia," he said.

To start with, he said there will be fewer holidays, all companies will be forced to reinvest their profits in Bolivia, the judicial branch of government will be revamped, a five-year economic and social development plan will be formulated and a compulsory national civil service will be instituted.

Banzer, who came to power in a bloody coup in August, 1971, had promised elections for next year to return Bolivia to democratic rule.

"While several neighboring countries are ruled by strong and inflexible military governments with clear and defined policies," the armed forces said in an apparent reference to Brazil, Peru and Chile, "Bolivia is preparing an electoral process from which it would emerge more divided and weakened."

The armed forces called democracy an "obsolete political system of the democratic-liberal type which historically makes it impossible to respond to the challenges and needs of our society."

Obituary

Manuel Hernandez

Rosary will be recited tonight at 7:30 for Manuel Hernandez of Norwalk, who died Friday in a Los Angeles Hospital after a short illness.

Hernandez was born Sept. 25, 1920 in Mexico and had come to Norwalk five months ago.

W. Virginia book dispute

May start own school system, say protesters

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — A preacher told a flagwaving, foot-stomping rally Saturday that protesters would start their own school system if controversial new textbooks stayed in Kanawha County classrooms.

Addressing a cheering crowd at the Charleston Civic center after a ban-the-books march through the city, the Rev. Avis Hill raised both fists and proclaimed:

"We have just begun to fight. If it means it, we'll set up our own school system."

Hill said plans were being made for special classrooms in church basements and other facilities.

The rally, which began a parade, prayers and a chorus of "Praise God" by a crowd of about 2,000 persons including coal miners, was called to protest Friday's School Board decision to return most of 325 disputed textbooks to classrooms in the county.

Protesters carried signs saying "Jesus Yes, Textbooks Nyet" and "Down With Communist Books." Preachers said American soldiers died on battlefields in Korea and Vietnam to keep children in those countries from similar influences.

Anti-book leaders called for a major boycott of schools Tuesday. They said they would not yield until books they feel degrade God and country are banned.

"Come Tuesay, I want to see ghost rooms in Kanawha County schools," Hill said.

"I would rather see my daughter in the funeral home, in God's hands, than five years from now have my daughter stab me in the back because of the books," said the minister who has helped lead a 10-week crusade which triggered violence and mine strikes.

"My daughter is 11. She doesn't want to go back to school. She's a good Christian girl.

"We are fighting the same battle today our forefathers left their homelands 200 years ago, went across the seas in World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam and fought for liberty and justice and freedom for all," Hill said.

The clergyman disclosed plans for a nationwide ban-the-books rally in Charleston. He said chartered buses from New York, California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee would arrive here Nov. 30 for a "huge demonstration."

"People have contacted us from dozens of states complaining these very same books are going into their schools," Hill said. "If we don't stop it here, our educational system will be nothing but one big open sewer of filth and trash for the next generation."

$1 million welfare fraud in Michigan

DETROIT (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted six persons in what is called the largest welfare fraud scheme in Michigan history.

Larry M. Robinson, 23, a former welfare case worker and the alleged mastermind of the fraud, was indicted on 22 counts of mail fraud in the scheme that cost the Michigan Department of Social Services an estimated $1 million last year.

He allegedly created hundreds of phony Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) cases and then enlisted friends and businessmen in cashing the bimonthly checks.

Robinson was arrested last December as he reportedly tried to cash 107 ADC checks worth more than $30,000.

Two who put finger on Agnew face arraignment on kickbacks charge

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Two businessmen who gave prosecutors evidence that led to Spiro T. Agnew's resignation in disgrace from the vice presidency will be arraigned Monday on charges of violating federal tax laws by paying him kickbacks.

Mortgage banker I.H. Hammerman, a close friend and political associate of Agnew, and engineer Allen Green were charged Friday by U.S. Attorney George Beall with "interference with the administration of the Internal Revenue laws."

Hammerman and Green were two of the four prospective witnesses against Agnew named in a 40-page summary of evidence read into court records Oct. 10, 1973 when Agnew resigned from office and then pleaded no contest to a negotiated charge of income tax evasion.

Federal prosecutors agreed not to seek indictments for bribery in return for Agnew's no contest plea to the charges he did not pay taxes on more than $100,000 in kickbacks he allegedly received while Maryland governor and vice president.

The summary said that Hammerman and Green had agreed to cooperate with Beall's investigation of Maryland political corruption.

The investigation also resulted in the bribery-extortion conviction of N. Dale Anderson, a former Democratic National Committeeman who succeeded Agnew as Baltimore County Executive.

The charges against Hammerman and Green were brought directly without going through the grand jury, a procedure often used when defendants are expected to plead guilty.

The charge against Hammerman said that, "He did on more than one occasion receive from various individuals and subsequently deliver to Spiro T. Agnew, then governor of the state of Maryland, and to Jerome B. Wolff, then chairman-director of the Maryland State Roads Commission, quantities of money . . ."

The charge against Green was the same, but deleted the reference to Wolff, another of the four prospective witnesses who told prosecutors they paid Agnew off for government contracts while he was governor and vice president.

The fourth accuser was engineer Lester Matz who, like Wolff, headed a Baltimore County firm that did business with the state. Matz and Wolff have not been charged but are under investigation.

Police disperse crowd of 200; seven arrested

Those arrested on assault charges and failure to disperse included Leon Richardson, 20, of 918 E. Vasssar St., Pomona, Edward Singleton, 18, 936 E. La Verne Ave., Pomona, David Lewis, 18, 803 Hyde Ave., Pomona, Ivan McGee, 19, Compton, and three Pomona youths, aged 14, 15 and 17.

Officers said a fight at the Soul Train Dancers event in the park's community center touched off a rock and bottle throwing incident, at 10:30 p.m.

One fight began involving four persons, and several other scuffles broke out later inside and outside the center, police said.

About 30 officers arrived to back up several already at the dance, and a riot skirmish line was formed. After several warnings were given to disperse, some youths started throwing rocks and bottles at police.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The body of the 110th murder victim of the year in San Francisco was found recently in a 30-gallon garbage can.

An autopsy showed that John H. Brown, 23, had been shot in the abdomen with a .38 caliber bullet.

Inspectors Frank McCoy and Ed Erdelatz noted there had been 84 murders in the city at this time last year.

Brown had been awaiting trial on a burglary charge, they added, and had been on probation for credit card thefts.

4 nations favor oil link with U.S. group

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Four more European nations, including three neutrals, announced that they want to join the American-led International Energy Agency that would share oil in time of crisis.

Spokesmen for Spain, Switzerland, Austria and Sweden said they announced their governments' decision at a final meeting of the so-called Group of 12 which set up the IEA.

The agency is the first attempt by industrial nations to link oil policies as a counterweight to the Arab oil-producing cartel.

Caltech prof heads college charity drive

Cornelius J. Pings of Caltech has been appointed colleges division chairman for the United Crusade for the Pomona and San Gabriel valleys. There are 17 colleges and universities in the region that supply a total campaign goal of $45,000.

Women in science at Harvey Mudd

Junior and senior high school women interested in the sciences have been invited to the Women in Science Conference Saturday at Harvey Mudd College.

The conference, first of its kind to be held on cmapus, will provide counseling in opportunities as well as in obstacles encountered by women in the sciences.

Five prominent women speakers from several areas of science will advise students in a program that starts at 9:30 a.m. and lasts until 3:30 p.m.

They are Leona Marshall Libby, particle physicist, Los Angeles; Lee Ann Pedersen, a doctoral candidate at UCLA in catalytic chemistry; Shirley Sandoz, a senior engineer at the Nuclear Energy Products Division, General Electric, San Jose; Mrs. Chris George, a graduate student at UCLA working toward a Ph.D. in biology; and Connie Seinfeld,. a doctoral candidate at USC in mathematics.

The college has requested high school counselors or science teachers to accompany students and provide transportation.

Chaffey College is now accepting applications for admission to the winter quarter which extends from Jan. 2 to March 21.

New or former students are required to obtain their permit-to-register cards at the admission office before they can register on Dec. 9, 10 and 11.

Information on admissions procedures may be obtained by calling 987-1737.

Two accidents in Pomona Friday night sent three persons to the hospital.

Jerry Treanor, 22, of Chino, was injured while riding his motorcycle when a car driven by Augustine Viayra, 30, of Pomona collided with his cycle at Holt Avenue and Hamilton Boulevard, at 3:44 p.m.

Treanor suffered minor arm and facial injuries and was taken to County-USC Medical Center.

Percy Thomas, 85, and his wife Hilda, 75 both of 3727 Equation St. Pomona, were injured when their auto jumped a curb on Foothill Boulevard and struck a light pole.

Police said Thomas was attempting a u-turn on Foothill when he turned too wide, and jumped the curb, at 3:15 p.m.

Both Thomas and his wife were taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital suffering from serious injuries. Thomas suffered a concussion, cuts and abrasions and his wife had a ribs injury and a broken wrist. They were reported in fair condition.

Retired group sets meetings and outings

The next meeting of the Pomona Valley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held at 7 p.m. on Tuesday at the Pilgrim Congregational Church, 600 N. Garey Ave.

Plans have already been made for the organization's Christmas party, which will be held Dec. 10 at the Diamond Bar Country Club at 6:30 p.m. Buses will take members to the party for a fare of 75 cents each. Members will leave from the church and be returned to the church after the party.

On Nov. 21 the chapter will sponsor a trip to the Huntington Library in San Marino and Mt. Wilson Observatory. The price of the trip is $4 per member, which covers transportation only. The tour will leave Pomona at 10 a.m.

On Dec. 20 the chapter will take a sea cruise in the waters off Newport Beach and Laguna Beach. For $7 members of the chapter will be provided with transportation to the beach and the cruise. Each member must pay for his own dinner.

The cruise tour will leave Pomona at 3:30 p.m. and return at 10:30 p.m.

For homeowners exemption

Double check tax bills . . . . Watson

Los Angeles County Assessor Philip E. Watson urges valley homeowners to check their current tax bills to insure receipt of the 1974-75 homeowners' exemptions.

If the exemption has been granted, the world "Home" will appear in the column indicating exemption type in the box which contains the taxable value of their property.

To be eligible for exemptions, persons must have owned and lived their residences on the March 1, 1974 lien date and filed homeowner's claims by the April 15, 1974 deadline.

Watson said persons who may have neglected to file a homeowner's exemption can still receive 80 percent if they file by Dec. 1.

If there is no evidence of a homeowner's exemption on the property tax bill, the property owner should call the assorssor's regional office in West Covina.

It's that time again for auto and boat licenses

The Department of Motor Vehicles has starting mailing registration notices, DMV Director Robert Cozens has announced.

The DMV started the mailing of 16 million 1975 vehicle and boat registrations last month in an effort to give motorists more time to pay their renewal fees, Cozens said.

Notices are going into the mail stream at the rate of 500,000 a day in hopes that most persons will receive their billings by the middle of November.

The deadline for the payment of registrations fees is Feb. 7.

Friends to bid adieu to Mulrooney

County and city officials will join friends Tuesday at 5 p.m. in a farewell reception to Claremont City Manager Keith Mulrooney and his wife Monica at the Griswold's Pavilion, Claremont.

Mrs. Mulrooney, a foreign language teacher at Claremont High, will remain in Claremont with the three children to sell their home before joining her husband at his new job.

Reservations for the reception may be obtained for $1.50 a person by calling Judy Kern at 626-6582, or at the door Tuesday night.

Mulrooney has served as city manager for eight years, the longest tenure of any of Claremont's six city managers.

Mulrooney said that "we have many many close friends and the community has treated us wonderfully well. We will miss Claremont tremendously."

Mulrooney said that he is pleased to have been a part of Claremont during an important period which has seen the development of a new general plan and numerous major planning ordinances, the establishment of an office of human resources, and various social sector programs, the strengthening of the community's economy where per capita sales taxes have increased from $5.69 in 1966-67 to nearly $13 in 1974-75, emergence of a rather strong community concern for environmental matters, construction of El Barrio Park, the new city yards, new police headquarters, a citywide communications system, and a soon-to-be completed library.

"I am grateful," Mulrooney said. "to the city staff and am proud of their many accomplishments with rather limited fiscal resources."

From 1959 to 1966 when he became city manager Mulrooney served as assistant city administrator for the city of Pomona.

Norman King, former deputy city manager, will take over city managerial duties Jan. 2, 1975. Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman will serve as acting city manger until King's arrival.

Mulrooney has considered his new job at Alexandria, Va. a great challenge, and one that he simply could not pass up.

Mulrooney said he learned that Alexandria is steeped in American history and has hundreds of old buildings in its "old and historic district."

Construction of the new capital area METRO rapid transit system has just about reached the city and by the early 1980's the city will be served by two rail lines and four stations.

Women Administrators Program

Positions open for college-level aides

Applications are now being accepted for the 1975-76 Women Administrators Program at the Claremont Colleges. The program, funded by a grant from the Carnegie Corp. is designed to train women for major administrative positions in colleges and universities.

Four administrative fellows are selected each year during the three-year pilot program. Each receives $9,500 for the year, with up to $1,000 for dependent's allowance.

Mature women with substantial academic qualifications beyond the baccalaureate and faculty or administrative experience in educational institutions, associations and foundations are invited to apply.

Those selected participate fully in the activities of the presidents' offices and work with deans, development officers, faculty committees and committees of the boards of trustees.

They also attend educational conferences and confer with visiting experts called in to provide special guidance in various administrative fields. Each is assigned as tutor to another woman working in administration, and each is expected to prepare a major paper.

Applications for next year's program must be postmarked no later than Jan. 6, and are available from: Mary Ellen Mead, Project Coordinator, Women Administrators Program, Harper Hall, the Claremont Colleges, Claremont, 91711. Those accepted will be notified in April.

Garey Hi kicks off action

By STEVE TRENHOLME
Garey Reporter

Garey High School's "Just An Old Fashioned Love Song" homecoming week activities will be held Tuesday noon, through Saturday night.

The week-long celebration begins with a rope tug-of-war contest between pre-selected teams during lunch period. Wednesday afternoon, students will take turns pummeling a junked car with a sledge hammer. That night a Garey High faculty-Pomona fireman basketball game will be held in the Garey gym at 7. Participating instructors who will play are Lawson Bush, Mike Wells, Simon Tolbert, Monse Estrada, and Dean Holcomb.

A powder puff football game will be held Thursday, with girls tossing the pigskin, while boys act as cheerleaders. Ken Sockwell, Reggie Stafford, Ralph Weiss, John Sargent, Donald Ramzy, Doug Hughes, Bill Evans, Jerome Wade, Vic Newton, and Bobby Archuletta will cheer the girls on.

Four events are set for Friday. The day begins with a homecoming rally where the queen candidates will be introduced. They will be escorted by the young men of their choice. An Alumni tea in the library will follow the rally. That afternoon, a parade will be held with decorated cars. A prize will be given to the club whose car best captures the spirit of the homecoming theme, "Just An Old Fashioned Love Song."

A band called The Six Fingered Funk will entertain at the homecoming dance Friday from 8 p.m. until 1 a.m. in the gymnasium.

Saturday night, the week's activities will climax as the homecoming queen is crowned during half-time ceremonies at the Garey-Chino football game at Mt. San Antonio College stadium in Walnut.

The court from which the queen will be picked includes Martha Duran, Brenda Landon, Cindy Drew, Priscilla Aragon, and Linda Mendoza. The girls will arrive in antique cars, escorted by their fathers.

Home brew fatal to 63 Pakistanis

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (UPI) — A batch of home distilled whisky killed 63 people in Karachi, newspaper reports said Wednesday.

The reports said 12 others who drank the clandestinely brewed liquor were hospitalized. Eleven were dangeriously ill and five were blinded.

Trade with Red China expanding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials say the United States is interested in expanding bilateral trade with the People's Republic of China, but that any joint Washington-Peking effort to ease world food and energy problems would be premature.

While bilateral trade with China is increasing faster than expected, these officials say, there have been no suggestions from Peking the two countries might cooperate to ease food and energy problems for developing nations.

The officals responded to suggestions by Dr. Harned Pettus Hoose, a consulting professor of international business at the graduate business school of the University of California. Hoose recently returned from Peking, where he met with Chinese officials.

U.S. officials said it was too early to attempt Hoose's proposal for Sino-American cooperation in providing emergency food, financing and medical supplies for developing nations, including joint reconstructon of ravaged areas in Asia, and in developing China's petroleum and mineral wealth with U.S. technology.

"That type of cooperation is a long, long way down the road," one State Department source said. "Actually, they have not indicated any kind of interest in such cooperation."

Some officials expressed doubt that Peking would ever be interested in such cooperative ventures because of deep political differences with the United States. They also noted that China, rather than invite U.S. development of Chinese petroleum fields, recently used the forum of the United Nations to congratulate Arab nations for using oil as a political weapon against the industrialized West.

China experts within the State Department note that self-reliance is a major virtue in China, and that Peking's leaders historically have taken pride in doing things themselves.

For this reason, U.S. officials are pleasantly surprised at the unexpected pace of growth in trade between the two countries, although they say they cannot explain it. The latest Commerce Department figures indicate that two-way trade will rise from a few million dollars annually before the 1972 diplomatic breakthrough to $1 billion by the end of 1974 and will soon surpass China's volume of trade with the Soviet Union.

Doesn't think of moon, just future

Pete Conrad not one to reminisce

DENVER (UPI) — It would be easy to understand if sometimes Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr., slumped back and dreamed of a time five years ago and a place 250,000 miles from earth.

But the former astronaut, who retired earlier this year after four flights and 1,180 hours in space, including a trip to the moon, thinks of the future—not the past.

Surrounded by mementoes of the past and sipping coffee from a mug bearing the picture of a spacecraft, the former U.S. Navy captain said he was not a person to reminisce.

"Oh, sure, sometimes I think about it, but I don't step out of the house and see the moon and start reflecting on the flight of Apollo 12," said Conrad, 44, now vice president, operations and chief operating officer of the American Television and Communications Corp.

"All that is history," Conrad said during an interview in his sixth-floor office with a spectacular view of the Colorado Rockies. "Sure, I've got pleasant memories of all four of my flights. I enjoyed everything I did, but that was yesterday."

Conrad, trim, short (slightly over 5 feet 6), balding, looks more like a businessman than an astronaut. But his office tells another story. It is covered with photographs and mementoes of each of his flights—Gemini 5 in 1965, Gemini 11 in 1966, Apollo 12 in 1969 and Skylab I in 1973.

"You know, most people will think of the moon flight," said Conrad, who was spacecraft commander of Apollo 12 when he walked on the moon's Ocean of Storms.

"That's unfortunate because I think Skylab historically will be the flight that really opened the door to man's complete usefulness in space with respect to us on earth. Going to the moon? Well, the public thinks of the more spectacular things."

Conrad, who lives in a rented home in Denver with his wife, Jane, and three of their sons— the fourth, Peter, 19, attends San Jacinto Junior College in Houston—says he is rarely recognized.

"Occasionally somebody that may have had something to do with the (space) program might be on the same airliner, and they can't resist telling the stewardess or somebody else who I am," he said. "The next thing you know, everybody knows. But really, people don't recognize my face, and I prefer it that way."

Conrad said there may have been a brief flurry of excitement when neighbors discovered who he was, but that also has disappeared.

"That wears off very fast when everyboyd finds out that I put my pants on the same way and I don't have green horns coming out of my head," he said. "After the first initial round of questions, I'm just like everybody else."

Conrad nodded to a thick sheaf of papers on a coffee table, only a few feet away from a model of the lunar module "Intrepid" which he and Alan L. Bean rode to the moon in a November flight nearly five years ago.

"That is a computer printout of the voice conversation on Apollo 12 while we were on the lunar surface," Conrad said. "They are just now getting around to correlating that to each one of the samples we brought back so they can put together a book that will show why we picked up various rocks.

"It's coming up on five years now. A geologist told me six months ago they have gotten through the preliminary look at the rocks we brought back and now were getting down to the serious study. And it's going to take them 10 years to sort out all of the solar data they've got."

Conrad said he now serves on a panel of consultants to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on the proposed space shuttlecraft and manages to keep in touch with his former fellow astronauts.

"All the guys that flew with me are very close, and I see them quite frequently," he said. "I hear from Dick Gordon and Al Bean and Paul Weitz and Joe Kerwin. I know what everybody is doing."

Conrad said the photographs and souvenirs in his office—the pieces of heat shield from each of his flights, the lunar landing modules, the NASA space helmets, the photographs of the moon, the model of a hook used to get a solar wing out on Skylab, the photograph of the sun—don't really remind him of the past.

"This is just an accumulation of 12 years and it's only part of what I have," he said. "They sat in my office in Houston, and I kept adding to the walls as something went on.

$200,000 Duesenberg, 1,700-pipe organ

For wife who has everything, two museums

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI) — The noise of a train whistle is followed by a clanging bell. Steam engine sounds fill the air, first chugging slowly, then picking up speed. Suddenly the entire building throbs as 1,700 burnished organ pipes burst forth with the strains of "Chattanooga Choo-Choo."

The most jaded visitors are overwhelmed by their introduction to the sound of the Wurlitzer organ housed in San Sylmar the Merle Norman Tower of Beauty.

The six story 'Tower' is the creation of J.B. Nethercutt chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Merle Norman Cosmetics, a West Los Angeles-Based firm.

The museum houses two basic collections, one including more than 80 fully-restored antique cars which range from a 1934 Duesenberg Dual Cowl Phaeton, valued at $200,000, to a 1930 Model A Ford.

The musical collection is he result of Nethercutt's 1968 search for an anniversary present, "something she didn't have three of," for his wife, Dorothy.

While shopping for a music box, Nethercutt was shown a reference collection of orchestrions by a firm which offered to order an instrument for him.

Found earlier in the century in ice cream parlors, ballrooms and taverns, orchestrions are literally giant music boxes, containing enough instruments to make up an entire orchestra. Usually wall-size, they operate similar to player pianos.

"J.B. is not one to wait," curator Byron Matson said. "He bought the whole reference collection."

Lining the walls of the music room are the orchestrions. A 1926 Hupfeld Excelsio-Pan model has three statues and two real accordians in its facade. A 1923 Popper Gladiator, one of at least 20 orchestrions at San Sylmar held up a collapsing roof of a storage building during southern California's 1971 earthquake, saving many items in San Sylmar from serious damage.

But it is the the Wurlitzer organ's three-hand console which occupies the place of honor in a pit in the room's center. Its original 14 ranks of pipes have been expanded to 25, giving it over 1,700 pipes which have all been mounted behind glass, allowing viisitors to watch them as the instrument plays.

No less brilliant and nostalgic is the Nethercutts' classic automobile collection. The cars are displayed in San Sylmar's Grand Salon Showroom, it's 30-foot high Italian marble pillars supporting a ceiling embellished by 13 artists for four months.

Leaving San Symlar is a cultural shock. Moving from beneath its Bavarian Crystal Chandeliers past a console where armed guards monitor a bank of television screens and into the haze-and-asphalt world of Los Angeles 30 miles away is like a rude awakeing from a pleasant dream.

Union of Soviet Socialist Republics

Detente with West: crackdown at home

MOSCOW (UPI) — While proclaiming detente abroad, the Soviet Union is engaged in a widespread clampdown on Western ideas at home.

One of the biggest ideological campaigns of recent years has unfolded over the past few weeks through regional Communist party meetings accompanied by a flurry of newspaper publicity.

Frequently, concern is expressed over an influx of Western ideas, apathy toward the Communist system and lingering religious beliefs.

"The struggle between two world outlooks is becoming more complicated and extensive," the Communist party newspaper Pravda said in a typical article. "New and high demands are being made on ideological work."

The campaign came into the open Aug. 31 when Pravda published an obscure item about ideological work in Byelorussia on the Polish border where "the working people are being raised up in the spirit of intolerance toward bourgeois and revisionist ideologies."

It soon became apparent that Byelorussia was meant as an example to the rest of the nation. Party meetings in several other regions decided to follow the Byelorussian example.

Pravda said the Byelorussian experiment with the enrolment of 1.8 million workers in Marxist study courses is a "systematic approach to problems of shaping a new man."

Universities, intellectuals and the media have been enlisted to help solve "pressing problems of scientific Communism."

The campaign is clearly aimed at stifling ideas that officials fear could take root in the climate of detente. Pravda said it entails "a struggle against philistine selfishness, money-grubbing and foreign morality."

life there is not even a pretense of democracy," it said.

The newspaper Sovietskaya Estonia in Tallinn said there are "two kinds of democracy — only one is true." In capitalist countries, democracy is confined to elections "but in all other spheres of

In the Ukraine, Ivan Shcherbitsky, first secretary of the regional party committee, said ideologists "must improve the political vigilance of our people." He warned detente had brought an increase of antiSoviet activity by "foreign ideological centers and bourgeois nationalist organizations."

The campaign appears to be aimed at nationalism areas— particularly the Baltic republics, the Ukraine and Georgia.

In Estonia, the party committee adopted a plan to increase propaganda among students after hearing a report that the local educational system is riddled with the spirit of "bourgeois nationalism."

The report, read by committee member Vladimir I. Vialias, said knowledge of Russian among Estonians is insufficient. It chided Estonian writers "for not giving enough importance to Soviet patriotism" and told TV and radio directors to put more pro-Soviet content in children's programming.

In Latvia, where a large part of the population is Roman Catholic, Sovietskaya Latvia said there should be greater emphasis on "atheistic upbringing, the shaping of a materialistic outlook and the cultivation of Soviet civic traditions."

Moskovskaya Pravda complained that many university students in the capital have only "formal attitudes" toward courses on Marxism-Leninism and a "considerable number" skip the courses altogether.

"We must try to make each lecture show young people the richness of the Leninist theoretical heritage and give them a deep understanding of its significance."

Pravda said many young people may be turned off by communism because propaganda work is sometimes marred by "indifference, drabness and empty cant. The experience of life shows that nothing inflicts as great a damage to ideological work."

REDS FROWN on this type of "deviationist art" exhibited during a controversial Moscow park art show Sept. 29 which was broken up by the secret police. Western press was critical of actions.

Soviets remember spy

The execution, which coincided with the 27th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, ended one of the world's most successful cloak-and-dagger careers.

Russian historians say Sorge, who was given the nation's top award, "hero of the Soviet Union," went to the gallows crying, "Long live the Soviet Union and the Red Army."

The Soviets say one of his greatest coups was to inform the Kremlin in advance of the date of the Nazi invasion of Poland.

He was also able to give the Soviet Union the date of Hitler's attack on Russia and was among the first to know that Japan planned to enter the Pacific war — information which may have saved Moscow.

Sorge, limping from a World War I leg-wound, started spying for the Soviet Union in 1929 and began his brilliant intelligence career in Tokyo four years later.

Posing as a Nazi journalist, he ingratiated himself so closely with the German Embassy in Tokyo that he acted as unofficial press attache.

But he found his double-life nerve-wracking and ardous. A clandestine communication to Moscow Oct. 7, 1938 said: "We are exhausted and tense, but we remain disciplined."

Ironically, Sorge's greatest triumph went unheeded. In the spring of 1941 he sent a stream of messages warning of Germany's plans to turn on the Soviet Union. He even wired the exact date.

Rank and file coal miners expect pending

By DENNIS MORABITO

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Sometimes the roof is so low that coal miner Dale McKain has to lean sideways to operate his three-foot tall digging machine.

Sometimes, he says, "you don't sit on the machines at all —you have to crawl alongside them in the mud.

"John Q. Public thinks you got a big living room to set in and all the luxuries of home," McKain says. "Maybe they should come into a mine where you walk on your hands and knees before they start criticizing."

McKain, of Kittanning, Pa., is one of 120,000 United Mine Workers who will walk out of the mines if there is no new contract agreement when the old one expires Tuesday. Labor negotiators in Washington have said a strike is virtually certain now, since even if a contract were agreed upon at once it could not be ratified by the rank-and-file before the Nov. 12 deadline.

McKain, who has worked in coal mines 19 years, says he's fed up with seeing workers in outside jobs making more money while enjoying safer working conditions.

He'd prefer both, but if it comes down to a vote, McKain says safety is more important.

"A strike will hurt me, but I'd rather have that than end up crippled," he said. "I figure I can always get another job somewhere else if I'm whole."

His defiance of public opinion stamps him as a mine worker. The UMW defied a president in World War II and struck the mines while the nation's war industries cried for coal. And a chief bargaining issue in current talks is how to stop wildcat walkouts which last year cost the industry 5 million tons of coal while the nation was heading toward an energy crisis.

August Manifest, a miner from Avonmore, Pa., about 40 miles east of Pittsburgh, says he used to go door to door telling union brothers to stay home while the late UMW President John L. Lewis told them publicly to obey the Taft-Hartley Act and end their infamous strike in 1944.

He says he'll do it again if the miners don't get what they're demanding.

"If we don't make it now, we never will," he said. "The demand for coal is more important that it was during the war. I'm loading coal now they couldn't sell during the war. It's actually mud."

"I think I'd go to jail for it, and if the government puts us all in jail, they'd have to feed our families. That's what we're striking for in the first place."

Both McKain and Manifest expect a long strike. "I expect it to last until New Years,'' Manifest said. McKain said the influx of young miners (22 to 30 years old) insures more difficulty in approving any pact during the 12-day ratification period.

"They're good union men, and they don't have families to worry about," he said.

Both men say coal miners are incensed by the fact that coal firms stand to triple their production, and possibly their profits, because of the energy crisis, while balking at certain wage and safety improvement demands.

"You got danger all the time," McKain said. "Everything is electrical and you're forever standing in mud and water. All you've got to light your way is that lamp on your helmet, and you never know what all that rock above you is going to do when you take out another section of coal.

"The ventilation that keeps you breathing also keeps you chilled. You take an animal and tie him in a water hole day in and day out and he's going to be sick. A man is no different."

McKain and Manifest accept claims of an energy shortage, but they're suspicious of how it came about. And both are acutely aware that a substantial number of coal firms are wholly owned subsidiaries of oil firms.

"The price of house coal where I work went from $14 a ton to $28 a ton in the past year," Manifest said. "Under our contract miners can buy it wholesale at cost, which is $10. So that means $18 profit, or 180 per cent."

Yet despite their determination, coal miners have placed themselves in a tough financial situation. The leadership shut down the mines for a five-day memorial period last summer, ostensibly to honor mining dead, and wildcat strikes have flourished throughout the industry over safety and seniority issues.

In West Virginia, the problem has been compounded by strikes over fuel shortages last winter and a controversy over public school textbooks

The miners walked out during the energy crunch when West Virginia Gov. Arch Moore limited gasoline purchases to vehicles holding a quarter of a tank or less. They claimed they couldn't get to work and stayed out until Moore backed down.

The textbook controvesy, which has produced shootings, bombings, and beatings, resulted in several mine shutdowns when the miners joined a protest over books which they considered morally unfit for their children.

One young miner at a large Union Carbide Corp. mine at Blue Creek, W.Va., said he only got two days work during September because of picketing.

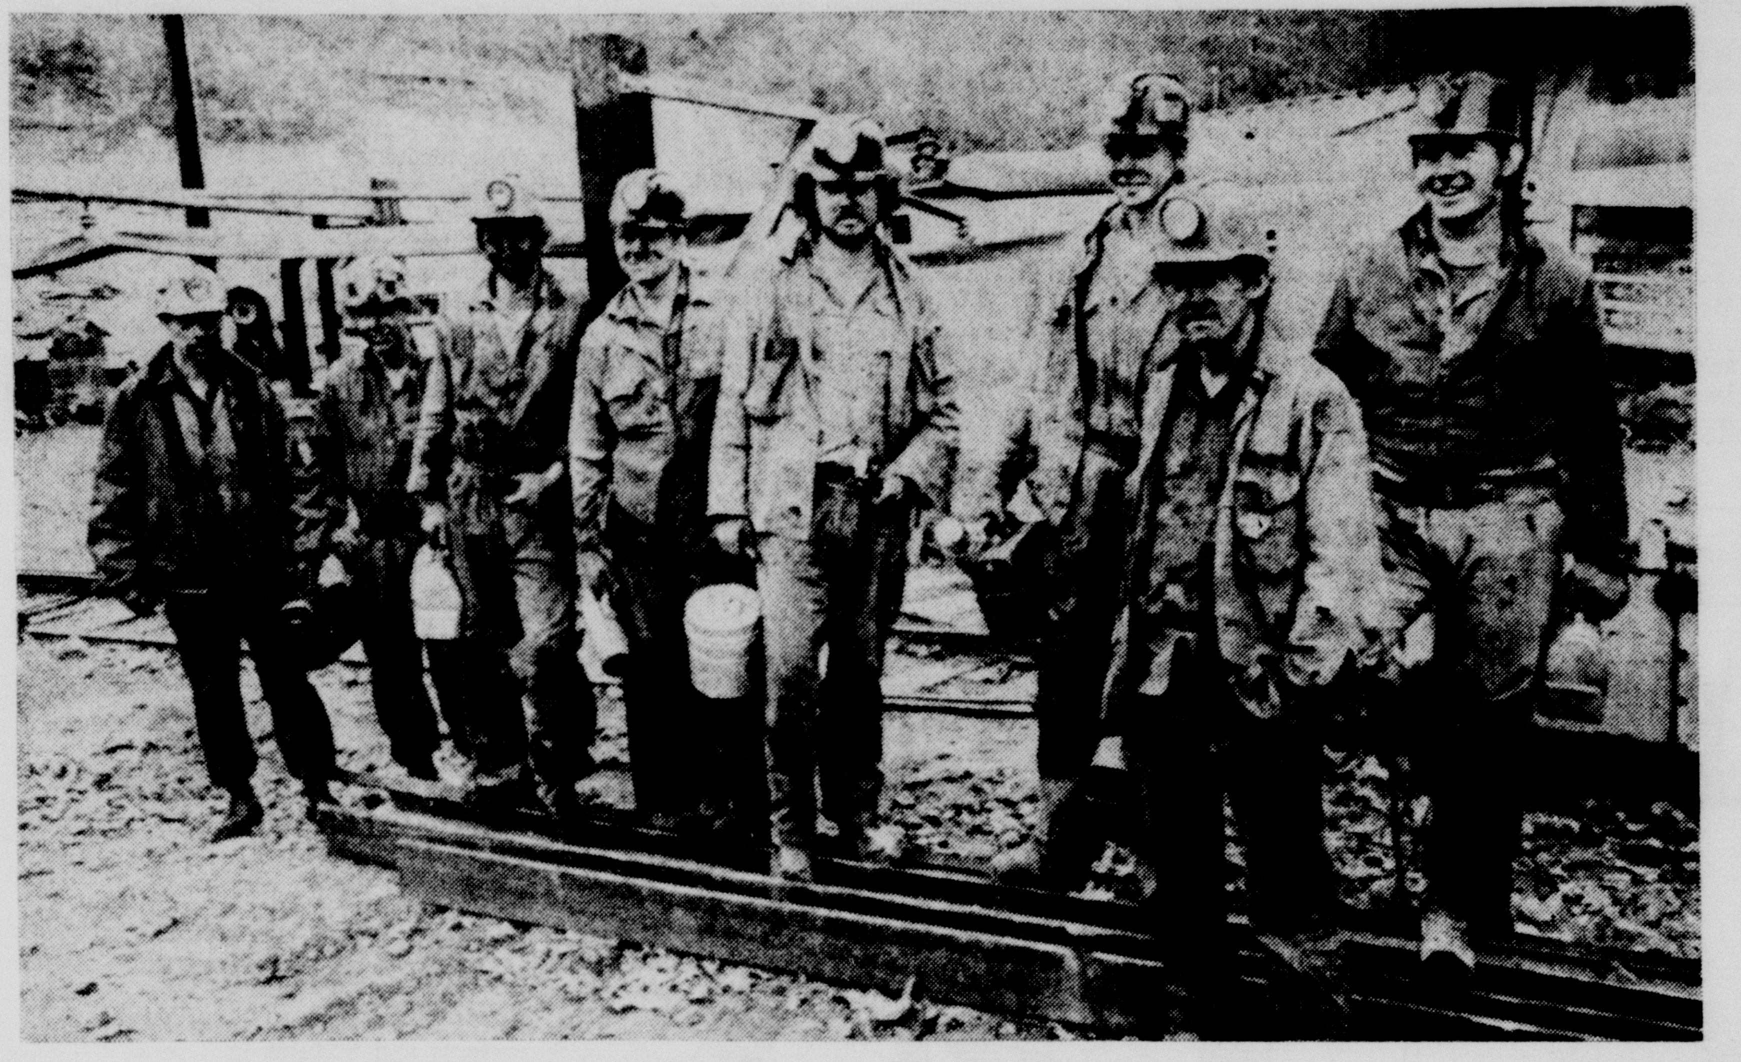
A wildcat strike over local issues at Consolidation Coal Co.'s Itman complex cut another miner's earnings to $3,300 through the first half of this year. He estimates he could have easily made $9,000 without the strike.

Dan Burleson, 28, a UMW District 28 field representative from Mullens, W.Va., says the miners are "not prepared financially, but they're prepared to stay out on strike until they get what they're after.

"Everybody I've talked to has a little garden and their wives are canning food. I've encouraged them to pay their bills ahead for a month or two."

The UMW continually denies that wildcats are intended to trim company coal reserves, but the results are obviously pleasing.

"One good thing about the wildcats," Burleson says, "the miners are in financially hard shape, but coal supplies can't be much better."



TYPICAL OF the 120,000 miners due to walk out Tuesday are these Blue Creek W. Va., workers coming off shift from a deep hill country mine. Miners are prepared for a long shutdown.

Poodle big favorite

The poodle is the dog most favored by Americans. There are nearly 200,000 registered poodles, more than twice the number of registered German sheperds, the second most popular dog.

Big reservoir

Toledo Bend Reservoir with a controlled storage capacity of 4,477,000 acre-feet of water is the largest man-made body of water in the South. It is 65 miles long and has 1,265 miles of shoreline.

Population boost

In an effort to increase the population after the turn of the century, the government of Australia, on Oct. 14, 1912, announced a $25 bonus to be paid to the parents of every newborn baby.

Big cat

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The largest flathead catfish ever recorded in Caliornia was a 51-pound, 8-ounce whopper caught in the Colorado River in 1973.

DEPRESSION ART "FOUND"

Public Offered 1937 U.S. Gov't Art Prints

Imagine, if you can, finding several thousand sets of antique prints of the world's greatest paintings that were lost for more than 35 years! It actually happened . . . and this is the true story of the discovery of that lost treasure.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries—the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned In 1937

For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

Through a series of rare coincidences, the lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agreed that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction was incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 was spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates. It would be impossible to reproduce prints such as these under existing methods, and for that reason these prints are literally collector's items. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public

These authentic original 1937 prints have been appraised by the American Appraisers' Assn. at $7.00 each print. Now, these full color 11"x14" prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to U.S. Surplus, Dept. E14, 18584 Ventura Blvd., Tarzana, Calif. 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercharge and Bankamericard OK (give card number)

Archeologist sifts Tucson garbage

By ARTHUR J. LINGLE

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The pot of gold at the end of Tucson's rainbow could be a garbage can.

At least, that's the finding of a survey of the city's garbage taken over a two-year period.

An extrapolation of survey figures shows that over a year Tucson residents throw away $570,000 worth of beef, $1,326,000 worth of vegetables and $750,000 worth of pastries.

In all, Tucsonans discard over 9,500 tons of edible food a year valued at between $9 and $11 million.

The figures are from a project started at the University of Arizona by William L. Rathje, an assistant professor of anthropology, and a team of student volunteers who plow through the garbage cans sorting out and cataloguing the trash.

"I'm an archeologist and as an archeologist I've always been interested in the relationship between material culture and behavior," said Rathje, 29, a Harvard Ph.D., who explained that he questions the value of information obtained on the basis of what people say they do, instead of what they actually are observed doing.

"The problem is whether data actually represents what they do, what they think they do, what they want an interviewer to think they do. Now if you look at the material remains of behavior, like garbage, then you've got data on what actually people did."

So Rathje and his students have been studying garbage, using 19 census tracts representating all economic levels in Tucson, a desert city of 450,000 population.

Their findings:

—Sixty per cent of the garbage was straight waste (items of large quantity such as a whole uncooked steak or a half eaten apple).

—Ten per cent of the food brought into sample households ended up in the garbage.

—Middle income families waste more than low income families.

Hovercraft seen as fast freight carriers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Those remarkable air cushion machines that skim so easily over land and sea are headed for big-time use as high-speed freighters and warships, according to a new study.

And the hydrofoil, which lifts its hull above the surface on skis and wings, also figures prominently in commercial and military planning.

The new edition of Jane's Surface Skimmers, a hefty, $40 encylopaedia on the subject, suggests demand is threatening to exceed production of these sea, swamp and desert-skimming vessels.

Jane's Editor and Compiler, Roy McLeavy, said:

"The industry's latest concepts include a 500-ton freightcarrying craft that operates at 200 knots (230 mph); an air cushion icebreaking unit that locks onto the bows of ships entering arctic waters; 1,300 ton hydrofoil warships with trans-ocean range for escort duties; massive hoverbarges and platforms for carrying drill rigs and plant across deserts and tundra; and air cushion crawler tractors for traversing marshes and bogs."

The British first exploited hydrofoils and air cushion vehicles. Now, the Soviet Union is building, modifying and designing them as enthusiastically as the West.

Countries now operating or planning to operate military hydrofoils include Albania, China, France, West Germany, Italy, Pakistan, the Soviet Union and the United States.

East and West are also developing fuel-saving acrofoil boats, known to the Soviets as ekranoplans.

Southern California blahs

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Senior Editor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Radio programs are interrupted:

"This is a health advisory from the Air Pollution Control District. Residents of the San Gabriel Valley area are advised to curtail physical activities on the part of school students, persons with respiratory and cardiac diseases. The APCD suggests voluntary reduction in vehicular traffic."

The announcement has been made three dozen times this year.

Citizens sweltering in their automobiles on clogged freeways accept the bulletin stoically. There is nothing else they can do.

Reactions of Southern Californians are much the same toward the state of the country. The mood for the most part is docility, wait-and-see. Ennui.

The machinations of Watergate, the burden of Vietnam provided a focal point, a target for activists. They served to distract California residents from closer-to-home problems of inflation, deadly smog and increased crime in the street.

With the ascendance of Gerald Ford to the presidency there appears to be no spiritual revival on the part of Californians.

By and large, the people are happy Watergate is behind them, but its aftermath has been cynicism toward the government in general and California politicians specifically.

"There have never been so many houses for sale in Beverly Hills," realtor Mike Silverman said. "And I mean houses which average a quarter million dollars. People are pulling their horns in."

THE MOOD OF AMERICA

"With interest rates at 11 per cent we're still selling houses,'' Silverman said. ''There are always rich people willing to pay the price."

This year the 8th Annual Watts Summer Festival showed a loss of $500,000, the first time the black community's weeklong carnival of arts and entertainment had gone into the red.

Only 6-7,000 persons attended the rock concert in the Los Angeles Coliseum compared with 70,000 in 1973.

The reason: Fear.

Festival worker Jerry Skinner said, "Gang warfare kept people away this year. Watts is more explosive than ever. Gangs are killing more now. But it's black against black, not black against white.

"People in Watts are shying away from riots now. The Los Angeles Police Department is too rough. There are more cops down here at night than ever before. Blacks don't have much time for whitey; they're too busy jumping their own brothers and sisters."

Skinner and other Watts residents agree that the end of the Vietnam war and the change of White House administrations means little to the black community.

"He's just another whtie President," one woman, 26, said. "He may be an improvement over Nixon but he better forget about foreign affairs and do something about the economic crisis."

Economics has replaced social injustice as Topic A in all strata of this area.

Unrest on the campus has switched from dissatisfaction with foreign policy and minority discrimination to beating back inflation. Tuition at the University of Southern California has jumped to almost $3,000 a year.

The economy, too, has taken its toll among footloose youngsters who were once called hippies. Pot-smoking, longhaired vagrants in sandals have all but disappeared from the Sunset Strip. They are entering their 30s now and have settled down to long-term commitments in such communities as Venice, hard by Santa Monica.

There appears to be no widespread "cause" for young people, no rallying cry, no firebrand leaders.

Southern California, famed for the outlandish, for its jauntiness and verve, has assumed an almost doleful mood. Like the ever-present smog which stains the sunshine, the aftereffects of Watergate combined with rampant inflation have left their mark.

GI drug use low but not deaths

BONN (UPI) — Although U.S. Army studies show that use of hard drugs by soldiers is decreasing, American GIs continue to die of overdoses.

Army tests indicated that by July, only about 1 per cent of American soldiers in Europe used hard drugs, down from a high of more than 3 per cent.

Nevertheless, two teen-aged servicemen assigned to an engineering battalion stationed in the industrial and university city of Darmstadt, Germany, died of drug overdoses Saturday, the army revealed Wednesday.

Although Spec. 4 Gary L. Clapp, of Wheatland, Iowa, and Spec. 4 Jeffrey L. Johnson, from the Bronx, N.Y., both served in Company D of the 547th Engineer battalion, other members of the unit said they had little in common.

Medical corps sources said that at least one of the two 19-year-olds, maybe both, had injected himself with heroin spiked with strychnine, a combination street-wise GI's know as "bad skag."

The deaths led the executive officer of the unit to order company commanders to warn their troops "of a dangerous mixture of heroin that is being traded."

Less than three months earlier, another young soldier assigned to Darmstadt died in the city's Technical University.

Until the Court of Military Appeals in Washington decided in July that soldiers could not be forced to submit to urinalysis, the command conducted such tests at random among all soldiers 26 years of age or less — what it called "the high risk group" —to detect hard drug users.

Col. Erik G. Johnson, the command's public affairs officer, said in reply to questions Wednesday that before the court stopped urinalysis, the command conducted about 50,000 tests of this and other kinds per month.

"Our medically confirmed rate (of hard drug use) for July, 1974, our last testing period was 1.07 percent," Johnson said.

At one point during the preceding 18 months, the use rate peaked at 3.17 per cent, "and in July of 1973, it was 2.51 per cent," he said.

"It gradually decreased over the following months except for a slight increase last February," he added.

Pediatrician's pet project

SINISTER GARDEN

Dr. Guy Hartman (left) examines poison castor bean plant and views entire garden (center). Pat Wilks, 11, (right) checks exhibit board explaining each deadly plant in garden at Kaiser—Permante Hospital.

By BARBARA RAUCH
P-B Staff Writer

Many common ornamental house and garden plants contain enough poison that if accidentally eaten could kill an entire family, said Dr. Guy Hartman an Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center pediatrician.

Noting that 300 cases were treated at the Fontana hospital last year in which persons had swallowed poisonous plants, Hartman had a "Sinister Garden" planted in front of the medical center.

Filled with 17 poisonous common flower and vegetables plants, the steel-fenced garden is meant to help educate parents and children. Each plant is labeled and keyed to an exhibit sign explaining what they are, which parts are poisonous and what symptoms occur if the plants are eaten.

"This doesn't mean that gardens containing such plants as azaleas, oleanders or wisteria should be uprooted but rather that parents and children alike should learn to recognize and avoid the dangers in these and many other plants," Hartman stated earnestly.

Plants in the Sinister Garden include oleander, all parts; poinsetta, juice of leaves, stem or flower which can cause blindness; calla, all parts; azalea, all parts; holly berries; rhubarb leaf; iris leaves, root and stalk; and daffodil, narcissus and jonquil bulbs.

"Mushrooms still are the most common source of poisoning we see," Hartman said. People have died after eating only one-third of a cup and more than 50 per cent of those affected die, he said.

Next to mushrooms, most cases of plant poisoning are caused by the castor bean. This ornamental tree is very dangerous with all parts of the plant capable of causing fatal poisoning, if eaten.

The oleander, found in most Southland neighborhoods, has been known to cause fatal poisoning by people using the branches as a stick for skewering meat for barbequeing.

Even parts of that staple of American diet, — the potato are poisonous, including the green spots and the sprouts.

Hartman a doctor at the Fontana hospital for the past 22 years got the idea for the Sinister Garden several years ago when as a Claremont Scout Master he and his troops did an exhibit on common poisonous plants for the May Scout-O-Rama held at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds in Pomona.

"There was so much interest in the exhibit that I did one for the doctors at the hospital. Again there was a great deal of interest so I tried to think of some way to get the idea across to the parents and children. A picture is worth a thousand words and a living exhibit is worth even more," he said.

Finding the hospital administrator and board receptive to the idea, Hartman with a grant from the board, had the garden planted last spring. "I haven't been disappointed," he said. "The garden has attracted the attention I expected and more. I've had calls from as far away as Dayton, O., asking about it."

President sees growth

Chamber is optimistic in forecast

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce will launch its annual membership campaign Tuesday amid a growing sense of optimism in the Pomona business community.

Bob Lewis, chamber president, has set a goal of 40 new members for the three-day campaign and predicts continued enthusiasm on the part of business leaders in the community.

"At the chamber we believe we have a responsibility to be involved not only in the concerns of the business community, but in the community as a whole," said Lewis.

To that end, he continued, the chamber was recently involved in the campaign to defeat Proposition A on the Los Angeles County ballot, which would have imposed an additional one-cent sales tax for rapid transit. The chamber also backed efforts of the Valley Association of Cities in combating abandoned housing.

"If the business community is going to prosper and be a healthy entity in the community, the business community has to recognize its need to make a sincere and continued contribution to the community in all areas," he said.

"We need to be involved in the social aspects of the community, in the youth areas of our community, in the needs and concerns of the elderly. We have to consider all those things. They are vital to the community," he added.

One of the chamber's main functions, said Lewis, is keeping local businessman informed and updated on problems and needs in the community, and potential effects of new and proposed laws.

Chamber members, he said, are optimistic over current trends of business in Pomona and look for continued growth

Specifically, he said, the completion of the downtown financial center and the antique square on Pomona Mall East would help rejuvenate the downtown area.

"The financial center typifies the confidence that the financial giants have in the community of Pomona," Lewis said.

The community of Pomona has a lot to offer, he continued, including a large potential workforce, good commercial and industrial sites, and attractive educational facilities.

"We're also very happy with the relationship that has developed between the business community and Pomona city government. We have very good communication and are able to resolve differences when they occur," said Lewis.

"We have an atmosphere of enthusiasm in the community we haven't had for a long time. We're very definitely headed in the right direction."

"It would be naive to say we don't have problems, but every community does," he emphasized. "Our goal at the chamber is to help the community continue improving."

Conversational French

Volunteer shatters language barrier

By GEORGE McLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

The petite woman blinked her eyes, and motioned energetically with her hands as French came rolling off her tongue in a delightful dialect.

Mrs. Nicole Kearney, a half-inch under five feet, born in France but a resident of Claremont for several years, volunteers her time to speak conversational French to advanced students in Mrs. Penny Herman's class at Claremont High.

Her enthusiasm in her endeavors has earned her many positive evaluations by students invited during the year to put down in writing what they think of their teachers.

One student said that Mrs. Kearney breaks down the wall which sometimes exists between teacher and student. Another admired her ability to make French a language one can enjoy speaking. No English is spoken in French IV or French V.

Born in Biarritz, France, on the Atlantic Coast, Mrs. Kearney met her husband Michael J. there while he was awaiting discharge from the service at the end of World War II.

Married in Cleveland, O., the couple moved to Claremont when Kearney became associate director of development at Harvey Mudd College.

As a member of the Campus Wives, Mrs. Kearney was approached by a mother who said that it was a shame there was no foreign language taught at Condit School.

Mrs. Kearney started the after-school language program at Condit, which during a financial pinch was cut back.

But the program was so successful that 13 parents asked Mrs. Kearney to continue tutoring children in French.

The Kearneys moved to the San Francisco Bay area for a short while, and then returned to Claremont which they both love.

Five years ago, Mrs. Herman asked Mrs. Kearney if she would tell the French V class about France and its customs and habits.

Mrs. Kearney consented, and the students liked her so much she volunteered her time, and has been a popular teacher on the Claremont campus ever since.

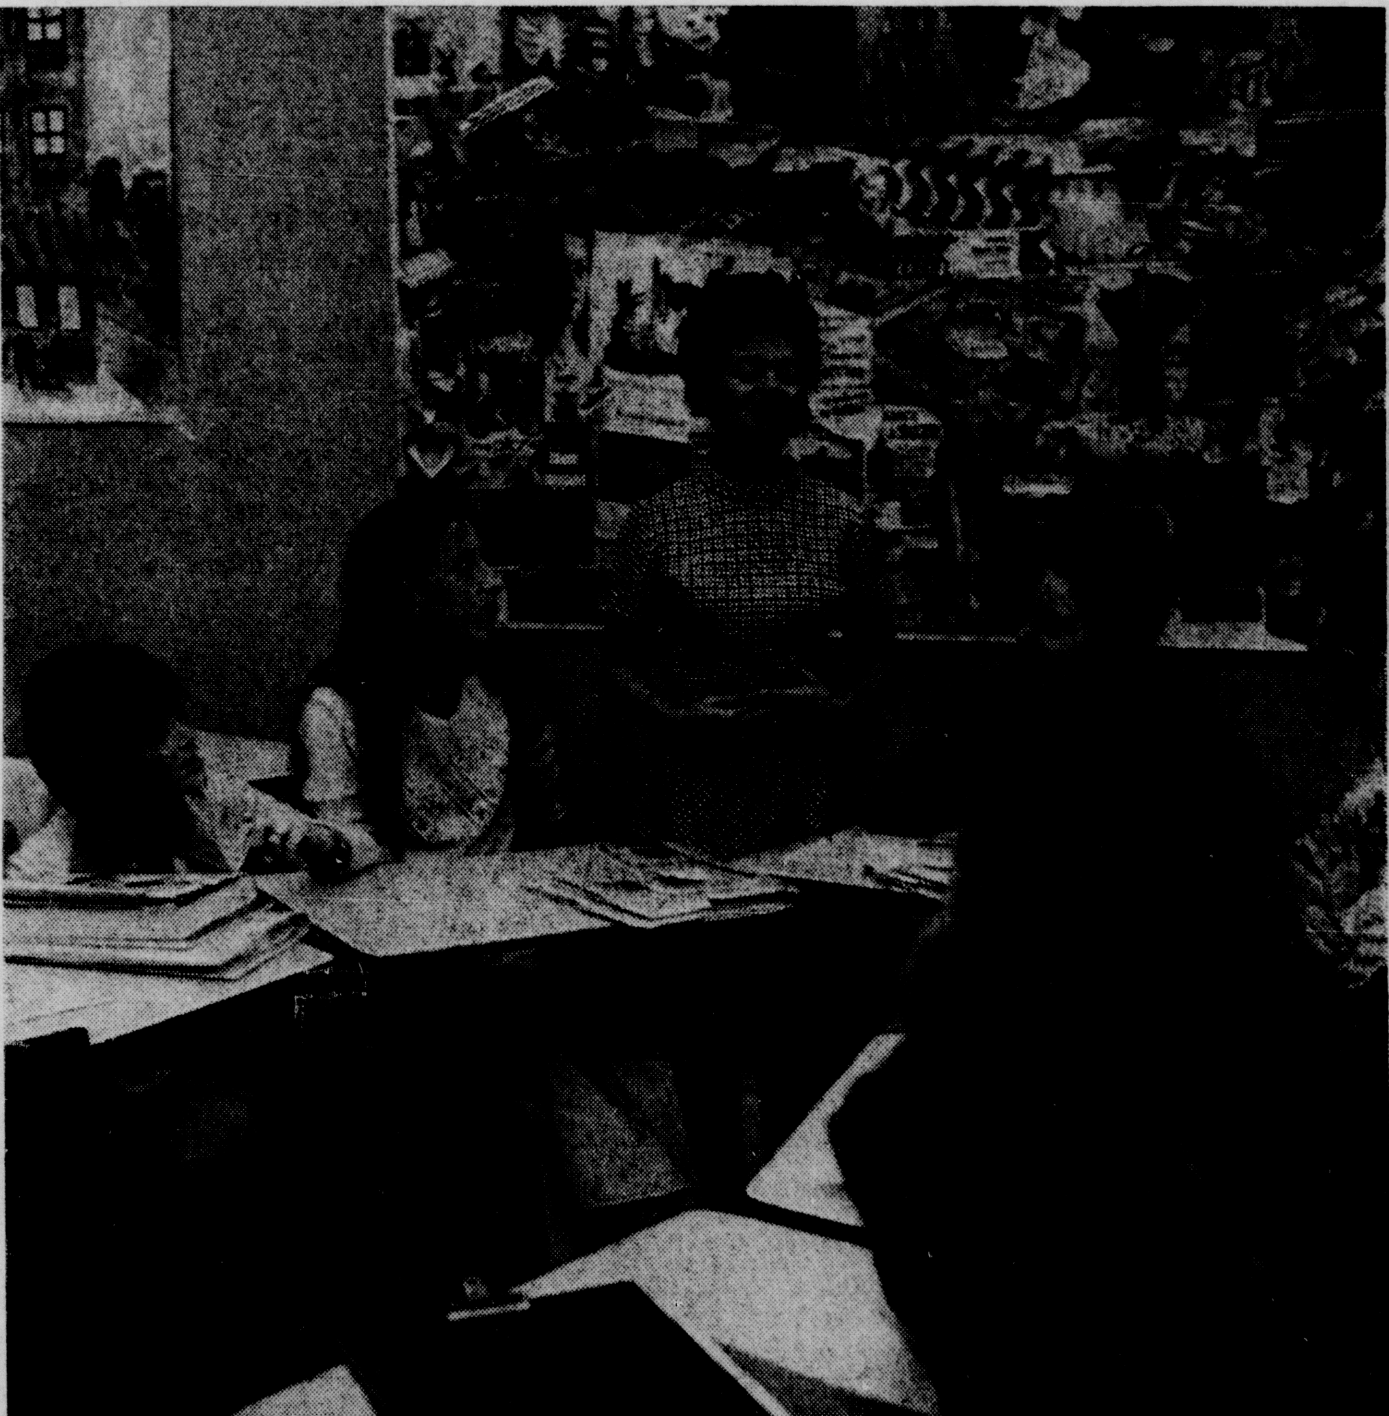
Mrs. Kearney believes it is easy to talk her native language to French students because French slang doesn't change as quickly as American.

As for her own use of English, she says:

"My French accent isn't so thick as some Frenchmen you meet. That strong accent, though, is carried into her English outside the classroom.

She also believes it is essential that everyone know a second language. At Claremont High, she said, the French students are taking their language studies seriously. In fact, two plan to become French teachers.



FRENCH TAUGHT ENTHUSIASTICALLY

Claremont High French teacher Penny Herman and students listen to Mrs. Nicole Kearney, center, as she explains how French teen-agers live and play. Mrs. Kearney is a native of coastal Biarritz France.

Suicide and Crisis Intervention Service

Group needs telephone volunteers

The Suicide and Crisis Intervention Service will begin training new volunteers Wednesday night in handling emergency telephone calls from those who can't cope with their problems, psychologist Howard Schuman announced today.

Schuman is president of the SCIS board of directors. He said that as the service goes into its third year of operation, providing free help for those in need, the program is being revamped and expanded.

Therefore, he said, more volunteers will be needed. Those who are selected will receive training from professionals. Then they will be assigned to handle phone calls from those who are desperately in need of help. A telephone service routes calls to homes of the volunteers on duty.

Those who are interested in being trained for such work are urged to contact the service at 987-5765 in the evenings, and 985-2504 during the day.

The Suicide and Crisis intervention Service serves the entire valley, from Alta Loma to Walnut and San Dimas, Schuman said.

Juvenile justice seminar set at Cal Poly

Judges, lawyers, probation officers, social workers, policemen and educators involved in the juvenile justice system will attend a Juvenile Court Conference Nov. 20 through 22 at Cal Poly Pomona.

"The Adversary Process and the Juvenile Court" will be the topic of the gathering sponsored by the Los Angeles County Superior Court and the National Council of Juvenile Court Judges, according to Los Angeles County Juvenile Court Judge William P. Hogoboom.

Other subject topics during the session will include "The Abused Child," "Violence—Crime or Revolution," "A Child's Right to Punishment" and "The Mentally Disordered Juvenile."

Social Security seeks disabled senior citizens

A search for senior citizens who may be eligible for the new Social Security payment is being conducted in San Bernardino County.

The program is jointly conducted by the Social Security Administration and Plan-Action for Senior Citizens, a member of the county's Council of Community Services.

The new Social Security payment, called Supplemental Security Income (SSI), is the federal program for the aged, blind and disabled who are in financial need. It replaces the public assistance programs formerly administered by the state.

Determining factors for eligibility are income and resources, said Lloyd Adams, Social Security district manager. For more information, persons may phone Plan-Action at (800) 472-5605, which is toll free for county residents.

Veterans' assistance, counseling opens Thursday

Beginning Thursday any veteran needing advice, assistance or counseling in any area will be able to get it by contacting the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 2018, of Pomona.

Post Commander Fred Vigil will be available at the VFW Hall from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Thursdays.

EDITORIAL Opinion

Racism erupts when it's forced

One aspect of the continuing "flight from the cities" that has received little attention from the sociologists and social reformers is the fact that this is far from being strictly a white phenomenon.

Perhaps it was in the beginning, but today, as more and more blacks climb up at least a few rungs on the ladder of affluence, more and more of them are moving into formerly all-white suburbs near metropolitan areas all over the nation.

They are motivated by the same desires as were the whites before them — to live in a decent home in a decent community, to send their children to schools that are not crumbling and plagued with crime and to escape from the deterioration and degradation of the inner cities.

Yet when whites fled from blacks or poor whites, it was called racism or class snobbery. When blacks flee from blacks — and that is what they are doing whether or not anyone admits it — it is called upward mobility, if it is not ignored entirely by those who see only the shortcomings of American society and dismiss its accomplishments.

For the most part, this migration is taking place with a minimum of racial strife and that comes usually in the initial stages. Suburban whites are discovering that when blacks move in, the neighborhood does not automatically go to hell; property values do not fall but continue to rise, as they are rising everywhere in an inflationary economy. They are learning that blacks just want the same things they do. Many white families are realizing that there is no place left to flee and that they have to make integration work.

America's racial problem is not a problem of the suburbs. It is a problem of the cities. And in the cities, the problem is not that of integration per se, either in housing or in schools. The legal aspects of that battle have been fought and won by the blacks. It is when integration is massive and overwhelming or when it is artificially forced that there is conflict.

We see an example of the former in a city like Cleveland, where the black ghetto is expanding into and sometimes around old, established white ethnic areas. We see an example of the latter in Boston, where children of both races are being arbitrarily taken out of their neighborhoods and bused to distant, "quota-ized" schools.

Even there, the conflict has arisen not so much from the fact that black children are being placed in white schools as that white children are being forced to attend black schools of inferior quality. There would be exactly the same kind of resistance from black parents who have managed to extricate themselves from the ghetto if the courts were to order their children back into it.

Rather than permitting, or being able to permit, integration to proceed at its own natural pace on the basis of gradually increasing affluence among blacks, we are trying to compress an immensely difficult and complicated social process into a matter of months.

No nation has ever done this before. No society has ever attempted it. It is not surprising that there should be conflicts.

'Ultra' -- Britain's ultimate weapon

One of the most amazing stories to come out of World War II is the revelation in a book just published in England, "The Ultra Secret," that almost from the beginning of the war British intelligence had cracked the German high command's code.

According to the book's author, retired Group Capt. F.W. Winterbotham, a top member of the "Ultra" team of cryptographers from Dunkirk to D-day to the surrender the Allies intercepted and deciphered nearly every radio communication from Hitler and his generals to the Wehrmatcht, Luftwaffe and German navy — sometimes even before they were received by commanders in the field. "Ultra" was the name of a vast, supersecret system built around machines used to crack the German "Enigma" code.

"We knew where every German was and what he was going to do," says Winterbotham.

It is impossible to estimate the number of lives saved by this capability or the number of months, if not years, by which the war was shortened. One measure is the fact that the Battle of the Bulge, one of the Allies' worst setbacks, occurred because the German commander, von Rundstedt, did not use radio to disseminate his orders for the surprise counterattack.

What is no less amazing is that Hitler came as close to winning the war as he did even with one hand, in effect, tied behind his back. Like the Japanese, the cracking of whose code by the Americans made possible such victories as the Battle of Midway, he never suspected. One can only speculate, with a chill creeping up the spine, what history would have been like without this almost unbelievable achievement by the geniuses of code-breaking.

Congressional junkets cost plenty

WASHINGTON—Each year, members of Congress explore the world, riding elephants in Ceylon, viewing art in Sweden, fingering chopsticks in China, poking their legislative noses into faraway places from the girlie shows in Paris to the palaces in Riydahl.

As part of our watch on waste, we have reported how these congressional travelers have squandered the taxpayers' money on vacations in official guise. Congressional junkets cost the taxpayers an estimated $1 million a year, which is a lot of moola to spend on legislators who preach austerity for everyone else.

But the junkets that cost the taxpayers nothing, we have discovered, may wind up as the most expensive of all. Dozens of legislators take trips overseas at the expense of foreign governments. They are lavished with hospitality by their friendly foreign hosts. Then the touring lawmakers return to Capitol Hill to vote for foreign aid, sugar quotas and other benefits for the host governments.

Not only is it poor economics for our lawmakers to repay hospitality with foreign aid, but it is unconstitutional for them to accept the hospitality in the first place.

Our founding fathers, fearful that some federal officials might sell out their country for foreign gratuities, added a special clause to the Constitution. This prohibits them from taking any "emolument . . . of any kind whatever from any King, Prince or foreign state."

Yet the tourists from Capitol Hill have ignored the Constitution, not to mention the 1966 Foreign Gifts Act, by accepting illegal trips at the expense of foreign governments. Here are a few we have uncovered:

Fourteen months ago, eight members of the House Agriculture Committee traveled to Venezuela at the invitation of the government. Their travel on Viasa Airlines and their accomodations at the luxurious Tamanaco Hotel in Caracas were paid by the Venezuelan government. The congressional visitors — Congressman Bob Poage, D-Tex., Joseph Vigorito, D-Pa., Frank Denholm, D-S.D., Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, John Rarick, D-La., Bob Price, R-Tex., LaMar Baker, R-Tenn., and David Bowen, D-Miss. — attended at least one fancy party thrown by the Venezuelan Agriculture Minister who sought a U.S. wheat deal.

House Agriculture Chairman Bob Poage led still another congressional expedition to Brazil. The Brazilian government, looking for bigger sugar quotas, picked up the travel bills. Those who accompanied Poage on the free trip were Congressmen Frank Stubblefield, D-Ky., William Wampler, R-Va., George Goodling, R-Pa., John Zwach, R-Minn., Ed Jones, D-Tenn., Dawson Mathis, D-Ga., and Jerry Litton, D-Mo.

Mainland China has opened the bamboo curtain to a number of Marco Polos from Capitol Hill. Their travel expenses inside China have been paid by the Mao Tse-tung government. Among those who have accepted a free tour of China are Senators J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., John Sparkman, D-Ala., Gale McGee, D-Wyo., Henry Jackson, D-Wash., Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., Robert Griffin, R-Mich., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii; also Congressmen Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., John McFall, D-Calif., Jerry Pettis, R-Calif., Peter Frelinghuysen, R.N.J., William Mallard, R-Calif., William Broomfield, R-Mich., and Barbara Jordan, D-Tex.

The other China, governed by Chiang Kai-shek, has also rolled out the red carpet for congressional tourists. Congressmen Bob McClory, R-Ill., Bob Leggett, D-Calif., and Floyd Spence, R-S.C., were flown to Taiwan under the auspices of the Chinese Nationalist government. The bills were picked up, strictly speaking, by a Chinese foundation. A dozen staff members from Capitol Hill were also treated to a free Taiwan vacation. Ralph Vandervort, a Senate Space Committee staffer, explained to us that the trip was "kind of a public relations thing" by the Chiang Kai-shek regime.

Some three dozen Congressmen and their aides, led by House Democratic leader Thomas "Tip" O'Neill, flew en masse to both Taiwan and South Korea, courtesy of those governments. So heavy was the congressional tourist traffic in Taiwan that U.S. Ambassador Walter McConaughy cabled plaintively: "This influx of visitors . . . is straining embassy resources to the full."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., as we have previously reported, traveled to Iran, Pakistan, Ceylon, Indonesia and New Zealand with his wife and daughter. In violation of the Constitution, most of Hartke's expenses were footed by the host governments. The U.S. embassy in Ceylon was quietly alerted by the State Department that the Hartkes had "side interests in elephant ride, sightseeing tour and gem shopping."

Many individual members of Congress have seen the world as the guests of foreign governments. Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., took a free excursion to Sweden to visit art exhibit. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, flew to the Middle East at the expense of the Kuwaiti government and came back supporting the Arabs. Even Attorney General William Saxbe, while he was a Senator from Ohio, took a three-week tour of Bangladesh, paid for in part by that government.

Footnote: Without exception, the congressional travelers told us they were unaware of the prohibition on accepting plane fares and hotel accommodations paid for by foreign governments.

WATCH ON WASTE: Some 3,000 members of the American Nursing Home Association flew off to Hawaii for five-day seminars in the sun. Their expenses are expected to be reimbursed out of the federal medicare and medicaid money that otherwise would be spent to help the sick and the elderly.

Here's how the vacationing nursing home operators work it. Nursing homes that handle medicare patients are permitted to collect expense money from the government for "reasonable staff and educational meetings."

To take advantage of this, the Nursing Home Association set up a number of educational seminars as part of its convention in Hawaii. The operators can soak the taxpayers, therefore, for most of their Hawaiian vacation. The rest can be written off as a business expense.

A spokesman for the Nursing Home Association defended the practice, saying that the educational seminars aid in the treatment of elderly patients.

A Health, Education and Welfare Department spokesman said the government probably will reimburse the nursing home operators for their Hawaiian fling. "If they were meeting in Baltimore," he shrugged, "no one would come."

Because of President Ford's crackdown on government spending meanwhile, some medicare patients are being turned away.

"We seem to have quite a few Pandora's boxes, Henry!"

Just in jest

What do you mean, times are tough? My gosh, haven't you read the announcement by a high government official that there will be no winter shortage of gas? —Hadn't you heard that TV repairmen are complaining because today's television sets are altogether too foolproof? —Isn't it a matter of record that Los Angeles School Board members voted to raise their pay 33 per cent? —Aren't they going right ahead with the construction of a $300,000 heated swimming pool on the White House grounds?

So why worry about an energy shortage? —Even if you are in a bit of a financial pinch, can't you do like a lot of other folks in similar circumstances and make sure of getting a low interest rate by borrowing on your life insurance? —And if worst comes to worst, haven't you got a dog? In Davenport, Iowa, when a dog chewed up a mitten, the dog's owner entered that mitten in the mid-Mississippi Art Competition and won a $50 prize.

Has Kennedy really closed the door?

WASHINGTON — Politicians have been known to say "never" when what they really meant was "call me later." In that connection, I'm reminded that before Sen. Edward Kennedy read his Never-in-76 lines a few weeks ago, the last national figure who held a news conference announcing his "irrevocable" determination not to run for President was Nelson Rockefeller.

That occurred in the spring of 1968. I'm not sure about the exact date, though I do recall that it was about four months before Rockefeller announced his candidacy for President.

And now we have the senator from Massachusetts who, having withdrawn himself from consideration as a Democratic presidential prospect in 1976, is conducting his affairs like a politician who has by no means closed out any options.

True, in his declarations of unavailability, Kennedy cited compelling personal reasons for his irrevocable decision, in a most compelling way. The man seemed to mean what he said (as did Rockefeller in 1968). Kennedy made as Sherman-like a renunciation of White House ambitions as Sens. Jackson, Mondale and other potential Democratic candidates could hope for.

Yet here we are, short weeks later, and unless they've changed the way the game is played, it's hard to see what more Kennedy could be doing to advance his candidacy. Indeed, there's a case to be made that the Senator's recent post-news conference volubility on the subject of Chappaquiddick can best be explained in terms of Kennedy's positioning himself for a presidential run.

Take that "Dear Sir, You Cur" literary outburst Kennedy directed at the Boston Globe last Sunday. He accused the Globe of unfair reporting because the newspaper had quoted unidentified sources as the basis for certain derogatory allegations involving Kennedy's conduct the night Mary Jo Kopechne died.

The question is why, after years of maintaining stonewall silence in the face of similar allegations in Boston and elsewhere, the Senator has suddenly chosen to take his case public? Moreover, it's not as if the Globe has revived the issue of Kennedy's conduct at Chappaquiddick on its own.

On the contrary, only a few days before the Globe story Kennedy himself, in a British Broadcasting Company interview, brought Chappaquiddick back into the news in the most blatant political way. He compared the incident, and his conduct, to Watergate and the conduct of Richard Nixon.

The difference between Kennedy-Chappaquiddick and Nixon-Watergate, the Massachusetts Senator told BBC, was that he, Kennedy, accepted full responsibility for his actions. Of course, what Kennedy chooses to call accepting responsibility is no more than what Nixon did in his April 1973 speech, when he admitted he was "responsible" for Watergate.

In both cases, the men involved used the word "responsibility" in its political, or meaningless, sense. They mouthed the words "I am responsible" and thereafter conducted themselves as if the mere utterance of the phrase provided instant absolution from the consequences of their actions.

But that's not our concern here. Of more immediate interest is Kennedy's purpose in speaking out on Chappaquiddick after all this time. Only when viewed from the standpoint of a possible Kennedy candidacy does that purpose seem to fall into a logical pattern:

It's as if Sherman, after issuing his statement of non-candidacy, suddenly began writing letters to the editor, insisting that just because Grant made a poor President didn't mean every military man would.

Consider the fact that if Kennedy does run in 1976, is greatest handicap will be Chappaquiddick as a negative counterpoise to Watergate. Public pronouncements like the interview and letter should serve to diminish that handicap on several tactical levels.

As a presidential prospect, anything Ted Kennedy has to say about Chappaquiddick is politically suspect. But coming from a man who has renounced any presidential ambitions, the Senator's self-serving declarations on the issue might be viewed in a different light.

An "irrevocable" decision? Sens. Jackson, Mondale, et al., have reason to ponder the riddle of when is a closed door not a closed door.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions—fast. It costs you nothing. Call Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. or write Heartline, 8514 North Main St., Dayton, Ohio, 45415. Remember, Heartline pays for all calls on its toll-free number . . . 800-543-2393.

Heartline: I've heard some people get retroactive payment when they are approved on disability Social Security. Why didn't I?—T.D.

Answer: Disability Social Security payments begin with the sixth full month of disability. However, in some cases the approval is not until later. Example: If it takes ten months for final approval, you would receive four months retroactive payment.

Heartline: My husband collected a railroad retirement annuity. Since he has passed away I have received a railroad survivor annuity, but no lump-sum death benefit. I know of a lady who received a lump-sum death benefit of over $800 for burial expenses when her uncle passed away. Why didn't I?—P.A.

Answer: A lump sum for burial expenses is only payable when there is no family member immediately eligible for an annuity. The lady you mention must have helped pay for funeral expenses and the person who passed away must not have had any immediate family members.

Heartline: I'm seven years older than my husband. I've never worked under Social Security. Can I collect from him when I become 65, even though he is not retired? — S.C.

Answer: No. Unless he becomes disabled or dies you cannot be eligible for benefits until he retires.

Heartline: I am 62 and going on Social Security early retirement. When will my Medicare start?—G.S.

Answer: Your Medicare will start at age 65. The only exception would be someone totally disabled and drawing disability Social Security for 24 months. Then Medicare would start after the 24th payment.

Heartline: Can I draw my Social Security at age 62 and then at age 65 transfer over to my husband's at full benefit? — D.S.

Answer: If you receive a reduced benefit on your own record at age 62, you can later become entitled to a wife's benefit if it would pay more money. However, the total payment you would receive would be less than the full one-half of your husband's amount because you received a reduced benefit on your own record.

Heartline: I can't work because I have to stay home and take care of my disabled husband. Are there any benefits for me for doing this? I am 57 years old. — S.E.

Answer: No.

Heartline: Could you tell me in what year domestic help came under Social Security? — V.F.

Answer: 1951.

Heartline: My husband is very ill. He has only worked eight years for the railroad. I understand that if he does not work ten years, I'm not entitled to any railroad benefits. Is this true? — H.D.

Answer: Yes, this is true. If he is totally and permanently disabled he may be entitled to a Social Security disability benefit. Such benefit will be based on his combined railroad and non-railroad earnings. Also, any survivor benefit you may be entitled to on the basis of his railroad service will also be paid by the Social Security Administration.

Heartline: My husband and I are over age 65. In fact, we are in our 80s. We file a joint return each year. Our income this year will only be $3,300. Do we have to file? —I.T.

Answer: You do not have to file unless your taxable income was $4,300 or more.

Heatline: I am on SSI. If I rent out my spare bedroom, will they reduce my SSI check? —R.N.

Answer: The net income from renting the room will affect your supplemental security payment. Net income from rent is the gross rent received less the costs relating to the renting.

Heartline: I am trying to locate a sister that I have not seen in 23 years. She lives back East somewhere. Can you help? —S.H.

Answer: We are very sorry, but Heartline cannot help locate missing persons.

Heartline: I have a neighbor who is collecting Social Security for his daughter, due to his wife's passing. I do not think he is using the money for his daughter. He neglects her and buys alcohol. Can't Social Security do anything about this? —A.B.

Answer: These payments are solely for the use and benefit of the daughter. If it is determined that they are not applied for that purpose, the Social Security Administration would stop payment to the father and seek another payee. The father would also be responsible for repaying any money he misued in the past.

Heartline: I have been in the service 20 years. Before the service I was under Social Security for 14 years. When I retire, can I have a pension from both? —R.C.

Answer: Yes, if you meet the eligibility requirements. Contact your local VA office for more details.

After study of murders, editor has tips for women meeting exhibitionist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Drawing from my experiences in studying thousands of murder cases (I edit detective magazines) I must disagree with your statement that the writer was wrong in thinking the exhibitionist might have tried to rape her.

Your remarks about exhibitionism being passive and harmless are correct as far as they go — but they don't go far enough.

Innumerable studies of sex offenders have shown that exhibitonism is nearly always a phase in their progression to more serious offenses. Typically they begin as Peeping Toms. Then they move on to something like underwear fetishism (they steal lingerie from clotheslines), then graduate to exhibitionism. When this palls, it is but a short step to tentative, then overt attempts at forcible, physical contact with the female victims. Panic and fear, provoked by resistance, all too often result in murder.

Unfortunately, there is no sure way to know when the exhibitionism is about to progress from passive to aggressive behavior., To women who find themselves confronted by an exhibitionist, I would offer the following advice:

1. Get away from the man as quickly as possible. Do NOT speak a word. Never get into a verbal exchange with him.

2. If you can't get away or if he follows you, SCREAM as loudly as possible. Basically, the exhibitionist is a coward. If a woman screams, he will almost always run for his life.

3. Report the incident to the police without delay. They may be able to put him out of circulation for a while.

Thank you for letting me speak my piece. — A. G., N.Y. Reader

Dear A. G.: Thank YOU for speaking it. Your letter contains some valuable information and I appreciate your taking the time to share it with us. Three psychiatrists with whom I consulted, however, said exhibitionists rarely progress to more serious crimes, but it is not unheard of, so — an ounce of prevention, etc.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several of us were having a friendly discussion the other night. We are a group of middle-aged people, all of better than average intelligence — a couple of M.A. degrees and a Ph.D. in the crowd.

One woman said she had read in a reliable medical journal about a new theory of fertilization whereby if a woman has sexual relations with two different men within an eight-hour period, they can both be the father of her child. In other words, the sperms mix and act as one. The child would then, of course, have the genes of both men. It seems logical, yet I have my doubts.

I remember reading in your column that it is possible for twins to be fathered by separate males. If so, this other theory seems plausible. Right? — Inquisitive.

Dear In: Wrong. The twin theory was validated when a woman gave birth to two sons with different racial backgrounds.

It is sheer nonsense, however, to believe that one child can have two fathers, as a result of mixing the sperm cells of two males. The woman would, of course, have a difficult time figuring out which man was the daddy. If both men were fertile, the daddy would, of course, be the man who got there first.

Confidential to I Love Pot Because It Frees Me Up: Sorry, I don't buy it. People who rely on artificial kicks aren't "free." Not only are they enslaved (which they of course deny), but they actually diminish their ability to experience a natural high.

How much do you know about pot, L.S.D., cocaine, speed, meth, uppers and downers, glue and heroin? Are all these drugs dangerous? Get Ann Lander's new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill plus a long, self-addressed envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

AT WIT'S END

A grandparent is something grand

By ERMA BOMBECK

A preschooler who lives down the street was curious about grandparents. It occurred to me that to a child, grandparents appear like an apparition with no explanation, no job description, and few credentials. They just seem to go with the territory.

Ths column, then, is for the little folks who wonder what a grandparent is.

A grandparent can always be counted on to buy all of your cookies, flower seeds, all-purpose greeting cards, transparent tape, paring knives, peanut brittle, and ten chances on a pony. (Also a box of taffy when they have dentures.)

A grandparent helps you with the dishes when it is your night.

A grandparent will sit through a Greek comedy for three hours to watch her grandson and wonder how Aristophanes has time to write plays when he is married to Jackie Onassis.

A grandparent is the only baby sitter who doesn't charge more after midnight — or anything before midnight.

A grandparent buys you gifts your mother says you don't need.

A grandparent arrives three hours early for your baptism, your graduation, and your wedding because he or she wants a seat where he or she can see everything.

A grandparent pretends he doesn't know who you are on Halloween.

A grandparent loves you when you're a bald baby to a bald father and all the hair in between.

A grardparent will put a sweater on you when she is cold, feed you when she is hungry and put you to bed when she is tired.

A grandparent will brag on you when you get a typing pin that 30 other girls got.

A grandparent will frame a picture of your hand that you traced and put it in her Mediterranean living room.

A grandparent will accept your calls from anywhere—collect.

A grandparent will help you with your buttons, your zippers and your shoelaces and not be in any hurry for you to grow up.

When you're a baby, a grandparent will check to see if you are crying when you are sound asleep.

When a grandchild says, "Grandma, how come you didn't have any children?" a grandparent holds back the tears.

Controversy over lawn fertilizer

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fertilizer industry executive has denounced proposals to reduce the use of fertilizer on the nation's lawns, golf courses and cemeteries as cruel, misleading and impractical.

"It is cruel in that such suggestions have raised expectations far beyond our ability to provide, finance or deliver to (hungry) nations," said Ed Wheeler, President of the Fertilizer Institute, in a statement here.

In a separate interview, however, food economist Erik P. Eckholm said he stands by the suggestion that Americans could make a contribution to easing world hunger problems by cutting down on non-farm use of fertilizer in this country.

Eckholm said the proposal he advanced in collaboration with economist Lester R. Brown of the Overseas Development Council was based on estimates —originating at the Agriculture Department —that Americans annually use about 15 per cent of their total fertilizer supply for nonfarm applications. That amounts to about three million tons, which is equal to the amount used annually for all purposes —including vital farm production —in India, Eckholm said.

"It may be unrealistic to talk about cutting our nonfarm use because apparently nobody is going to do it. But if we could free some of our supply, the government could give some of it to hungry countries," he said.

Wheeler, meanwhile, said new studies indicate the estimate that 15 per cent of the U.S. fertilizer supply goes to nonfarm uses was far too high. A recent report by 36 state fertilizer control officials, he said, estimated that only 3.5 per cent of the total U.S. plant food supply was being used for nonfarm uses.

The 3.5 per cent estimate, Wheeler said, includes home vegetable gardening as well as uses ranging from public parks to stabilization of highway shoulders.

Even if Americans quit fertilizing lawns, Wheeler maintained, hungry nation's abroad wouldn't be helped —first because the amount of fertilizer involved is small, and second because the poor nations are broke and can't buy it. The real issue, he said, is the willingness of wealthy countries to supply fertilizer abroad in the form of aid.

Wheeler's statement appeared to be in partial conflict with the stand taken by Joseph Sullivan, President of Estech, Inc., Chicago, a major fertilizer manufacturer. Sullivan is also Chairman of the Fertilizer Institute, the trade association which Wheeler serves as chief staff officer.

Sullivan said recently that in 1975, his firm will stress the need to divert fertilizer from lawns to use on home vegetable gardens and farms. He said that with the nation facing another year of tight fertilizer supplies, "if we all have browner lawns and greener gardens, we'll be a lot better off."

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Syndicated writers face pauperism

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most people can sympathize with the farmers who are slaughtering calves to protest falling cattle prices. And some of us can empathize as well.

At an election party this week I fell into a conversation with a group of syndicated political columnists. Almost to a man they were complaining that syndication rates have failed to keep pace with rising costs.

"By the time I buy him a couple of cocktails to loosen his tongue, it costs me seven or eight bucks to take an informed source to lunch," a conservative columnist lamented.

"Six months ago, the tab for a noon hour news leak seldom ran more than $5."

"That's right," a liberal columnist commented glumly. It was the first time the two pundits had agreed on anything in 12 years. "And how about ivory tower rentals?

"I could cope with those costs if it weren't for the price of whole cloth," he said. "By the time you make up a column out of whole cloth these days you're half way to the poor farm."

I said, "Are you guys just going to stand around and gripe or are you going to do something?"

The liberal columnist tugged thoughtfully at his chin. "Why don't we stage some public protest to call attention to our plight?" he suggested.

"Good idea!" cried the independent. "What if we got together and killed some of our columns before they got into print? That would dramatize our predicament."

The liberal's knees began to jerk.

"Dynamite!" he exclaimed. "We are entering the crucial post-election period when people will be depending on us to analyze the returns and explain why they voted the way they did.

"If we do something drastic like killing a few columns our readers will be shocked into a realization that syndication rates are scandalously low."

But the conservative, cautious by nature, reacted negatively.

"I keep asking myself what Louis XV would do in this situation and my instinct tells me the adverse publicity we might receive could make the demonstration counterproductive," he said.

"Okay," the independent compromised. "Instead of killing them, we'll send the columns to some underdeveloped country that doesn't have its own syndication."

College courses on train pay expenses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Offering college courses in unusual places helps Adelphi University to run in the black.

As with many small private colleges, the Garden City, N.Y., school was not getting enough money in through normal channels to pay the bills a few years back.

Inflation and a reduced number of students put the fiscal squeeze on two ways. Innovation helped the school out of the red ink well.

Simply, the school packaged college courses and offered them off campus —all at the going rate, $89 a credit.

The first of the operations to get the school back on the financial track involved classrooms on railroad tracks — commuter cars leased from the railroad and modified to be a classroom on wheels.

The students would be riding the train, anyway getting from points in Connecticut, Long Island and Brewster, N.Y., to New York City jobs each day — and making the return trip in the evening.

By registering, paying the fee of $89 a ccedit, a student willing to take business courses morning and evening could taking a full load—leading to the master's degree in business administration. Fifty have earned the degree at the train school.

The railroad classes had another appeal. Some students could get credit for real-life experience and enter at an advanced level of work toward the graduate degree. This appealed to persons with marketing, stock market and banking jobs.

The classes in economics, corporate financial policy, accounting, management and much more are offered every week, every month —except August.

Right now, 300 are signed up. The capacity is 600. It's enough to keep the school solvent — with other innovative programs.

A second innovative program aims at another group of students —mothers and retirees. These take place in six libraries on Long Island. Two hundred students have signed up.

This special degree program for adults includes psychology and sociology and other subjects. The Edu-Train courses are strictly business administration.

A third innovative program will accomplish the unusual on the academic scene. That is, it will find students studying during their winter vacation.

This magic is accomplished by creating a classroom setting in ski resorts in Fallsville and Ellensville, N.Y. Twenty-one undergraduate courses are on the roster.

They range from psychology to physical education. The phys ed course has to do with improving one's performance on skiis.

Classes during the vacation will be conducted in the morning for two and one-half hours. Students will be granted transfer credits if they are from another school.

The expectation is that many of the 500 places in the winter vacation school will be taken by students outside Adelphi University.

Ron Cannava, director of University Relations, says Adelphi has had hundreds of requests from other private schools hoping to balance its budget by imitating the innovative programs that reach unconventional students.

The students on Edu-Train and in the library classrooms have in common outstanding academic performance.

Dr. CARL COPPOLINO

. . . Dr. Carl Coppolino?

AVON PARK, Fla. (UPI) — The gates of Florida State Prison at Raiford slammed behind Dr. Carl A. Coppolino in 1967. It marked the end of two related murder cases that are celebrated in American criminal history.

Coppolino was convicted on circumstantial evidence in 1967 at Naples, Fla., of second degree murder in the 1965 death of his wife, Carmela, at their Longboat Key home near Sarasota. He was accused of injecting her with succinylcholine, a muscle paralyzing drug used in surgery. It is fatal if unattended. It disappears within the body shortly after being injected.

The handsome, dark-haired physician began a life sentence May 4, 1967, after failure of an appeal by F. Lee Bailey, who had lost the case as Coppolino's trial lawyer. But Bailey earlier had won acquittal for Coppolino in New Jersey on charges of murdering his girl friend's husband by strangling after unsuccessfully trying to inject him with the same deadly drug.

Coppolino has served in three prisons, each with lessening security. He has been at Avon Park Minimum Custody Prison since Aug. 6.

James Tompkins, assistant superintendent at Raiford, remembers Coppolino as "friendly and quite talkative." The doctor was rumored to have set his own broken nose, after a prison fight, with such plastic skill that he improved his looks. But no prison officials would confirm the story.

Coppolino works with other inmates in the Avon Park prison library, checking and cataloguing. His nemesis is state Attorney General Robert L. Shevin, who wants him kept behind bars at least 25 years as a menace to society. The average time served by lifers in Florida is nine and a half years.

. . . UFOs?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In December, 1969, the Air Force abandoned its 21-year-old investigation of unidentified flying objects (UFOs), saying it no longer can be justified either on the ground of national security or in the interest of science."

Since 1948, the Air Force's "Project Blue Book" had investigated 12,619 UFO sightings and dismissed most of them as meteors, aircraft, electrified gases or clouds, weather balloons, burning satellites, mirages or hoaxes. It could not explain 701 sightings, but said there was no evidence that any were the result of advanced technology or vehicles from another world.

The report was endorsed by the National Academy of Sciences and an independent study by the University of Colorado commissioned by the Air Force, and the three-member Project Blue Book headquarters at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio was closed.

Today, the now-declassified Blue Book records are gathering dust in the archives at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama. The Air Force says it has no intention of reopening the inquiry, despite recurring reports of new UFO sightings.

The Air Force firmly denies a recent rumor that it has secretly stored in a freezer at Wright-Patterson the bodies of a dozen little green men who crash-landed in California's Mojave Desert many years ago. A spokesman for the Brookings Institution here said the rumor apparently arose somehow from a Brookings study published by Congress in 1961. Three paragraphs in the 272-page study dealth with the hypothetical psychological impact that discovery of extra-terrestrial life would have on the public. It said the impact would be "unpredictable" but might be "profound."

Insights on campus today

The gentleman was quoted as saying that after giving twnety-five years of thought to the matter he feels big schools should openly admit they are "out to get men and win publicity for the University."

His solution calls for major schools to hire their teams, much as the pros do.

Perhaps next week our learned colleague will come out for water being wet, snow being cold and money being used as a medium of exchange.

I thought it was common knowledge that the so-called footballs powers among our institutions of higher learning provide their players everything the law (NCAA) allows and a few things it doesn't.

Room, board, books, and tuition constitute a base from which to start. Then comes a "job" which varies from the more strenuous types like noon-nanny at a local high school to easier stuff, such as watching the grass grow.

Athletic booster organizations and alleged friends of the school follow along with an assortment of various goodies — summer jobs at $5 or $6 an hour, clothing, the use of a car (and naturally a credit card to keep it going) and a little cash here and there, which comes in a variety of strange and wonderful ways.

One of the most common ploys used by schools to provide athletes with money involves the player ostensibly being given choice tickets to his games. In actuality the athlete's tickets are sold for him in blocks of four for the season to a patron of the school who hands an intermediary from the booster group a cash equivalent of two or three times the value of the tickets and the athlete gets the money.

All this is after the athlete has been recruited. Stories of what goes on before the young man signs his NCAA contract are enough to earn an "X" rating at your local theater.

The athletic prospect is flown to the university and, in many cases, given a two or three day red-carpeted party that would rival the days of ancient Rome. He is wined, dined and girled. He is promised everything up to and including lifetime security. He is literally besieged by coaches, alumni, former star players and those ever-present friends and boosters in an all-out, purposeful attempt to boggle his mind.

A high school senior or junior college transfer who is a top prospect gets this treatment from as few, or as many big schools as his constitution will allow.

He is probably 17 at the youngest — maybe 21 or 22 at the oldest and this is part of his education. Here he begins to learn how things really work.

I certainly am not attempting to make a case against college sports — and football is by no means the only sport in which these malpractices occur. Quite the contrary, I am all in favor of students participating in the sport(s) of their choice. I am also in favor of professional athletics.

I would simply like to see some distinction made between the two.

Goodbye 'workmen'

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Labor has changed "Workmen's Compensation" to "Workers' Compensation."

This is part of a trend away from references to sex in job titles.

The trend was started by the Women's Liberation Movement.

Troublemakers headed off

DENVER (UPI) — Dr. Paul Knott can spot a juvenile delinquent years before the youngster ever earns the title. The real trick, he says, is to stop the child before he gets that far.

Working out of a converted department store in one of the toughest sections of northeast Denver, Knott and his Colorado Youth Services Institute have put together a program which he says will work. He has figures to back his claim.

"We are very confident now that we can predict delinquency as early as the first three grades of school," Knott said. "In fact, studies have shown that first, second and third grade school teachers can predict with virtually 90 ver cent accuracy those kids that are headed toward delinquency, dropping out and drug misuse."

The clues include truancy from the school, a tendency to be disruptive in the classroom, a disrupted family background and poor grades.

"You show me a kid with those characteristics, and I can predict right now the odds are 99 out of 100 that by the time that kid hits teenage, he's either going to be a delinquent, drug user or dropout and probably all three," Knott said.

Knott and Dr. Jim Vander Weele, 36, chief court psychologist for Denver Juvenile Court for more than eight years, decided it was time to develop a new approach to the delinquency problem.

With the ability to predict delinquency with a fair degree of accuracy, they felt the task was to re-route the youngster on a different course.

After 11 months of planning and with some federal funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in their pockets, the two set up offices in the Park Hill Shopping Center, located in a minority-dominated district with the highest crime rate in Denver.

The men decided to strike out at two areas —the family life and the school problems. They had no trouble finding the children —the courts, the police and the schools supplied them with plenty.

"My experience over and over has been, you've got to do it both ways," Knott said. "You can work with the family and get some good things going there, but if there still are some problems in school, it will foul up all of your progress — and vice versa."

The first job, Knott says, is to test the youngsters, find out what their learning disabilities are and then develop a program to correct the problem.

Knott, whose staff includes both Ph. D. level psychologists and community-based paraprofessionals, sends a behavioral analyst into each home to discover the problems there.

The institute is working now with 200 families and children ranging in age from 6 to 16. Staff members work with each child and family for five months.

An effort is made to reestablish lines of communications within a family. Parents frequently are advised to temper discipline with praise, to meet a problem head-on instead of trying to argue around it, to forget old grievances.

"If they will put their arm around the kid and say, 'Hey, I really appreciate that . . . you're a pretty good Joe, you know,' — if they will do that once a day or so it will make all the difference in the world for the kid," Knott said.

Although he isn't claiming 100 per cent success with the program, Knott said both he and Vander Weele had been astounded by the results of their efforts. Studies involving a similar group of youngsters who did not take part in the program showed the institute's children had 58 per cent fewer re-arrests after one year and 80 per cent fewer arrests after two years.

Knott estimated the cost of his program at $1,000 per year per child. The cost of sending a youngster with emotional problems to an institution could be as high as $50,000 a year, he said, and that does not include the cost involved to a victim of the youngster's crime.

Knott and Vander Weele, armed with their stacks of statistics, now want to make their Denver operation a center for training other communities in how to deal with delinquency problems. They already have received inquiries from such communities as Houston, Seattle and the small town of Rocky Mountain, N.C.

"People are desperate — literally desperate —all over the country for something that is going to work," Vander Weele said.

TRAVEL

Around the world in 80 days for only $97,035

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Like most everything else, the cost of cruising has gone up because of soaring inflation and higher fuel prices. There have been cutbacks, but sea-going American vacationists still will have a wide variety of cruises to choose from during the 1974-75 season.

You'll have to hurry, though, if you were planning to book a deluxe penthouse suite aboard the Queen Elizabeth 2 on its maiden world cruise early next year.

There are only two of the toprated $97,035 duplex suites on the 65,000-ton luxury liner and one already has been sold for the 80-day, 31,000-mile voyage "in the footsteps —and wake — of Phileas Fogg," according to Cunard.

Each suite includes two rooms, one above the other on two decks, a private inside staircase, two private oceanfront patios, two private bars and walk-in closets. Occupants of the Trafalgar and Queen Anne suites also will enjoy the services of a day steward, night steward and maid.

For the less affluent, there are cabins starting at $5,400 per person, double occupancy, for the cruise which includes calls at 23 ports in the Caribbean, South America, Africa, India, Asia, the Pacific, Mexico and Panama. The QE2, the world's largest passenger liner since the France's withdrawal from service, will be marking its first visit to 13 of the ports and special ceremonies have been laid on to mark the occasion.

Included in the cruise program will be a visit to Hong Kong and a shore excursion to mainland China. Optional American Express shore excursions also will be available at other ports on the itinerary.

The QE2 is scheduled to depart from New York on Jan. 10 and return to its Hudson River pier on March 31. homeward bound, it will make its first transit of the Panama Canal —the largest passenger liner ever to make the passage through the waterway linking the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Round-the-world cruises from east, west and southern ports also are included in the listings of Holland America Cruises, Royal Viking Line, and Swedish America Lines, among others. Norwegian America has a 79-day, 29-port "Four Continent" cruise scheduled for its new Vistafjord, departing New York Jan. 21 (rates from $4,750 to $11,400 per person.

The shipping lines also offer scores of shorter cruises to Bermuda, the West Indies, Mexico, South America, the Mediterranean, the South Pacific, the Far East and other destinations around the world.

From New York, for instance, Flagship Cruises' popular 20,000-ton Sea Venture —which "owns" the Bermuda run —has scheduled 10 voyages to the West Indies this winter. Kicking off the program will be an 11-day Thanksgiving pre-Christmas shopping cruise, departing Nov. 26, (from $490 to $1040 double) which will include calls at St. Thomas with its freeport shops, Puerto Rico, St. Maarten and Antigua. There also is a 14-day Christmas-New Year holiday cruise, leaving Dec. 21 (from $790 to $1750 double) with stops in Bermuda, Barbados, Martinique, St. Maarten, St. Thomas and Haiti.

Pacific Far East Line's 20,000-ton Monterey will sail from San Francisco on April 15 (and Los Angeles and San Diego April 16) on a 67-day 21-port cruise to the Mediterranean which will include a stop at Alexandria, Egypt, for the first time. Excursions to Cairo, the pyramids and sphinx and the temples of Karnak and Luxor have been scheduled as part of the cruise by the Monterey which, with its sistership Mariposa, are the only luxury passenger liners still sailing under the American flag.

PFEL, Princess Cruises, Sitmar Cruises and P&O also offer a wide ranging choice of cruises near and far from west coast ports.

Extensive winter sailings also are on the scoreboard for Norwegian Caribbean, Commodore Cruise Line and other companies operating cruises out of Port Everglades and Miami. They include a wide variety of air-sea packages and special interest cruises.

For bridge enthusiasts, for example, there is what is billed as the first annual Caribbean World Bridge Festival aboard Carnival Cruise Lines' Mardi Gras, sailing from Miami Dec. 14. According to Thomas Cook & Sons, the cruise organizers, motion picture star Omar Sharif, who is recognized as one of the world's top bridge players, will act as host during the seven-day cruise. There will be cash and other prizes for the winners of the "individuals,""pairs" and "mixed pairs" competitions.

Chinese classes increase

TAIPEI (UPI) — An unexpected but welcome byproduct of Sino-American rapprochement is the increasing number of foreigners, particularly Americans, who come to Taiwan to study Chinese.

Since former President Richard M. Nixon visited Peking in 1972, the number of American students has increased more than 50 per cent to 248, local education ministry statistics show.

Bob Irick, director of the California Language Program in Taipei, says there are actually many more because some Americans come on their own and don't bother to register with any school.

"The increased interest in the Chinese language is a definite reaction to U.S. policy shift," said a young New York attorney who took a 75 per cent pay cut to work in a Taipei law firm and study Chinese.

He doesn't think Chinese will be of much help to his career in the near future, but it might be practical in the long run— "China better learn how to get along with the rest of the world in the next 50 years," he said.

Another American, a graduate student at the Stanford Center in Taipei, is even more positive about the Chinese language.

"The business future with China is great, it is like a flower just opening up now. I figure if I can get in on the ground floor with a company opening in China, I can be promoted when the trade develops," he said.

Many foreign students cite no practical reasons, only their interest in Chinese history and culture. All said they would like to visit China if possible.

"After you have tasted the Chinese culture here, of course you would like to take a look in China," one girl said.

"We welcome comparisons," one official said. "We like to have more people-to-people contacts. We believe when they understand us more, they will like us more. They will realize this is a free society, not just propaganda."

Students can choose what they want to read. At the Stanford Center and the American Embassy language school in Taichung, such Communist Chinese publications as People's Daily and Red Flag are available, even though they are banned to the general public.

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — A growing number of farmers are now mixing weed killer with their irrigation water in an effort to replace the old fashioned hoe.

A relatively new technique, "herbigation," is seen by advocates as a technological step forward toward slashing food production and labor costs on the nation's 50 million acres of irrigated farm land, most of it in California, Texas, Nebraska, Colorado and Idaho.

At a recent symposium, a pioneer researcher in the field, Prof. Paul E. Fischbach of the University of Nebraska, called herbigation the newest weapon in the farmer's historic struggle against the world's most expensive plant —the weed.

ECOLOGY

Fischbach believes herbicides that inhibit germination of unwanted vegetation have the greatest potential in the new method.

"What's most significant about herbigation is that while the practice is new, it probably is the most efficient and precise method of incorporating herbicides into the soil that we know of," Fischbach said.

"This is particularly important in irrigated farming because weed growth is considerably more profuse and troublesome than on dryland farming. In fact, (plain) water applied on cropland can benefit and nourish weed seed more readily than crop seed germination."

The hows and whats of application are varied, depending on the weed and conditions. But whatever the system delivering irrigation water, from sprinklers to pipes, it can be used, he said.

"But automated center-pivot sprinklers, solid set sprinklers and automatic surface irrigation systems lend themselves best to herbigation," he believes.

Badly done, however, herbigation can cause problems.

"A disadvantage of herbigation is the possibility of ground water pollution if the proper antipollution devices are not installed on the irrigation pumping equipment," he said.

"Some of the potential hazards are water back-flowing through the chemical injection system causing the chemical supply tank to overflow. And irrigation pumping plants may shut down from mechanical or lectrical failures on the irrigation system, but injection equipment could continue operating.

"A lack of a check valve on the irrigation line may result in the mixture of water-and-chemical siphoning back into the irrigation well, polluting the groundwater.

"The pollution hazard to groundwater can be avoided by having the proper equipment and hooked up to the irrigation system."

The symposium also was told by Dr. Robert H. Callihan of the University of Idaho that while many growers are already using the method, "there is still insufficient data and much research work to be done."

"For example," he said, "research has not adequately established whether application in irrigation requires a different rate of herbicide than conventional application."

But Herbigation, said Fischbach, "should be considered a significant advance in farm technology and an additional spur to the spread of irrigated crop production.

"This in turn will mean greater farm output, more food production and a certain step forward in meeting the critical demands now being placed on U.S. agriculture."

Fuel, sugar; now water

Short of H_2O, too? Oh!

By WILLIAM E. CLAYTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Getting the United States through its energy crises will take so much water that some other uses —such as farming —could suffer, the National Petroleum Council believes.

The finding is one of the conclusions of an NPC survey of water availability in the long-term American energy outlook until 1985.

"If the water supplies are to be available when needed to develop other energy resources as substitutes for petroleum, several national and interstate issues must be resolved," the Council said.

The report said the issues include:

—National policy that recognizes the volumes of water needed;

—Federal government encouragement of building of new reservoirs;

—"Stabilizing" the federal, state and interstate policies that link water and energy availability;

—The environmental effects.

"Interstate water allocation compacts and state water resource authorities must recognize that some future energy resource developments will require reallocation of water supplies from other uses, most likely from agriculture," the NPC said.

Because the West has such a big part in the energy future, and because water supply is often touch-and-go in that region, such water basins as the Upper Colorado River and the Upper Missouri River become "critical," the report says.

The study looked at four possible levels of energy effort, ranging from all-out through two intermediate efforts, to a "lowest supply case."

For the all-out effort, it appears water in the West will be adequate under present allocations "in all areas except Arizona and New Mexico," the report said.

Those states' long-range projections of water allocation for energy production fall short considerably of what now seems needed for an all-out nationwide energy push, the report said.

But that gap could be closed by some alternatives: taking water from competing allocations, pumping water in from other states, weather modification efforts, or shifting planned power plants to somewhere else with better water outlook.

Even if supply is assured, the NPC pointed out, "The problems of water quality can be expected to become more important in the arid western states as population, industrialization and energy production continue to grow. Assuming rigorous compliance with plant and municipal effluent standards, problems of stream quality deterioration may develop from diversion of natural flows which have historically diluted the natural 'pollutants' from mineral springs, agriculture return flow, and the like."

As for the East, "at reasonable development rates there would be no serious water availability problems" in the energy-important Appalachian and Illinois coal areas, the report predicted.

Beyond 1985, water availability in the West is likely to be a damper on further "major growth" of synthetic fuels and electricity, particularly in the Colorado and Missouri basins, the NPC said.

The amounts of water for energy production are enormous, the report pointed out: a coal liquefaction plant, for example, requires 5.3 barrels of water for each barrel of oil produced.

"If availability of water in sufficient quantities is to be ensured, three primary requirements must be satisfied —the early establishment of a near-million-dollar program of dams and aqueducts, the reconciliation of disputes over water rights and allocations, and the procurement of large amounts of capital for project investments, taking into account the long lead times," the report said.

Writes a reader in Mt. Holly Springs, Pa.:

"My husband is diabetic and therefore if he wishes to drink soda of any type, he must partake of the diet sodas. With the increase in sugar costs, we can understand why regular soda has climbed in price.

"What puzzles us is why such brands as 'Diet RC Cola', 'Diet Dr. Pepper', 'Diet Seven-Up' have kept pace with regular sugar-using sodas. Since the sweetener used is a chemical, why is this? Maybe you can get an answer, we can't seem to get any reply."

We have an answer, although some consumers may see it as more of an excuse.

The National Soft Drink Association says the industry has been forced to raise all prices, both diet and non-diet, "across the board" to spread the "astronomical" sugar price increases around. It freely admits diet drinks should be cheaper since they use saccharine or in some cases corn syrup instead of sugar; but it contends that if it didn't raise diet prices along with the other, the cost of regular soda pop would climb so high people might stop buying it, or start buying less.

There is no doubt sugar prices have flipped. The last 12-ounce package this writer bought cost $1.35. The old package he was throwing out was stamped 59 cents.

Diet soft drinks account for about 9 per cent of all soda pop sold in this country. The industry obviously feels diet drinkers want the product even if it's costing them more than maybe it should.

A reader in Tyler, Tex., has a complaint about the new electronic cash registers now being installed in many stores:

"It is almost impossible to see the amounts that are fed into the machine. Aren't the registers supposed to be located so the buyer can see the amounts that are registered? Several times I have returned home, only to find, from my sales ticket, that I had been overcharged and charged with amounts that I did not receive."

Admittedly, such cash registers where the amounts show up in lights —the way figures appear on those hand-held calculators —are sometimes difficult to read.

But the federal Office of Consumer Affairs says it has not been receiving similar complaints, leading us to speculate it may be a local problem. Maybe you'd better start complaining to the stores involved or to a local consumer group, to get the stores to position their cash registers better.

What's the most dangerous consumer product for children under the age of five? The Consumer Product Safety Commission says it's non-glass tables.

The agency estimates that there are 87,000 emergency room cases every year involving children who are cut or in some other way injured after they were knocked into, fell or ran into, the sharp edges of tables.

The next most dangerous item for children in that age bracket is stairways, both indoor and out, and including ramps and landings. Those accidents —estimated at 63,000 emergency room cases per year —are not caused only by children playing on stairs. They also result when baby walkers tumble down stairs or when kids try to follow older persons up stairs.

The third most common household hazard for children is swallowing cleaning agents or other caustic compounds. That problem accounts for 19,000 emergency room cases every year, according to the commission.

From 600 to 5 papers

Radical press death rattle

It was called the underground newspaper and it served as a forum for alternative philosophies on just about every facet of life.

During the halcyon days of the mid-1960s, an estimated 600 underground newspapers surfaced in major cities and college campuses across the country.

Today, you can count the survivors on one hand.

A combination of financial instability and a growing disenchantment with the radical movement on the part of many readers buried most of the underground publications.

But those that have sidestepped the stumbling blocks appear determined to keep underground communications alive and flourishing in America.

"Most people think that we're just lazy hippies that are too spaced out to do anything," said David Fenton, a lanky, energetic 22-year-old who has helped guide the Ann Arbor Sun through periods of financial and political distress ever since it hit the streets three and one-half years ago.

The Sun, like the Boston Phoenix and the Berkeley Barb, has the advantage of a concentrated and often sympathetic university student population from which to draw readership.

Ann Arbor has been nicknamed the "mecca of hip in the Midwest," and that reputation draws hundreds of youths to its boundaries each year.

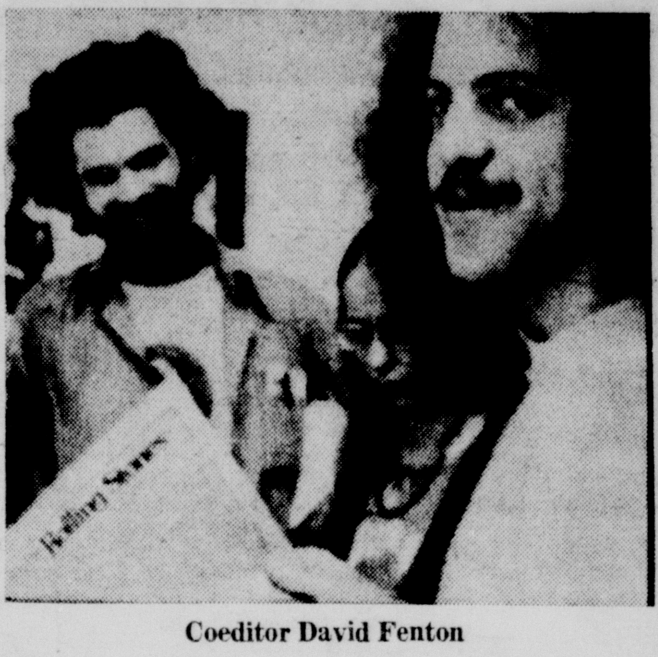
From these ranks, the Sun has managed to build a circulation of about 12,000 and a readership of possibly four times that number.

Once a two-page mimeographed sheet, it has matured into a stable publication that has earned the grudging respect of Ann Arbor's business sector because of its advertising potential and sends ripples of apprehension through Republican-dominated political arenas because of its influence over young voters.

"We're rooted in reality," Fenton said. "We've always realized, unlike some other alternative papers, that you've got to grapple with the economic realities."

Early issues of the Sun were dominated by the ideology of the Rainbow Peoples Party, a tight-knit group that grew out of the White Panther Party under the leadership of stocky, verbose John Sinclair.

The paper was sprinkled with RPP slogans (Revolution is the Way to Life), recipes to ward off tear gas during demonstrations ("this mixture should be poured into your eyes before and during gassing") and messages from the party's Tribal Council ("We have to band together so we can determine our own destinies").



Coeditor David Fenton

Not to mention Dope O Scope, the column that alerted readers to a "nationwide marijuana shortage."

"Sisters and brothers, you ain't seen nothin' yet," the column warned. "The marijuana harvest has come to a standstill."

Now the Rainbow party has splintered and withered, Sinclair has emerged as a semi-successful entrepreneur, and Michigan students have stopped throwing bricks.

"Too much of a radical outlook is a cop-out because there's little change accomplished and it tends to apathize people," Fenton said.

Fenton is no stranger to violence. He grew up in New York City where he became "fed up" with the confusion and in-fighting among radical groups.

"I used to throw rocks to try to change the system," he said. "Now I write checks and balance books."

The Sun has a core staff of 10 persons who make editorial decisions. As many as 30 to 40 volunteers may work together on each issue. A few members of the staff are paid a "below subsistence level"

Recently expanded to a weekly format, the Sun, if not making money, is self-supporting.

"We do want to make money," Fenton said. "It takes money to expand. You have to make money in this society to accomplish some of your goals."

He dislikes the "underground" tag because it has "bad connotations."

"We're very above ground. We like to call it a progressive alternative newspaper." paper."

The political view still borders on the hysterical but drugs are played down and environmental and "people" issues get top billing.

The Sun, staffers say, is the only source of reliable information available to its readers and is helping the community grow in many ways.

"The whole process has added fuel to our faith," Fenton concluded, "that people-oriented institutions can survive, grow and help bring us closer to the future."

Cop wins battle, friends in youth war on vandalism

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Police officer Moses Webb has found an answer in the fight against increasing and costly vandalism: let the teenagers lead the battle.

Webb, 32, a black community relations officer, marshaled youths in the Belle Haven section of Menlo Park and the adjacent town of East Palo Alto to bring vandalism to a virtual halt.

Both areas are low-income communities with scores of vacant homes repossessed by the Federal Housing Administration.

"Kids used to go into these houses and break windows, rip out plumbing or start fires," said Webb.

The vandalism bill ran as high as $100,000 a year, according to police estimates.

In the summer of 1973 Webb recruited 10 teen-agers in a drive against breakins and vandalism

"Each kid would have the responsibility of taking care of 10 homes and they were paid $50 a week," Webb said.

The youngsters all lived near the abandoned homes and their first step was to contact people living in the area to join in the campaign.

"After a while," Webb said, "we'd be getting help from the people who lived on each side of the vacated home."

The youths would make periodic inspections of the homes and were expected to influence their peers to stop the destruction. However, what is probably the most unique aspect of the program is what happened to the vandals when they were caught.

"The teen-agers, which we call junior housing inspectors, met with the parents of the youngster involved and worked out the problems. Calling in police was the final, drastic step.

"In only one case was it necessary to bring in police," Webb said.

However, a problem did arise in handling matters this way, he said.

"One of the inspectors was so enthusiastic he took the vandal to 'fist city' but it only happened once," the policeman said.

The program has gained Webb several honors, including selection as one of the nation's outstanding police officers by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"In the process he generated some new community pride and brought federal money into the community to provide jobs for hard working minority youths who needed employment."

Cizanckas feels the most important result of the teenagers' work has been the response from other communities faced with the same problems.

"Dozens of cities across the United States have contacted us for details of the program and they have replicated the crime prevention techniques developed by officer Webb

Webb's success during one summer, the police chief said, shows "that more police and bigger jails are not necessarily the answer to crime and community problems."

Of leather post cards, egg castors, post office boxes and stand tables

QUESTION: Through an inheritance, I have acquired about 25 old leather post cards, each of which bear a postmark during the early years of this century. The enclosed card was mailed from Warwick, R.I., May 5, 1906. Please, is it of any value? Mrs. H. H.

ANSWER: Yes. Those in fine condition like this example — bearing a legible postmark and stamp are currently selling around the $5.00 figure.

QUESTION: I have a most attractive antique, a fancy Victorian "egg" castor. It is the revolving type, with six cups on a low revolving stand. I have just recently had this replated.

This caster set was given to me years ago by a relative. As a result, I began collecting egg cups and now have 52 very fine old examples of almost every type but a Majolica. I have heard that Majolica cups were made, but have never seen one. Is my information correct?

I would also appreciate knowing the title of a publication on this subject — single or double egg cups. I have exhausted all of my leads; can you be of any help? Mrs. F. P.

ANSWER: I am not aware of any publication covering "egg cups," but an interesting article titled "Collect Egg Cups" by H. H. Wex, appeared in the August 6th issue of The Antique Trader (Dubuque, Iowa). I am certain you will find this information helpful as the writer indicates that Majolica egg cups were made.

QUESTION: I have had an opportunity to purchase two large sets of old metal and wood post office boxes, complete with keys. One set includes around 80 boxes, the other, 64. These boxes are in excellent workable condition. About what would these be worth? C. G.

ANSWER: The majority of these are selling from $250-$350 in groups of 48 or more. The smaller groupings are actually more popular than the larger ones, as they are difficult to handle and consume too much space.

QUESTION: I will appreciate what Mettlach soup tureens are selling for. The one that I have is approximately 8½ inches high with matching lid, made for a lade. The decoration on each side is a basket of flowers on white ground. The name of the pattern "Bertha" is included with the VILLEROY & BOCH mark, in addition to the word "Wallerfagen." P. J. S.

ANSWER: If perfect, your Villeroy & Boch tureen without platter is worth around $250.

Estado de alerta decreto declaro en Argentina

Buenos Aires — UPI — La presidente Maria Estela Peron puso punto final a los 18 meses de noviazgo con las liberaciones civiles el jueves, y ordeno un estado de alerta, para combatir los combates de guerrillas que dividen al pais.

A senora de Peron sostuvo una prolongada conferencia con los tres jefes de las fuerzas armadas, el miercoles, y despues declaro un estado de alerta, que depriva a los argentinos de sus garantias constitucionales.

El decreto fue hecho en un tiempo de continuas confrontaciones entre las fracciones rivales de derechistas, y las fuerzas laborales que creara su difunto esposo, Juan Peron.

MARIA ESTELA PERON

Por lo menos 138 personas han sido asesinadas en agrias disputas entre peronistas desde que ella tomo el poder, a la muerte de su esposo, en julio.

En uno de los ataques mas dramaticos, los peronistas izquierdistas mataron al Jefe de la Policia Federal, Alberto Villar y su esposa el viernes pasado, plantando una bomba a bordo de su yate en el puerto del Tigre, en los suburbios de Buenos Aires.

La senora de Peron expreso que el estado de alerta fue implantado solamente despues que todos los otros medios empleados por el gobierno para convencer a los elementos subversivos que descontinuen sus actividades, fallaron.

El agrio batallar entre las facciones izquierdistas y aquellas de ala derecha, dentro del movimiento peronista se hizo evidente en el verano de 1973, cuando Peron volvio despues de 18 anos de exilio.

El decreto fue anunciado al tiempo en que el congreso esta de vacaciones, y algunos politicos se quejan de que fue llevado a cabo sin consulta legislativa.

QUEMADURAS: Para reducir el dolor en las quemaduras de primer grado (enrojecido) y de segundo grado (ampollado), sumerjase en agua fria hasta que pase el dolor. O cubrase con una gruesa gaza seca y esterilizada, y vendese firmemente para proteger del aire. No abra las ampollas. Para quemadurao de tercer grado, (tejidos hondos danados,) cubrase con gaza esterilizada y seca, vendese para proteger del aire y busque asistencia medica inmediata.

Para quemaduras en los ajos, lavense con agua durante 15 minutos. Mantenga el parpado levantado, e introduzca la solucion en el lado de adentro del ojo. Cubrase el ojo cerrado, y busque asistencia medica.

Ahogos: Si la victima respira adecuadamente, no trate de quitar el objeto de la garganta, golpeandole la espalda. Deje que tosa y se coloque en la posicion mas comoda. Si respira con dificultad, (piel azulada y parece cercano a la muerte), quite el objeto que obstruye la garganta. Acueste a los ninos sobre algun objeto que los soporte; a las personas adultas, acuestelas sobre un costado, y golpeelos con golpes cortos en la espalda, enter los homoplatos. Si la persona no comienza a respirar normalmente, dele respiracion artificial y llame al medico imediatamente, Si mejora, pero el objeto aun esta en la garganta, lleve a la victima al doctor o al hospital.

CORTES Y PERDIDA DE SANGRE: Para controlar la perdida de sangre, apliquese presion al area cortada, y eleve la parte danada. Si la persona no sangra severamente, lavese la herida con agua y jabon, cubrase con gaza esterilizada, vendese. Obtenga atencion medica si fuera necesario.

ATAQUES CARDIACOS: Dos de los sintomas principales en un ataque cardiaco son la falta de aliento y dolor en el pecho que puede extenderse a uno o los dos hombros, los brazos, el cuello, la mandibula, o ambos.

La persona que sufre un ataque al corazon debe mantenerse acostada, generalmente sin almohada, en la posicion mas comoda posible. Ayude a administrarle la madicina prescripta. Si ayuda medica puede ser obtenida en un limite de tiempo razonable, la victima no debe ser transportada hasta que esta haya llegado. La victima debe permanecer acostada. Si deja de respirar, administre respiracion artificial.

SHOCK: Los sintomas del shock son palidez, y piel humeda y fria. Pulso rapido y debil, y debilidad general. Ya que los sintomas no son siempre aparentes, se recomienda administrar el trato para shock a todas las personas heridas. Mantengase a la victima acostada. Cobrir solamente para mantener el calor del cuerpo. (Es mejor que se mantengan mas bien frescos). Obtenga la ayuda de un medico.

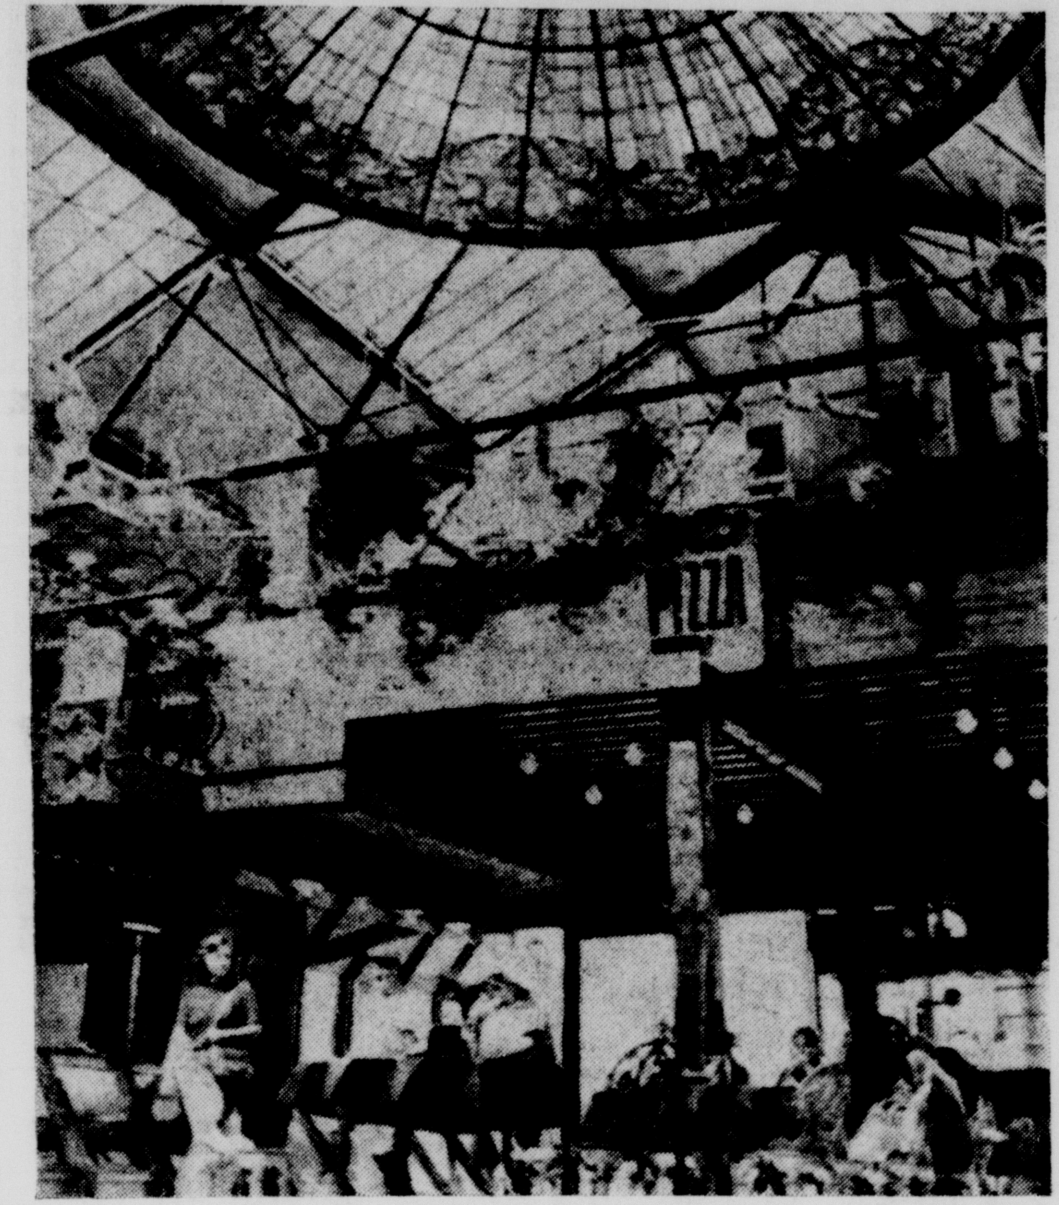
Abandoned streetcar barns now a shopping center



Interior of recyed streetcar barn

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Developer Wally Wright has recycled the remains of a dead streetcar system, several decayed old buildings and a couple of tons of junk into a multimillion dollar shopping center.

Four years ago Salt Lake City's old streetcar barns stood half empty, caked with rust and grimy yellow and green paint, littered with dead trolleys and buses.

Today, several months of sandblasting later, the red brick, mission-style buildings house a glittering, carefully disorganized assortment of more than 80 shops, art galleries, open markets, banks, bars, restaurants and theaters named Trolley Square.

The square covers a 10 acre city block in a rundown section of town. It has also spilled over into about three acres of parking lots in the surrounding neighborhood.

Outside, a 100-foot empty water tower converted into a giant neon sign alerts the visitor blocks away that he is approaching Trolley Square.

A smaller sign below the tower announces the price of self-service gas at Trolley Station, a normal service station except that it is located in a rebuilt streetcar.

Another restored trolley serves as a branch office for a savings and loan association. A bank has moved into what used to be a sand bin.

Inside the mammoth, 66-year-old car barns, a variety of antique trolleys provide homes for a flower shop and food concessions.

The roof sections of 19th Century mansions, with ornate gables and cornices, have been reassembled and modified to house other shops.

"We've recycled a lot of old buildings," said Wright, 39, a real estate developer and Utah history buff. "We've tried to create an architectural fantasy, to build a place for people to enjoy themselves while shopping."

To furnish his fantasy, Wright first contracted with dealers to provide him with old brick and other wares of the nostalgia trade. But the cost led him to form his own demolition company, which contracts to tear down old houses and retrieve old windows, doors and woodwork.

When the Mormon Church tore down its century-old ZCMI Department Store (officially Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Institution but known by its initials), Wright bought many of the interior furnishings, including dozens of antique wooden pillars which he is using to build a scale replica of 'Amelia's Palace, a four-story residence used by Brigham Young's 25th wife, Amelia Folsom Young.

The replica will become Amelia's book store and take its place among such establishments as the Sawhorse, the Poster Factory, the Old Spaghetti Factory, Porter Rockwell's Steakhouse and Ecology Sport and Cycle.

Wright says he got the idea for Trolley Square from such renovation projects as Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco and Underground Atlanta.

"When I toured Ghirardelli, I had such a pleasant time I decided to build something similar in Salt Lake," he said. "I thought the car barns would be the perfect place, though some people think this might turn out to be 'Wally's Folly.'"

The barns, listed as a state historical site, were built in 1908 by railroad magnate E. H. Harriman, father of former New York Gov. Averell Harriman. Harriman controlled the Utah Light and Railway Co., which he developed into one of the first successful electric powered trolley systems in the nation.

The barns were used for streetcar service until 1945. Salt Lake City's bus line used them until 1969, when they were purchased by Wright and his backers for about $1.3 million.

The barns form one building 420 feet long by 400 feet wide with 208 skylights, which once had space for 144 trolleys. Today the barns provide nearly 300,000 square feet of enclosed shopping mall.

A separate building, which housed a trolley paint shop, has been remodeled into four 300-seat movie theaters. Plans call for two more theaters in another building.

The Inflation Fighter

The family car is the largest single energy consuming device in the typical household. Careful selection can be a big help in keeping fuel costs down.

The most significant variable affecting a car's fuel consumption is its weight — a car weighing 5,000 pounds uses more than twice as much as one weighing 2,000 pounds.

Cars with diesel engines have 40 to 70 per cent better fuel economy than cars with conventional engines. Currently, rotary engine vehicles are less efficient by 20 to 35 per cent than cars of similar weight powered by conventional engines.

Wattage doesnot measure the amount of light, but the energy needed to light the bulb. The amount of light is measured in lumens. Study bulb packages to get the most for your wattage.

Larger wattage bulbs are usually more efficient and produce more lumens per watt than smaller bulbs. For example, it generally requires six 25-watt light bulbs to give the same amount of light as only one 100-watt bulb.

The emphasis on crisp vegetables came at just the right time for energy conservation. If you use only a little water to cook vegetables they will retain their color, vitamins and consistency better.

The idea is to cook the vegetables, not heat water. And once it is boiling, turn the heat down. Leaving the heat on high won't cook the vegetables any faster, and you may burn the cauliflower too.

You can cut down on the home entertainment bill — the use of radio, television and stereo — if you remember to turn them off when no one is in the room watching or listening.

Televisions with an "instant on" feature use electricity 24 hours a day keeping components heated and ready for operation. Unplug these when they will not be used for an extended period.

Color sets are especially expensive to operate. They use 33 per cent more energy than black and white sets.

Solid-state television sets, radios and stereos use less energy than conventional sets with tubes. For example, a typical large-screen solid-state television set uses about half the power of a similar "tube-type" set.

Cold water works best for operating food disposals. In addition to saving hot water, this helps get rid of grease — the cold grease solidifies and can be ground up and washed away.

Faulty appliances don't work efficiently and can waste energy. Try to repair or replace them promptly.

An electric blanket helps the energy crisis if you turn your thermostat down at night further than usual. But if you forget to turn it off in the morning you'll quickly lose that advantage.

Junior Programs

'Grin with Grimm' slated at Citrus

Based on Grimm's fairy tales, the two plays to be presented are "The Frog Prince" and "The Mouse, the Bird and the Sausage." The touring company of the department of Theater Arts, Cal State Long Beach, will perform. Ken Rugg is director.

In "The Frog Prince," a witch accidentally casts a magic spell on the prince, turning him into a green frog. The king has a daughter who dislikes frogs. How to break the spell is the problem in the story.

In the second play, a mouse, a bird and a sausage all live happily together until a hungry dog comes along and sows seeds of discontent.

The fairy tales offer humor and satire and appeal to children of all ages. Costumes and set designs are by Bell Earl. Professional guitarist Dan Cartmell will be accompanist.

Junior Programs is a nonprofit organization designed to help children develop good citizenship and an appreciation of live theater. Tickets at $1 may be purchased at Citrus College box office immediately preceding the performance. Information concerning group rates may be obtained by calling (213) 332-1317.

Asian art exhibit scheduled at MSAC

"Tradition and Innovation in Asian Art," an exhibition of classic ginger painting by Johnson Lee, will go on view Monday at the art gallery of Mt. San Antonio College.

Lee took up the art form after a successful career as an attorney in Singapore and Hong Kong. He will hold demonstrations of his work on Tuesday and Wednesday at 2, 3:30 and 5 p.m. in the gallery.

When he retired from the law practice, Lee read some books on tongue painting and toe painting. He attempted both with little success. At the suggestion of his mother, he tried finger painting. He found his left hand "stupid" so he concentrated on his right; now he uses his small and middle fingers for watercolors and his thumb for oils with outstanding success.

During his lively demonstrations, Lee offers helpful hints to his audiences — "Let the paint dry," or "Watch out for the fingernails." Novice or expert will gain something of interest from Lee's explanations and techniques.

The exhibit demonstrations are open to the public free of charge.

In keeping with the Asian theme, gallery director Michael Preble will present his lecture on "Whistler and Japonisme" in the gallery viewing room at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

The discussion centers around the noted American painter James Whistler and analyzes the influence on Whistler by Japonisme, particularly 19th Century Japanese woodblock prints.

Preble's talk is open to the public free.

MSAC's next exhibition, Nov. 26 to Dec. 16, will feature the paintings, sculpture and ceramics of Inez Johnston. The display will open with a reception.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday, and 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Scripps plans exhibition of African art

Authentic African masks, headdresses, textiles, tools, beadwork, musical instruments and fetishes will be displayed Nov. 19-Dec. 3 in the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College.

The students are curating the show and doing a catalog for it. Many of the pieces are from Mrs. Lewis' own collection while others are from the Claremont University Center collections. The public may view the exhibit from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays free of charge.

In conjunction with the exhibit, Mrs. Lewis will lecture on "African Art" at 8 p.m. Nov. 19 in Room 201 of the Humanities Center for participants in the Agricultural Leadership Program of California, Class IV, 1973-75. Sponsored by the Agricultural Education Foundation, the group representing agriculture business in California will meet at Kellogg West at Cal Poly Nov. 19-21. Mrs. Lewis' lecture is one of 12 seminars on various aspects of Africa and Africans for the conference. The group will then travel to Africa as part of the program.

Mrs. Lewis, recently named to the Expansion Arts Panel of the National Endowment for the Arts, is chairman of the board of Contemporary Crafts, Inc., a firm producing educational materials on Black art. A Scripps faculty member since 1970, she specializes in Black and Oriental art.

PVAA names Mrs. Shanks as manager

Mrs. Marjorie Shanks, an artist and former business executive, has been named executive manager of the Pomona Valley Art Association. The position was made possible by a grant from the Pomona Cultural Arts Commission.

Mrs. Shanks will coordinate the activities of the board and members and keep the records of the association and her office act as a clearing house for the art activities of the valley. Under her direction, the gallery at 112 Pomona Mall East will be open from Monday through Friday from noon to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Shanks has been associated with Culligan and McCallum of El Segundo. She attended classes at the De Young Museum of Art in San Francisco. She is also an accomplished pianist.

In accepting the position, Mrs. Shanks said, "I want to help promote interest in art and artists in the Pomona Valley."

RETURN ENGAGEMENT — Zubin Mehta will conduct the Los Angeles Philharmonic in a concert in Bridges Auditorium of the Claremont Colleges at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. It is the orchestra's 89th concert at the colleges. Mehta is in his 13th season with the Philharmonic, which recently made a European tour.

89th visit

L.A. Philharmonic set for Bridges

The Los Angeles Philharmonic, under the baton of Zubin Mehta, will present a concert in Bridges Auditorium of the Claremont Colleges at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

This is the second in the colleges' Artists Course Series. Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Mutual and Liberty agencies. Students "rush" tickets at $2 will be sold one hour before curtain time to fulltime students with I.D. cards.

The program will offer Wagner's "Rienzi" Overture; Schoenberg's Variations for Orchestra, and Dvorak's Symphony No. 2 in D minor.

The Philharmonic, acclaimed by critics as one of the five best in the United States, is making its 89th appearance in Bridges Auditorium. Some of the men who have conducted concerts in Claremont are Artur Rodzinski, Otto Klemperer, Bruno Walter, Alfred Wallenstein, Eduard van Beinum and Georg Solti.

Mehta is now in his 13th season as music director of the Philharmonic. This fall he conducted the orchestra in a triumphal six-week tour of Europe, ending with three concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall. The 103-piece orchestra won critical acclaim wherever it performed.

On Nov. 19 Mehta will take the orchestra on a 13-day tour of the West. The eight-state tour will include concerts on seven university campuses and one in the Queen Elizabeth Theater in Vancouver, B.C.

LOUIS RONFELDT

PVCCA sets concert by local chorale

The Ronfeldt Chorale will present a concert in Spring Auditorium, Ontario, at 8 p.m. Thursday, as the second program of the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association.

Now in its fifth season, the 32-voice chorale, composed of singers from the valley area, is conducted by Louis F. Ronfeldt of the music faculty of Mt. San Antonio College. The chorale's repertoire ranges from the classics to Broadway musicals with soloists and a chamber ensemble of musicians to add variety to its programs.

Vocal soloists featured in the concert will be Mildred Herkelrath, Georgia Warden, Donald Bowers, and Kenneth Orr. Composers represented will be Monteverdi, Vivaldi, Bach, Chopin, Verdi, Stravinsky, Vaughan Williams, Strauss, Toch, Faure and Sherman Edwards. Accompanist for the chorale and featured pianist is Larry Wong who will play Chopin's Revolutionary Etude.

Persons wishing to attend the concert, the second of five attractions this season, may contact the Pomona Valley Community Concert Association, Mrs. Stuart J. Brockway, secretary, 926 W. Yale St., Ontario, 91762, or telephone 986-5789.

Music school offers play at library

The children of the Claremont Community School of Music Center for the Performing Arts will present "The Phantom Toll Booth" at the Pomona Public Library at 3:30 p.m. Friday. The performance honors National Book Week. The play is an improvised story of a bored little boy who travels through the lands of Numbers, Letters, Boredom, Monsters, and finally Wisdom. He meets such helpers as Humbug played by Julian Dibbell, Spelling Bee played by Alia Seike, Tock played by Josh Young, and various characters with much imagination. The Little Boy is played by Maureen Ellenhorn.

The final presentation of "Toll Booth" will be at Pomona College Saturday at 4 p.m.

The first West Coast retrospective exhibition of tapestries by Swedish-born Helena Hernmarck will open Nov. 12 in the Ahmanson Gallery of the county Museum of Art in Los Angeles. The exhibition includes 25 tapestries created during the past 10 years.

According to Mary Hunt Kahlenberg, the museum's curator of textiles and costumes and organizer of the exhibition, Miss Hernmarck works completely out of the mainstream and is one of the first people to have worked extensively with architects in making tapestries which complement the design of commercial buildings.

Working in the traditional Swedish weaving technique called "rosepath," she uses a variety of materials including wool, metal and plastic. Her tapestries have a strong graphic quality and dimensional effect. They are at once realistic and abstract, and cover a great variety of subjects from a rain forest to fragments of newspapers to sports heroes and rock stars. She often makes tapestries from photographic blowups, translating the photograph to the "rosepath" weave with a grid. As with a photographic blowup, the viewer first notices the color and textural quality of her work, then sees the image emerge.

Included in the exhibition are "Steel I" and "Steel II," which depict the interior of a steelmill; "Mao," a double-sided transparent tapestry depicting Mao Tse-tung on one side and the signs of Yin and Yang on the other, and "Bubba Smith of the Baltimore Colts," a full-color hanging which portrays the Baltimore Colt's lineman on the playing field.

Miss Hernmarck was born in Stockholm in 1941. She attended the Swedish State School for Art, Craft and Design, and in 1964, she moved to Montreal, Canada, where she created several works for Montreal's Place des Arts and Expo '67's apartment complex. Since that time she has completed a number of tapestries which were commissioned by major companies to be hung in commercial buildings. Her work has been exhibited extensively throughout Europe, Scandinavia, the United States, Canada and Australia.

The exhibition can be seen Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and weekends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., through Jan. 12. Admission is free. Free guided tours are offered Thursdays at 1:30 p.m. except during Thanksgiving Day and Christmas week. A free brochure prepared by Miss Kahlenberg is available.

Miss Hernmarck will appear to answer questions from the public at a special "Q and A" session on Nov. 14 at noon in the Textiles and Costumes Galleries.

Gallery plans reception for local artist

An exhibition of graphics, oil paintings and watercolors by Glendora artist Marj Minarik at Culotta's Gallery, 143 E. Foothill Blvd., Pomona, will open with a public reception for the artist from 2 to 5 this afternoon.

Mrs. Minarik is represented in "American Printmakers," "California Graphics" and "Art and the Artist." Her works are in the permanent collections of the National Archives, Washington, D.C.; Cal Poly and Citrus College. She has had many one-woman shows and has exhibited at the National Orange Show, the Redlands Multi-Media Show, Southern California Exposition at Del Mar, and the California State Fair in Sacramento.

Among her awards are the purchase award in the third annual New Mexico Juried Competition in 1972, Juror's Award in the same show in 1973, first prize in graphics at the Citrus College Juried Show and the Pomona Valley Art Association annual show and two firsts in the Los Angeles County Arboretum Arts Festival.

Pen women display art in Claremont

An exhibition of oils and watercolors by members of the Claremont branch of the American Pen Women is now on view at the Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Foothill and Indian Hill boulevards, Claremont.

The exhibition continues to Dec. 26.

Two artists now showing at Citrus

Rodgers, a teacher at Cal State Long Beach and Golden West College, is showing intagilo prints in a metal etching technique he calls "viscosity." His prints have been exhibited in Europe.

Barker, a resident of Oregon, is showing his paintings of still life and portraits in oils and acrylics. His paintings and drawings have been exhibited throughout the United States.

The show will continue through Nov. 22. Gallery hours are Monnay through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Friday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.; Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m., and Tuesday, 6 to 9 p.m.

Skunks destroy more insects than all other mammals combined, biologists say.

Paintings and photographs by Eleanor Thorogood and oil paintings donated recently by the Ontario City Library by the Friends of the Ontario Library are on exhibit at the library.

The latter, selected at various art shows throughout Southern California, will be on permanent display in the periodicals department on the main floor of the library. The Thorogood showing will remain on display in the downstairs multi-purpose room until Dec. 1.

Miss Thorogood has been active in art and photography continuously since 1960 when she first experimented with painting-by-the-numbers and photography. Near the end of her first year of interest in the arts, she won first place in class "B" black and white photography at the Bob Oeffinger Monochrome Prints Exhibit — an event that attracted competition from Arizona and Southern California.

She was thereafter required to compete in class "A" competition because of the quality of her work with the camera. Although she paints with oil, watercolors and acrylic, she has never had an art lesson and yet, over the years, she has brought home many awards for her work in all categories of both art and photography.

BOBBY SHEW

Shew to play in concert at Chaffey

Jazz trumpeter Bobby Shew will perform in an evening of jazz in the Chaffey College Little Theater at 8 p.m. Nov. 20. Admission is free.

Featured will be Chaffey College Jazz Ensembles I and II led by Jack M. Mason, instrumental music director, and Robin Snyder, band director at Bonita High School.

Shew was lead trumpet for the first Buddy Rich band in the late 60s. He also performed with Woody Herman, Benny Goodman, Louie Belson and others.

Jazz Ensemble I will play one of Mason's own creations, "Mental Breakdown," as well as "Ain't It the Truth" "Backbone," "Self Help Is Needed," "Dolphin Dance" and "Is There Anything Still There?"

Jazz Ensemble II presentations under Snyder's baton will be "Jet Stream" (Alyn Ferguson) and "Big Dipper" and "Angel Eyes" and "Doin' the Bathrub Boggie."

Stevie Wonder schedules two concerts

Stevie Wonder, whose new single release, "Boogie on Reggae Woman," has advance orders totaling close to one-half million units, will wrap up his 1974 fall tour with an appearance at the Forum in Inglewood Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m. and the Long Beach Arena at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 27.

At the age of 24, Wonder is a 14-year veteran entertainer, signing with Motown Records when he was 10. He is an accomplished vocalist and instrumentalist on piano, drums and harmonica.

His latest single is taken from the successful album "Fulfillingness First Finale" which is his sixth consecutive million seller. Wonder wrote, arranged, produced and played most of the instrumentation on the single and the album.

Blind since birth, Wonder has harvested outstanding musical honors during his career. He possesses 13 gold records for sales of $1 million each of 13 singles and two gold albums and won four Grammy awards last year.

In Downbeat magazine's 38th annual reader's poll in 1973, he walked off with top place in five categories, including best pop musician of the year and best male singer. He also tied for first place in Downbeat's International Critics Poll in the best male vocalist category.

His latest recordings and this tour followed a nearly fatal auto accident in August 1973 in South Carolina. He remained in a coma for three days.

About the miraculous recovery, Wonder says "I see that God was trying to slow me down, to take it easy. I still feel I'm here to do something for Him, to please people, to turn my world into music for Him."

Artist Consultants Inc., a Los Angeles producing company, is presenting both the Wonder concerts. Rufus and Wonderlove will be guests.

Davis, USC romp over Stanford

"It was a nice game with a lot of hard hitting, "McKay said after the Trojans had demolished the Cardinals, 34-10, to take the Pacific-8 Conference lead by a game over three teams and the inside track to the Rose Bowl.

A week ago, after Southern Cal had played to a 15-15 tie with California, McKay said his team "stunk, didn't play inspired football and didn't even deserve a tie."

"I guess we were fired up this time," he said, "but to be honest, you can't play real good every week. Just when you think things are going your way you have disappointments.

Anthony Davis ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third in a one-man show that carried the Trojans to their victory.

The victory gave the 11th-ranked Trojans a 4-0-1 Pac-8 record and made them 6-1-1 overall. Stanford suffered its first conference loss and now is 3-1-1 with two league games left to play.

Davis helped Southern Cal to a 34-3 lead before leaving early in the fourth quarter. He carried the ball 22 times for 119 yards to become the Pac-8's second leading all-time rusher.

Davis cracked over from the one to wind up a 75-yard, 15-play drive with the opening kickoff, ran 21 yards for another score in the third quarter and passed nine yards to John McKay on a halfback option as the Trojans dominated the game from start to finish.

A 22-yard FG by Mike Langford in the second quarter and a seven-yard pass from Guy Benjamin to Ted Pappas accounted for the Stanford points.

The Trojans opened a 17-0 lead before Langford got Stanford's first points and they were in front 34-3 when Benjamin connected with Pappas.

USC, nine-point favorite, did not make a single mistake while the Cardinals could not do anything right.. Mike Cordova started at quarterback for stanford, and the Trojan defense, the best in the Pac-8, intercepted him twice and recovered a fumble but only one of the turnovers resulted in a score.

Bruins blank hapless Ducks to stay alive

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — UCLA, bolstered by the knowledge it is 45 points better than Ohio State, is still alive in its ambitions of playing in the Rose Bowl.

The Bruins were simply too much for hapless Oregon Saturday afternoon in rolling to an easy 21-0 victory at the Coliseum before 32,713 customers.

UCLA's first shutout victory in 55 games gives the Bruins a 3-1-1 record in the Pacific-8 conference standings to share second place with Stanford and California, one game behind USC with two to go.

It's obvious the Bruins must win their final two games at Oregon State next Saturday and against USC in two weeks to have any hopes of playing in the Pasadena classic.

All of a sudden, the Rose Bowl doesn't appear to be as big a mismatch as most fans thought.

Afterall, UCLA ripped Michigan State 56-14 earlier this season and the Spartans rebounded by stunning the nation Saturday in upsetting Ohio State 16-13.

UCLA's defense did the job Saturday in picking up the Bruins' first shutout victory since a 32-0 decision over California in 1969.

When the Ducks (0-5 in PAC-8 play and 2-7 overall) were able to move the ball, UCLA interceptions halted their drives. Tom Waddell, Gene Settles, Kent Pearce and John Nanoski picked off passes from Oregon quarterback Norval Turner to lead the defense.

"I gave the game ball to Lynn Stiles our head defensive coach," UCLA head coach Dick Vermeil said. "Anytime you shutout an opponent it's a real tribute to your defensive coaches."

Meanwhile, sophomore Jeff Dankworth scored two of the Bruins three touchdowns to spark the offense in his first starting assignment.

Dankworth's first score came midway through the first quarter when he ran 15 yards unmolested through the Oregon defense to climax a 63 yard march on eight plays.

UCLA had to settle for a 7-0 halftime lead as Oregon was able to stay in the game despite frustrations. One Duck drive of 73 yards was halted by Waddell's interception and another threat ended when Stan Woodfill's 45-yard field goal try was short.

"We were very lethargic in the first half and that's my first responsibility," Vermeil explained. "You couldn't write what I told the team at halftime but we definitely played a better second half and increased our tempo."

The Bruins completely dominated the third quarter as Oregon ran only five offensive plays.

UCLA marched 68 yards on 15 plays — all on the ground — after the second half kickoff with halfback Jim Brown scoring from the one. Brett White's kick made it 14-0.

The Bruins got the ball right back when Settles recovered an Oregon fumble on the Duck 40. But the Oregon defense stopped UCLA on a fourth down play at the one.

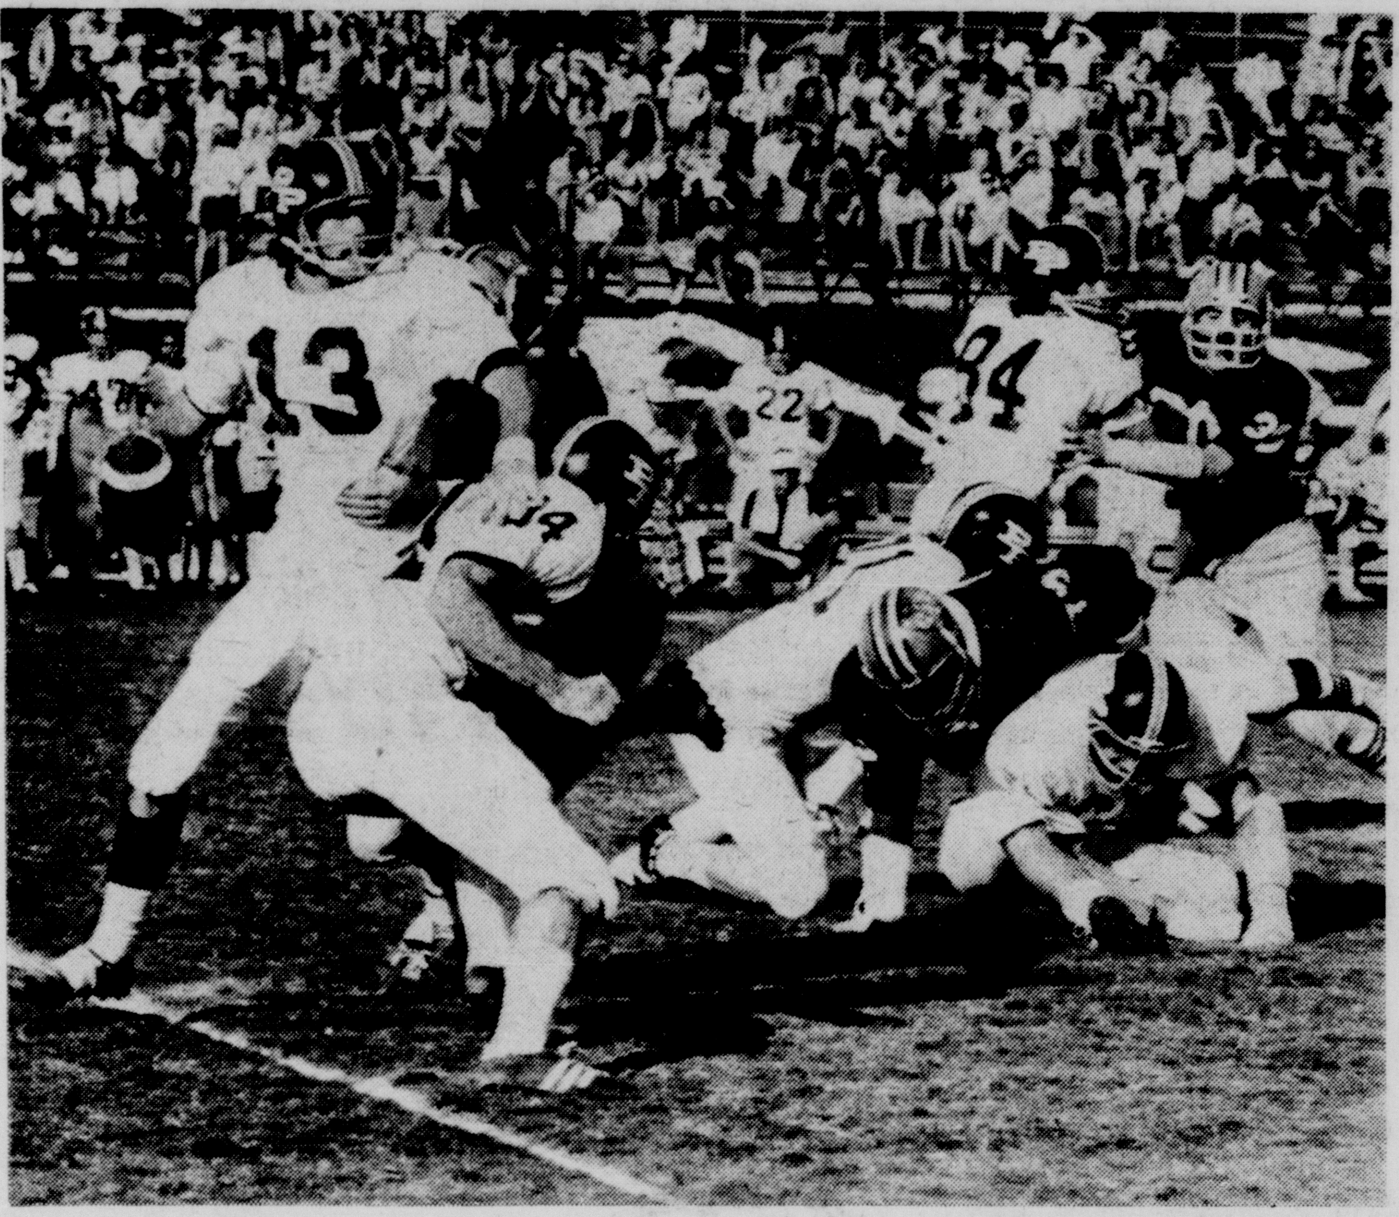
Rowland High is the Montview League champ.

The Raiders claimed the title Saturday night as the result of Azusa's 22-6 victory over Workman.

Coach Gary Rawls' defending co-champs had a 5-0-1 league record (6-1-1 overall) after Friday's 13-13 tie with Nogales. Workman entered Saturday's Azusa clash with a 4-1 slate. The loss leaves the Lobos 1½ games in back of Rowland with one game remaining.

The Raiders will be returning to the CIF playoffs for the second year in a row. Last season Rawls' club advanced to the quarterfinals before losing to Neff, 36-14.



FIGHTING OFF THE ENEMY

Pomona-Pitzer quarterback Larry Cenotto (13) struggles to free himself from grasp of would be tackler who has gotten by Tim Short's (34) block. Cenotto, Sagehens won, 33-22. (See story page 29).

Leo miscues result in win for Whittier

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff WWriter

They still haven't put handles on footballs. So La Verne College has been toppled in Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) play.

In a frustrating 10-7 loss to Whittier Saturday at La Verne, the Leos added six more fumbles to their shocking season total and had two passes intercepted.

One of the fumbles set up Whittier's only touchdown. One of the interceptions started the Poets on a 10-play, 69-yard drive that ended with a field goal. The other interception, in the waning moments, killed any chance of a comeback.

The loss drops La Verne to a 2-1 record in the conference and 4-4 overall. Whittier is 3-0 and 7-1. The Leos host Redlands Saturday while Whittier travels to Pomona-Pitzer.

"We ran the stuff we thought we could run, but losing the ball cost us," said a disheartened Roland Ortmayer. "Our kicking game didn't help us as much as I thought either. I figured we'd get at least one or two field goals."

John Karns' only field goal attempt was blocked by John Melloti, Whittier defensive back, in the first quarter. Melloti grabbed the loose ball and returned it all the way to the Leopard 26-yard line.

But the Leo defense, outstanding as usual, stopped the Poets at the 17 and La Verne took over on downs.

Coach John Godfrey of Whittier was a gracious winner. "Mistakes beat La Verne," he said. "I'm glad our passing game worked. You can't beat La Verne without passing."

Redlands downs Oxy in SCIAC

REDLANDS (UPI) — Jim Esposito scored on a four-yard run and Eric Thomason caught a two-yard TD pass from Steve Vento in the second half Saturday night to pace Redlands to a 24-12 SCIAC win over Occidental.

Redlands led 10-6 at the half after Chuck Hiroto's 11-yard TD run in the opening period and a 33-yard field goal by Don Damschen in the second quarter.

Rams expect outburst from new-look Falcons

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Rams' coach Chuck Knox expects to have a battle on his hands today when the Rams take on the Atlanta Falcons in the head-coaching debut of Marion Campbell.

Campbell, once an assistant Ram coach under George Allen, was named to replace fiery Norm Van Brocklin Tuesday.

Atlanta owner Rankin Smith fired Van Brocklin after the Falcons won only two of their first eight games.

"A team that has just made a coaching change is usually ready for an emotional outburst," said Knox. "I expect the Falcons to be pretty emotional for us."

The Falcons are in last place in the NFC West. The Rams lead the division by three games with a 6-2 mark and have been made 13-point favorites.

The Rams have won three straight since James Harris took over the quarterbacking job from John Hadl. Hadl, last year's NFC Player of the Year, has since been dealt to the Green Bay Packers for five draft choices.

Harris completed 12 of 20 for 145 yards in the Rams' 15-13 win over San Francisco Monday night.

"He played a fine game," said Knox. "He has been doing well and he will improve."

Ram running back Lawrence McCutcheon leads the NFL in rushing with 719 yards in eight games. He has rushed for 100 yards or more four times this season.

Knox, who coached the Rams to a 12-2 record last season, insists the Rams are not going to have it as easy this season as they did last year.

"There is just too much balance in the league now," said Knox. "Do you realize that 52 per cent of the games this season have been decided by seven points or less?"

"We're winning. That's all that matters to me."

The Rams bolstered their defensive corps Friday by picking up free agent safety Maurice Spencer, a rookie who was recently released by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Spencer, from North Carolina Central, appeared in the Cardinals' first seven games this season. He will replace safety Bill Drake, who suffered a knee injury in the Rams' San Francisco game and will be out for the year.

S.D. State rips Pacific, 37-9

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Monty Reedy scored three touchdowns Saturday night as San Diego State clinched its third straight Pacific Coast Athletic Association title with a 37-9 romp over the University of Pacific.

The victory gives the Aztecs a 4-0 league mark and a 6-2 record overall. Pacific is now 2-2 in PCAA play and 5-5 for the season.

Reedy, a junior transfer from Bakersfield College, scored on runs of one, five and two yards in the second quarter as San Diego went ahead 23-9 at the half.

Michigan State stuns Buckeyes

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The upset of the season was also one of the wildest and most improbable games in Big Ten history.

The fact that Michigan State had downed unbeaten and No. 1 ranked Ohio State 16-13 wasn't even official until one hour after the game was over.

In a dispute over remaining time, both coaches, teams and 78,533 fans waited for discussions which ended with Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke announcing the final score stood.

College roundup, Page 30

It marked the third time in four seasons that the Spartans have beaten Ohio State, 4-1 in the conference now, second to Michigan with 5-0. Michigan State is 4-1-1.

The clincher was an 88-yard scoring run by fullback Levi Jackson with 3:17 to play, the second longest scoring run in Michigan State history.

But in the long run, an extra linebacker may have decided the battle.

Michigan State made a minor adjustment in its goal line defense this week to prepare for an awesome Ohio State offensive unit that had been averaging 491 yards and 45 points a game.

Ohio State, which entered the game a 26-point favorite, knocked three times on Michigan State's door in the final 30 minutes with first down and goal situations from inside the MSU 10-yard line.

Michigan State pulled a defensive back and replaced him with a linebacker, freshman Paul Rudzinski, thus countering Ohio State's awesome full house backfield and keeping Buckeye points to a minimum.

"We picked it up on the films," Spartan coach Denny Stolz said. "They tip off their plays when they line up in the fullhouse. So when they got near the goal line and sent in that extra running back, we sent in our linebacker.

"The three linebackers also gave us maximum lateral pursuit to cut off (tailback Archie) Griffin."

Michigan State had just capped a frantic two-touchdown rally in the game's final five and one-half minutes to take a 16-13 lead.

Quarterback Charlie Baggett hit end Mike Jones with a 44-yard touchdown pass with 9:30 gone in the final period to cut the Ohio State led to 13-10.

Then the Spartans stopped the Bucks on four plays — forcing a punt by Tom Skaldany. Tom Hunt took the 51-yard kick and returned it two yards to the Spartan 12. On the next play, Jackson rambled 88 yards down the sideines, outrunning three Buckeye defensive backs along the way.

Ohio State took the ensuing kickoff with 3:11 left and drove 70 yards to the Spartan one. But with no time left on the clock, Champ Henson dived into the end zone for what looked like the winning touchdown.

One official raised his arms to signal the score —but the other five left the field maintaining the play began after time expired.

"Time had expired," Duke said. "Had time not expired, Ohio State would have been charged with a penalty for not being in a set position for a full second before the start of the play."

"There was no way they were going to take back that win from us," Stolz said. "I wasn't watching the play, I was watching the clock. As far as I was concerned the game was over before the final play began."

Kings salvage tie with N.Y.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Frank St. Marseille's goal at 6:48 of the second period Saturday night gave the Los Angeles Kings a hard-fought 2-2 tie with the New York Rangers before 15,672.

St. Marseille tapped in a three-footer after goalie Ed Giacomin had lost sight of a rebound of Dan Maloney's shot.

Richard Petty tops 500 field

ONTARIO—Grand National stock car driving champion Richard Petty and all the other top 12 drivers of the 1974 Winston Cup series have entered the $120,000 Times 500 to be held Nov. 24 at Ontario Motor Speedway.

The Times 500 is the final event of the NASCAR season.

BINKY'S BOXED IN

MSAC tailback Binky Benton (22) is surrounded by Santa Ana defenders in Saturday night's game. Benton wasn't surrounded often, however. He gained 193 yards as Mounties won, 22-17. (Story page 28)

Call him 'the Count'

If John Montefusco is as good as he appeared to be after his recall by the San Francisco Giants, he not only will be a winning pitcher but a crowd-pleaser, besides. He likes the nickname "The Count," he received in the minor leagues. "The Count" hit two homers in the seven games he hurled with a 3-2 record—breaking both the Dodgers and Reds down the stretch—shutting out the Big Red Machine.

It's a small team

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—Lewis and Clark High School football coach Jerry Conners was asked Monday to assess just how small his team would be this year.

"Let me put is this way: We had to return the game jerseys and have them move the numbers up six inches so we could tell who they were out there," Conners told the Inland Empire Sports Writers and Broadcasters.

Harris provides Poly's big play

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

NORTHRIDGE — The one main thing Cal Poly has lacked this football season has been the big play.

Freshman speedster Mike Harris provided the big gainer here Saturday night in breaking loose with a 74-yard touchdown run in the third quarter to give Poly a tough 14-12 victory over host Cal State Northridge.

The win gave Poly a final 1-1-2 record in the California Collegiate Athletic Association and insured an overall winning campaign with a 5-2-2 mark entering next Saturday's finale at Cal State Hayward.

The win was a lot tougher than expected over a Northridge club which had lost eight in a row after a season opening victory.

But it was also Poly's first victory over the Matadors since 1966 to break a string of seven straight defeats.

The host Matadors used a pair of field goals in the first quarter by ace kicker Jose Ballina of 55 and 25 yards plus a fourth quarter touchdown to keep the pressure on Poly on a windy night here at Devonshire Downs.

Northridge elected to go for a two-point conversion but Bronco cornerback Paul Russell broke up another pass intended for Gunnels.

The gusty wind played a big factor in the game as both clubs had trouble passing and kicking.

Both of Ballina's field goals came with the wind at his back and he had the advantage in the fourth quarter. He tried a 59 yarder with 1:55 left in the game but it fell short.

Harris, who ran for 168 yards on 27 carries, scored both Poly TD's.

After Ballina put the Matadors ahead 6-0, Harris scored on a one yard run with 5:48 left in the second quarter to climax a 49 yard drive on nine consecutive running plays.

Harris broke loose for his big run with 1:39 remaining in the third quarter. The freshman from Indio found an opening, broke away from a tackle and was off and running on a 74-yard dash down the sideline.

Poly gained 309 offensive yards to Northridge's 226 with 261 of the Bronco yardage coming on the ground. As quarterback Jim Zorn, who was harrassed by the wind, was able to complete only five of 17 passes for 48 yards.

Lancers blank Vikings, Alta Loma falls, 22-8

Bill Darrell, who rushed for 70 yards on 13 carries, scored the only touchdown of the game with 3:04 left in the first half as Charter Oak (3-3) blanked Northview 7-0 in a Montview League contest Saturday night.

Darrell scored on a two-yard run to climax a 55 yard drive that took 11 plays. He also kicked the extra point.

Northview's (1-5) only threat came in the fourth quarter with four minutes remaining when it drove to the Lancer five, having the ball first-and-goal.

But the Rob Ehlenberg-Bob Vannoy-led Charter Oak defense pushed the Vikings back 13 yards to thwart the threat.

The two teams combined for nine fumbles, Northview guilty of five, losing four — while CO bumbled four and lost the ball three times. Vannoy recovered two Viking miscues while CO's Pat Cagney had the only interception of the game.

Northridge was held to 164 yards total offense while Charter Oak wound up with 197.

Keith Smith scored on touchdown runs of 10 and 20 yards, while rushing for 167 yards, to lead Sierra Vista to a 22-8 romp over Alta Loma at Baldwin Park High in a Hacienda League contest.

Neal Hilger tallied the Braves' lone score in the third period on a one yard run. Steve Robinson ran for the two-point conversion.

Woody obviously not pleased about loss

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Woody Hayes was never one to accept defeat graciously.

But he takes losing even more bitterly when his team is ranked No. 1 in the nation, is undefeated, is favored to win by 26 points, and the deciding touchdown is controversial.

Such were the circumstances Saturday when the heavy underdog Michigan State Spartans upset Ohio State 16-13.

Hayes' Buckeyes were deprived of what apparently was the game winning touchdown when officials ruled that time had run out before the ball was snapped.

"According to my players, (wingback) Brian Baschnagel was in the end zone by five yards," Hayes said. "They say there were still two seconds left on the clock when the ball was snapped.

Hayes said that until the films of the final play are run, he would not know who won.

Hayes was told after the game by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke that Michigan State had won —at least until the game films are reviewed early this week.

Benton leads ground game, 22-17

Mounties now tied for first

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

Tailback Binky Benton chopped out 193 yards rushing and Mt. San Antonio College captured its second win of the season and a piece of first place in the South Coast Conference Saturday night with a 22-17 homecoming game victory over Santa Ana.

Zeroing in on 1,000 yards for the season, Benton ripped the No. 1 defense in the conference for a 4.8 average on 40 carries and punched in MSAC's first touchdown of the night on a seven-yard run. With 951 yards total, he needs 49 yards with two games remaining to reach the 1,000-yard milestone.

Those games will be with Fullerton and San Diego Mesa — both away. Fullerton beat Cerritos Saturday night, 20-17 at Anaheim Stadium and Mesa stopped Orange Coast, 14-10, Friday night, to share first place with 2-1 records.

In a game marred by penalties — 224 yards for both teams — the Mounties came from behind to hand the Dons their third loss in conference play.

Benton's seven-yard run and a 16-yard scoring pass from quarterback Kurt Porter to John Ochoa in the first period moved MSAC into a 14-10 lead.

Santa Ana scored on a one-yard run by Kevin Howell and a 45-yard field goal by Tim Morganti. Howell gained 115-yards on 19 carries with two touchdowns.

The Mounties upped their lead to 16-10 with 1:23 left in the half on a safety as defensive tackles Steve Prewett and Tony Gillette and linebacker Mark Bradford pulled halfback Ron Sederos down in the end zone.

Mando Herrera kicked a 35-yard field goal in the third quarter and a 34 yarder in the final period to give MSAC a comfortable 22-10 lead with 11:12 to play. Herrera added both extra points to run his total for the season to 35 points. He has nine field goals.

Santa Ana trimmed MSAC's lead with a minute to play on a one-yard run by Howell and Morganti's PAT.

The score was set-up when Benton's halfback pass was intercepted by Rich Martin, giving the Dons possession at their 36.

A 39-yard pass play from quarterback Kevin Shanahan to Jay Craig moved the ball to the Mounties 25 and seven plays later Howell scored from the one and Morganti kicked the extra point to cut the deficit to 22-17 with one-minute to play.

With their second victory of the season, the Mounties are 2-4-2 overall. Santa Ana is 1-6.

It was the best overall effort of the season for MSAC despite 117 yards in penalties. Offensively, the Mounties outproduced the Dons 19-7 in first downs, 266-185 yards rushing and 315-234 yards total offense.

Defensively, the Mounties harassed Shanahan and sacked him four times for a minus 30 yards and defensive back Mark Saris picked off one of his passes as he completed only 3 of 8 for 40 yards.

Prather's 4 TD's paces Owls

Roy Prather rushed for 178 yards on 28 carries and scored four touchdowns including a 68-yard punt return Saturday night to lead Citrus College to a 55-24 rout of Palomar.

Prather scored on runs of six, three, five and the punt return while backfield mates Herbert Holmes added 75 yards on nine rushes and scored on a four yard run. Eddie White also chipped in 63 yards on 11 totes as the Owls (7-0-1 overall, 6-0 league) ground out 378 yards rushing and another 66 through the air.

Bob Cox dazzled a Palomar home crowd with a 105-yard kickoff return, breaking two tackles en route to the school record.

The Comets had taken a 17-13 lead early in the third quarter when Cox and Prather broke loose on their gallups within 2:50 of each other to break the game wide open.

Citrus hosts Saddleback next Saturday in a game that could decide the Mission Conference title.

Tyrone Jackson scored three touchdowns to pace San Bernardino to a 26-14 romp of Chaffey College in another Mission battle.

Jackson scored on runs of four and five yards in the first quarter and quarterback Tim Thaldson hit Lacount Jones on a 32-yard scoring strike to stake Valley to a 19-0 lead by the midway point of the third period.

FINDS PAYDIRT — UCLA QB Jeff Dankworth gives the Bruins a 7-0 first quarter lead with this 16-yard TD run against Oregon. The Bruins wound up blanking the Ducks 21-0.

Rose Bowl bid still alive

Dankworth completed the scoring on the second play of the fourth quarter with a one-yard run.

UCLA rode up 345 offensive yards to Oregon's 268 with Dankworth leading the rushers with 70 yards on 12 carries while completing four of nine attempts for 62 yards.

Turner was able to complete 11 of 21 passes for 125 yards but his four interceptions wrecked Oregon's Chances. Don Reynolds led the Duck rushers with 82 yards on 17 carries while Mt. San Antonio College transfer Teddy Farmer added 24 yards on three rushing attempts.

"I was pleased with our victory," Vermeil said. "However, we should beat a team like this year's Oregon club. We have more good football players and are more physical."

Looking ahead, Vermeil added, "There's no way we will be looking beyond Oregon State to the SC game. We'll have to play better against the Beavers than we did today if we are going to beat them. And if we don't the SC game means nothing. Besides that, we're not good enough to overlook any opponent and still expect to win."

Stags win soccer title, Sagehens stops Oxy

What do soccer and a professor of philosophy have in common?

Three SCIAC championships in the lastt six years.

When Bill Arce of Claremont-Mudd asked Stephen Davis, a professor of philosophy, to coach the Stag soccer team in 1969 little did he know of the success to come.

Randy Douglas booted three goals Saturday afternoon to lead Claremont-Mudd to a 6-0 shutout over Cal Tech and the 1974 SCIAC soccer crown.

Douglas, a freshman from Aviation High in Manhatten Beach, ran his season total to five goals and had help from Conrad Creasy (seventh goal), Bob Poaster five goals) and Chris Cordua (1st tally) — who kick one goal each to help run C-M's overall record to 12-1-2 and league ledger to 10-0-1.

"It's good to be back winning the league again after three years," said Davis who has directed C-M to titles in '69, '70 and now '74. The Stags also won the conference in 1968, the initial season for the league, under another skipper, giving them four crowns in seven years.

"This is the best overall team I've had," continued Davis. "Some of the earlier teams had better individuals but this team has the best balance — 11 good starters and a good bench. It's been a good team effort, not based on what any individual has done."

Paul Suter helped Pomona-Pitzer avenge an early-season loss at Occidental Saturday afternoon with a two-goal one assist performance in a 4-1 soccer victory over visiting Oxy.

Suter, who tallied his fourth goal and second assist of the week, ran his season total to 14 goals. Gerry Clark and Fred Bruce-Oliver each had a goal for the Sagehens.

Oxy's only goal came on a penalty kick as the Tigers never really threatened, getting only eight shots at Pomona goalie Brad Kraft.

The win gives the Hens an 8-2-1 record in SCIAC play and makes Tuesday's match with C-M a 'must win situation' as an upset over the Stags would give the Hens a playoff berth as a runnerup entry. A tie would force a coin flip between Pomona and Whittier, while a Pitzer loss would give the Poets the nod.

Season comes to end, delays Bethel streak

BRANDT, Ohio (UPI) — "I don't think Woody Hayes could have made much difference in this season for us," sighed Bethel Local High School Principal Norven Deeter. "A lot of us are glad our football season is over."

Friday night's 49-0 loss to Degraff Riverside gave Bethel a clean slate. In 10 games the Bees failed to score while giving up the amazing total of 544 points.

Bethel's opponents, many of which tried to keep scores down by doing things like kicking field goals on first downs, won by scores of 40-0, 53-0, 92-0, 89-0, 50-0, 56-0, 360, 33-0, 46-0 and 49-0.

Figuring that a win was too much to hope for, nearly 1,000 Bethel fans filled the stands in this tiny western Ohio hamlet Friday night to beg for just a score.

"Anytime we made any penetration the fans yelled and screamed," reported Deeter. "They were still backing the team, but we just couldn't score."

Did Bethel ever come close to scoring this season?

"Yes," said Deeter, "back in the second game we somehow got a first and goal on the one-yard line. We ran four plays and didn't score."

For Coach Dennis Reck, the season was a wreck. His wife, Judy, didn't dare ask the score when he came home Friday night.

Sports news in brief

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forego just about cinched his claim for the horse of the year honors Saturday when the 4-year-old gelding scored a 2½-length victory in the $111,900, two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct.

In recording his eighth stakes victory in 13 stakes starts this year, Forego took the lead at the 1¾-mile mark and held off a strong bid by French import Copte in the stretch.

Ridden by Heliodoro Gustines, Forego covered the distance in 3:21 1-5 under 124 pounds. The Big Lazy F ranch gelding was an odds-on favorite in the field of eight and paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.20.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., already the record holder in single year earnings on the professional bowlers' tour, will try to keep alive his chance to be the first bowler ever to top $100,000 in a season in the Brunswick World Open starting Monday.

Anthony has earned $88,660 this year and by winning the top $14,000 prize would climb over $100,000. But he would have to finish no lower than second, which pays $7,500, to have a chance to top that figure before the season ends.

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — Admetus, a lowly-regarded gelding from France, struck like a bolt of lightning at Laurel Saturday to win the $150,000 Washington D.C. International by three-quarters of a length to record the biggest upset in the history of the race.

With Jockey Maurice Philipperon in the saddle, the chestnut gelding, a 31-1 longshot, outgained a pair of fillies in a furious finish to give his country its seventh victory in 23 runnings of the race.

LOUISVILLE, Ky (UPI) — World Heavyweight Champion Muhammad Ali, given the full red carpet welcome at halftime of the Kentucky Colonels-New York Nets ABA game Saturday night, repeated his desire to fight Joe Frazier and George Foreman the same night.

Ali said that if the two former champions refuse to meet him under those circumstances he will never give either of them a separate shot at the title.

Mark Montgomery, who has replaced the injured Jim McDonald as Whittier quarterback, completed nine of 18 passes for 132 yards and a touchdown.

The Leos took a 7-0 lead early in the second quarter. Roy VanderKallen's 40-yard run was the key play in an 83-yard drive. "Dandy Vandy's" run put the ball on the Poet 17.

Curtis Frick carried the ball five times in the next six plays and went six yards into the end zone only to have the play nullified by a motion penalty.

Randy Brown passed nine yards to Rusty Jackson for the touchdown. John Karns kicked the extra point and it was 7-0, La Verne.

VanderKallen fumbled and Whittier recovered at the La Verne 28. On the first play following the fumble, Montgomery connected with Jim Fitzpatrick, the big tight end, for a 28-yard touchdown pass.

The Leos took the kickoff and moved from their own 33 to the Poets' 27 where Brown's pass was intercepted by Ron Heberger. Montgomery took Whittier to the La Verne 11 where the drive stalled. Nick Seja, who had tied the game with his point after touchdown kick, booted a field goal to put the Poets in front to stay.

In the waning moments of the game, Brown moved the Leos from their own three-yard line to their own 43. But then he put the ball up for grabs firing into a cluster of white jerseys and the ball was intercepted.

VanderKallen gained 105 yards in 20 carries but fumbled three times. Frick made 63 yards on 19 carries. Brown completed nine of 19 for 82 yards mostly on short passes. But the two interceptions brought his season total to 10 in 73 attempts.

Worse yet are the fumble totals. The Leos have fumbled 49 times and the opposition has recovered 25 of them.

Storm players still won't play

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Portland Storm, still with a chance at a World Football League playoff spot, may never play its final regular season game since team members decided Friday, "No pay, no play."

General Manager Ron Mix was scheduled to return from Florida Saturday with $50,000 guaranteed the Storm by the Florida Blazers when the Blazer-Storm game Thursday night was moved from Portland to Orlando.

There was a delay Friday, however, in announcing completion of a deal for new ownership of the Blazers.

Pomona-Pitzer wins toss, game

Hens stun Stags, 33-22

By MIKE BROSSART
P-B Correspondent

The Pomona-Pitzer Sagehens lost their first six games this year, as well as their first six official coin tosses.

But both streaks came to an end Saturday afternoon when the Sagehens won the flip and went on to upend their cross-campus rivals, the Claremont-Mudd Stags. The Sagehens ruined the Stags' homecoming by a score of 33-22.

Sagehens quarterback Larry Cenotto had another outstanding day, throwing the football for 303 yards. He completed 19 of 29 attempts, including three touchdowns and two interceptions.

But the unusual facet of the Sagehens' game was their fine defensive play. Stag running back Billy Nash stung the Hens for 163 yards rushing, but time and time again the Pomona-Pitzer defense denied the Stags on big pass attempts.

Twice the Sagehens stopped the Stag offense within the Hen 10 yard line, and they also halted a Claremont-Mudd drive on the 16. In each case the stopper was an incomplete pass.

"Our defense really rose to the occasion," smiled Coach Ambord, adding, "I'm just glad we don't have to face Nash again."

The Sagehen coach was reluctant to single out an individual on his defensive eleven, but he was very pleased with Kim Aguirre's play.

Aguirre, a senior defensive tackle, sacked Stag quarterback Steve Schaumleffel twice in the final quarter. Freshman Warren Higa also dropped Schaumleffel for a loss in the same period.

Pomona-Pitzer struck first with a 20-yard scoring toss from Cenotto to Joe Budenholzer with three minutes gone in the game. Scott Borg kicked the first of his three extra points to give the Hens a 7-0 lead.

Eleven minutes later Nash scored for the Stags on a fine 29-yard run. After rounding the right side, Nash cut back to the inside to elude potential tacklers and raced to the goal. Jon Begerow's kick tied the score.

Then with 6:11 remaining in the first half, Cenotto rolled to his left on a fourth-and-20 situation. After escaping a couple of Stag defenders, he found Budenholzer all alone on the right corner of the end zone. The scoring pass went for 34 yards, and Borg's kick made it 14-7 at halftime.

The Hens put the game away with two third-period touchdowns, one on a one yard rollout by Cenotto and the other on a 20-yard catch by Biff Sherman. Sherman caught Cenotto's pass at the goal line in the midst of three Stag defenders.

The Stags scored in the third quarter on a seven-yard run by Mike McGehee. Each team scored on a run from one yard out in the final period to cap the scoring.

MSAC 2nd in CC finals

Mt. San Antonio College finished second in the team standings Saturday afternoon in the South Coast Conference cross country finals at La Mirada Park.

The Mounties wound up with 61 points behind Fullerton's winning total of 28. Santa Ana was third (79), followed by Orange Coast (105), San Diego Mesa (119) and Cerritos (127).

Art Eddy paced MSAC with a seventh place overall finish in 20:00 followed by Mark Lotich (11th) in 20:28, Marc Sortillon (13th) in 20:31, Bob Watanabe (14th) in 20:33, and Jim Urs[illegible]o (16th) in 20:46.

OCC'[illegible]ohn Olfwang won the meet in a record time of 19:05.8.

MSAC will host the Southern Cal meet next Saturday.

OVER THE TOP — Michigan fullback Chuck Heater jumps over his own lineman and gains six yards in Saturday's 14-6 victory over Illinois. Michigan is alone in first place in Big Ten.

Webb School falls to Big Bear, 34-6

Big Bear gave up its second touchdown of the season Saturday but was still no match for Webb School in a 34-6 Arrowhead League victory in Claremont.

Webb scored its only touchdown on a nine-yard pass from Doug McCowan to Wally Pitts in the first quarter to get as close as it would get to Big Bear, 7-6.

Darrell Reynolds led the Bears with 51 yards and two touchdown runs of 33 and six yards. Kevin McGrath kicked four out of five extra points and caught a 21-yard touchdown pass for Big Bear's final score of the game.

The win gave Big Bear a 5-0-1 league record, 7-0-1 for the season. Webb is now 2-3-1 in league and 2-4-1 overall.

Okker, Ashe advance to Stockholm finals

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Third-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands came back from a 2-4 deficit in the third set to win a tie-breaker from top-seeded Bjoern Borg of Sweden, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6, Saturday and gain the finals against American Arthur Ashe in the $100,000 Stockholm Open tennis tournament.

Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., had an easier time in beating Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, 64, 6-4, in the second semifinal. The final is scheduled for Sunday.

Okker, who had lost two previous meetings to the blond Swede, played a perfect first set against the popular Borg.

In the second set, Borg, who suffered from an injured thigh muscle, broke Okker's second serve for a 2-1 lead but the tiny Dutchman came back to break in the eighth game for a 4-4 deadlock.

The two players exchanged service breaks in the next two games, but then Borg managed to serve home the set in the 12th game to the delight of a capacity crowd at the Royal Tennis Hall.

Borg managed the first break of the deciding set in the third game and he held his service in the fourth at love for a 4-2 edge.

But Okker then rallied to win 12 straight points and three games in a row. In the tie-break, he won the match seven points to five.

"This was by far my best match in this tournament," the 30-year-old Borg said. "I have not played well during the last tournaments but I found my style here in Stockholm."

Okker, beaten finalist in this tournament two years ago when he lost to American Stan Smith, said that Borg's injury probably had hampered the Swede's mobility.

Holy Cross star nabs NCAA mark

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — Holy Cross' defensive star John Provost set an all-time NCAA interception-return record Saturday when he returned a 76-yard interception for a touchdown in the Crusaders game against Massachusetts.

Provost's return gave him a record 468 career interception-return yards.

The interception was Provost's 25th of his career, tying him with Michigan's Tom Curtis, who held the previous interception-return mark of 440 yards set in 1969.

Illinois gridder fatally shot

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Greg Williams, the University of Illinois' rugged defensive end, was fatally shot Saturday at the fraternity house where he lived and another student was shot and wounded.

A starter until he suffered an ankle injury against Iowa three weeks ago, Williams had not been slated to play Saturday and had not spent the night with the team.

Inspired 'Bama whips LSU

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Defending UPI national champion Alabama took advantage of a golden opportunity to become the nation's No. 1 college football team Saturday by routing Louisiana State 30-0 after top-ranked Ohio State was upset by Michigan State.

Ohio State was upset 16-13 by Michigan State Saturday, while Michigan — tied with Alabama for second in the UPI ranking — beat Illinois only 14-6.

The second-ranked Crimson Tide also announced after the game that it will meet Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl on New Year's Day.

Quarterback Richard Todd and running back Willie Shelby paced unbeaten Alabama to its 20th straight regular-season victory and its 42nd win in its last 43 games.

Spartans squeak

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Michigan's Gordon Bell ran for 142 yards and one touchdown against Illinois Saturday to spark the Wolverines to a 14-6 victory which possibly could lead to college football's No. 1 ranking next week.

Michigan entered the game tied for No. 2 with Alabama. Top-ranked Ohio State was upset by Michigan State Saturday.

Thus, the Wolverines' ninth win without a loss might result in the top ranking. It also left them alone in first place in the Big Ten title chase.

'Huskers win

AMES, Iowa (UPI) — Sugar Bowl-bound Nebraska used two touchdown runs by freshman Monte Anthony and a stingy defense to whip Iowa State 23-13 in a Big Eight conference game Saturday.

The eighth-ranked Cornhuskers, 7-2 over all and 4-1 in the league, capitalized on a potent rushing attack directed by quarterback David Humm, who also tossed a 42-yard scoring pass, to hand the Cyclones their fifth loss in nine games. ISU dropped to 2-3 in the league.

Aggies upset

DALLAS (UPI) — Wayne Morris' flashes and Ricky Wesson's dashes gave SMU a 16 point haltime lead Saturday and the Mustang defense, led by nose guard Louie Kelcher, held off Texas A&M enough in the final half to give the Mustangs an 18-14 upset win over the fourth-rated Aggies.

The Aggies had rallied on a grim, rainy afternoon, to within two points of SMU and had forced the Mustangs to punt with 2:28 remaining the game.

But on first down at his own 13, Aggie quarterback David Walker went back to throw and was nailed in his own end zone by Mustang defensive tackle Steve Morton for a safety that clinched the SMU victory.

Longhorns stunned

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Quarterback Neal Jeffrey directed Baylor to three second half touchdowns Saturday to give the Bears a 34-24 victory over 10th-ranked Texas that dimmed the Longhorns' Southwest Conference title hopes.

Baylor, down 24-7 at halftime, kept alive on a blocked punt and a fumble recovery for the rally that left Texas' only hopes for a seventh straight trip to the Cotton Bowl riding on a "must" victory in the season-end game with Texas A&M. The Longhorns had already been invited to the Gator Bowl, however, in the event they failed to win the conference title. No team has ever lost two conference games and won the title.

Sooners romp

NORMAN, Okla (UPI) — Junior halfback Joe Washington became the second leading rusher in Oklahoma history Saturday by gaining 143 yards and scoring one touchdown to lead the Sooners to a 37-0 rout of Missouri.

Washington carried 26 times to give him 1,157 yards rushing for the season and a career total of 2,860 yards.

Penn St. falls

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Senior fullback Stan Fritts ran for one touchdown and passed to Pat Hodance for another Saturday and the North Carolina State defense halted two Penn State scoring thrusts in the second half as the Wolfpack upset the sixth-ranked and Cotton Bowl-bound Nittany Lions 12-7.

The Wolfpack, headed for the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, halted seven Penn State scoring thrusts inside the North Carolina State eight yard line in the third period and safety Bob Divens picked off a Penn State pass to keep the Lions from scoring until just before the game ended.

Tigers survive

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Ninth-ranked Auburn, paced by the running of sophomore fullback Secdrick McIntyre, hammered out a close 24-20 victory Saturday over Mississippi State in a Southeastern Conference battle between two bowl-bound teams.

The speedy 189-pound McIntyre raced 54 yards for one touchdown and went one yard for another as the Tigers bolstered their record to 8-1 following last week's loss to Florida. Safety Mike Fuller returned a punt 52 yards for Auburn's other touchdown and Greg Gillis kicked a 41-yard field goal.

Texas Tech wants to meet Vanderbilt

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Tech, a 28-0 winner over Texas Christian, Saturday accepted an invitation to the Peach Bowl Dec. 28 in Atlanta on a conditional basis to meet the Vanderbilt Commodores, a loser to Kentucky.

Tech, thanks to the series of upsets in the Southwest Conference Saturday, still has a chance to represent the league in the Cotton Bowl.

"I must point out that we have a mathematical chance of going to the Cotton Bowl," said Tech executive vice-president Dr. Glenn Barnett, "and if we get to go there that is where we will. Otherwise, we are most happy to accept the invitation."

Bill Brigham, chairman of the Peach Bowl selection committee, said he did not yet know what his bowl would do if Tech did represent the SWC in the Cotton Bowl.

"It's too early to say," he said. "Like all of you we did not anticipate an afternoon like today. Until I meet with our full committee, we have no idea other than Vanderbilt vs. Texas Tech."

Twins shorten leftfield line

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The distance to the leftfield fence at Metropolitan Stadium will be shortened 16 feet to 330 feet down the leftfield foul line for the 1975 Minnesota Twins season.

Club President Calvin Griffith says the move would make the park uniform at 330 feet down both foul lines.

"We think the fans want home runs and the shorter leftfield line should produce more homers for the Twins as well as the visitors," said Griffith.

Benefit cage game at Garey

Members of the Pomona Fire Department and the faculty at Garey High School will stage a benefit basketball game at the school gym at 7 p.m. Wednesday to raise funds for a new weight machine.

Admission is 50 cents. Pomona City Councilman Ben Ochoa and Ray Fuentes will referee the game.

Tee to Cup

The 'good players' come to the valley

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Golf Writer

THEY'RE WILL BE any number of 'good players' this week over at Diamond Bar and Via Verde Country Club. The Pro-Am competition for the important Southern Cal Open starts today at Via Verde.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the pros and top amateurs will battle it out for some $10,000 in prize money at the two courses.

PGA pros already entered include host pros Jimmy Powell, Via Verde, and Howard Smith, Diamond Bar. Others are Tommy Jacobs, La Costa; Dennie Meyer, Quail Lake; Mark Pheil, Paul Scodeller and Rick Divel. El Niguel; Ed Merrins, Bel-Air; Jerry Barber, former PGA champion, and Willie Barber, 1974 National U.S. Seniors Champion.

Amateurs will play in two flights, 0-7 and 8-15. The field will be split with one half at each course, then the second day reverse the field. After 36 holes the low 90 pros and 50 amateurs will play the final round at Via Verde GC.

Over the Los Serranos, in the women's competition for the President's cup, Linda Bledsoe won a sudden-death victory recently over runner-up Jeanne Schlick.

Other winners and runners-up in the 3-day, match play tourney were: vice president's flight—Lorene Stone and Louise Crawford; secretary's flight—Joe DeBos and Barbara Tollerup; and treasurer's flight—Alice Hudson and Fran Rumbold.

Ken Ishman is the club champion at San Dimas Canyon for the coming year, and the runner-up is Herb Levitt. Other winners in recent action are: A flight—Manny Santiago; B flight—Bub Mazzarelle; and C flight—Bill Stumbo.

★ ★ ★

Jim Lowery recently won the club championship at Diamond Bar. New club champ at Marshall Canyon is John McCafferty Jr. Marshall members traveled to Green River Saturday for their monthly going-away tournament.

We enjoyed reading about the recent tournament experience of Con Walburger who wrote his account for the Red Hill C.C. Bulletin.

Walburger reports he paid his $25 entry fee recently for the U.S. Senior Amateur Championship simply because he liked the idea of playing at Lakeside Country Club. Lo and behold, he finished as one of the five low qualifiers there, and a short time later he was back in Harbor Town Golf Course in Hilton Head Long Island playing in the senior finals.

He didn't win, but he had a great time meeting and competing with some of the finest senior players in the country back there.

Some $15,000 was raised for the San Gabriel Valley Council of the Boy Scouts of America at the Carroll Rosenbloom Invitational Golf Tournament, staged by Via Verde Country Club recently.

The team captained by Merlin Olsen, who also happens to be the Rams captain, won the event with a 60. Olsen and his team—Gene Huber, Ray Dowling, Dan Trop and Tom Dolan—had finished in a three-way tie for first, but a matchup of scorecards gave Olsen's team the victory in "overtime."

The second-place team, also finishing with a 60, was headed by Bob Knoop of the Angels, and members were Tom Johnson, Tom Rautenberg, Glenn Wood and Ray Mitchell.

Coming in third was the team captained by the Rams' Harold Jackson, with Jim Diemer, Richard Stirens, Bob Molino and Bill McGuire combining with Jackson for a 60.

Via Verde has two new President's Cup champions. Ruth Anderson won the '74 ladies' President's Cup, while Robert Duvall captured the men's President's Cup.

Runner-up in the ladies' play was Margaret McKenzie, while Gladys Fischer and Lisa Etienne finished 1-2 in the second flight of the tournament.

Duvall, who had a 69 in the championship round, was followed by Bill Thurman (72), Oscar Kringlen (8), Ed Flaherty (81) and John Etienne (82).

Plans were announced this week for an exclusive golf organization on the West Coast. To be known as THE CALIFORNIA SOCIETY OF FIVE AND UNDER GOLFERS, its membership will include any amateur golfer with an authentic handicap of five or under.

Joe Caraway, president, International Golf & PRO-Motion, Inc., Anaheim, describes the format as "an organized group of low handicap golfers seeking head and head competition in a series of tournaments to see just how good they are against their peers."

Eleven tournaments will be scheduled in 1975, beginning with a 36-hole event on Jan. 4-5, then alternate each month with an 18 hole event in February, 36 holes in March, etc. The schedule will continue into November with 17 rounds of competitive golf, terminating with a 54-hole championship in December.

The feature of the society's format is the performance rating system enabling the sponsors to determine the best golfers after the tour schedule. Each member will be awarded 50 points for each round of competition, divided into his position at the finish of each tournament, with 50 points awarded 1st place, 49 points to be awarded 2nd place, etc. This system will also rate each member on average score per round along with the performance rating.

At the end of 17 rounds of competition the best 50 players will be named to the Top 50 Club of the society. These players will then compete in a 54-hole medal play championship to determine the CALIFORNIA SOCIETY OF FIVE AND UNDER GOLFERS Championship.

Membership will be $15 annually, including a distinctive bag tag, monthly rating sheet, newsletters and prizes. Tournament fees will be from $12 to $25 each event and will be played on the best courses available.

Applications may be obtained from IGP, Inc. headquarters, 553 Fairhaven St., Anaheim, or by calling (714) 776-7371.

Sun's Adams has bad news for Lamonica

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tony Adams has some bad news for Daryle Lamonica, who has been playing second banana to Kenny Stabler on the Oakland Raiders.

Despite his reported $1.5 million contract with the Southern California Sun, Lamonica, 33, won't be the No. 1 quarterback of the WFL club next season if the 24-year-old former Utah State star has his way.

"I've always invited competition,'' said Adams. "It brings out the best in me. I play best under pressure.

"I've done my job this season. With his age and the lack of playing time the last couple of years, Lamonica is going to be under more pressure than I am.

"I've talked to the club's owner (Larry Hatfield) and he's told me the Sun will play the guy who's doing the best job because he wants a winner. That's good enough for me."

Adams, a 14th round draft choice of the San Diego Chargers in 1973, has done his job and then some for the Sun this season. He's the No. 1 passer in the WFL with more than 3,500 yards in 18 games. And he's led the Sun to the WFL West title.

A year ago, he was a member of the Chargers' taxi squad. He didn't play in an NFL game.

"Heck, yes, I'm glad the new league was created," said Adams. "I don't think I would have ever gotten the opportunity to play in the other league. I felt in my own mind I was better than some of the quarterbacks who were playing over there, too.

"With the guys we're going to add from the NFL next year, we're going to be stronger, too. I'm very optimistic."

While he doesn't plan to hand him his job, Adams welcomes the opportunity of playing on the same club with Lamonica, who led the Raiders to their only Super Bowl appearance in 1968

"I think I can learn quite a bit from him," the 6-1, 195-pound Riverside, Calif., product said. "I know I learned quite a bit from just being around Johnny Unitas with the Chargers last season.

Adams, who completed 455 passes for 6,226 yards and 52 touchdowns at Utah State, said he wasn't out to show the NFL it was wrong this year.

"I really didn't know if I could play or not after last season," he said candidly. "The only person I wanted to prove myself to was myself."

Being No. 1 in any league gives you confidence, he pointed out.

NHRA airs '75 events

NORTH HOLLYWOOD — The National Hot Rod Association, spokesman for drag racing on the international level, has announced an eight-race national event schedule and an expanded World Championship Series program for 1975.

The lineup of national events will remain virtually unchanged beginning in February with Pomona's 15th Winternationals and concluding in October with the 11th Supernations-World Finals.

The WCS schedule will be expanded from 28 to 35 events culminating in the World Finals portion of the season-ending doubleheader event at Ontario. A year ago, the WCS program was comprised of four events in each of seven geographic divisions across the United States and Canada. The 1975 program will be expanded to include five races per region.

Points earned at national events and at a maximum of five regional WCS races will apply toward professional driving championships in three different categories. The defending pro points champions are Gary Beck, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, in Top Fuel Eliminator; Shirl Greer, Warner Robins, Ga., in Funny Car Eliminator; and Bob Glidden, Greenwood, Ind., Pro Stock Eliminator.

AFC Central race over today?

By United Press International

The American Football Conference Central Division race can virtually end Sunday at Cincinnati. But then again, it could just be beginning.

It's all up to the Bengals, who trail Pittsburgh by a game and a half and entertain the Steelers at Riverfront Stadium.

A Steeler victory would just about do it. It would put Pittsburgh 2½ games up with just five games to go and one of those five is a return bout with the Bengals at Pittsburgh —where Cincinnati has never won.

A Cincinnati victory, however, would put Paul Brown's club right back into the race, just a half-game behind.

The game shapes up as a battle between Cincinnati's offense, led by quarterback Ken Anderson and ranked No. 1 in the AFC, and Pittsburgh's defense, led by the most efficient line in the league and also ranked first in the AFC.

The Bengals will be without Boobie Clark, the AFC Rookie of the Year last year who suffered a broken arm Sunday and is out for the season. Tight end Bob Trumpy, one of the best in the league, may also be out with a neck injury.

But Steeler Coach Chuck Noll still feels the Bengals will try to establish a running game.

"They've been letting their running game take a back seat to their passing attack," Noll said. "But against us, I don't think they'll operate the same way. I just think they'll try to run the ball right at us."

Noll may feel that way since Oakland handed the Steelers two of their worst defeats—in the playoffs and in pre-season— by running right at them, thereby minimizing the pass rush. The Steeler line—L.C. Greenwood, Joe Greene, Ernie Holmes and Dwight White— leads the league with 32 sacks. Pittsburgh also has forced 28 turnovers and allowed just 39 per cent pass completions.

"We'll have to play the very best we can if we hope to defeat the Steelers," said Brown. "They are well-coached, have great overall balance and many, many fine individual performers. There are many people who think they can go all the way to the Super Bowl."

Terry Bradshaw, who won back his job from Joe Gilliam two weeks ago and has been improving steadily, will start at quarterback for Pittsburgh while Doug Dressler replaces Clark and Bruce Coslet will open if Trumpy can't play.

The Steelers are three-point favorites.

In other games Sunday, Detroit is at Oakland, Houston at Buffalo, Washington at Philadelphia, Miami at New Orleans, Cleveland at New England, San Francisco at Dallas, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Denver at Baltimore, San Diego at Kansas City, Chicago meets Green Bay at Milwaukee and the New York Jets and the New York Giants play in New Haven, Conn. Minnesota is at St. Louis Monday night.

Oakland matches its seven game winning streak against Detroit's four-game burst. The Raiders lead the AFC West by three games and one more win could just about do it as far as the playoffs are concerned. Detroit, which lost its first four games, has moved to within two games of Minnesota in the NFC Central.

The AFC East has turned into the horserace with only one game separating the top three teams. Buffalo took the lead Sunday by edging New England and the Patriots are tied for second with Miami at 6-2.

Washington also got a new lease on a possible NFC East title shot when Dallas knocked off St. Louis Sunday. The Cardinals are 7-1 and lead the Redskins by two games. Philadelphia is tied with Dallas for third at 4-4.

Marion Campbell, who was named to succeed Norm Van Brocklin at Atlanta this week, makes his coaching debut against Los Angeles and could see his team virtually eliminated. The Rams are coasting in the West with a three-game lead and a Falcon loss would put Atlanta five games back with six to go.

Texas Lutheran first in NAIA

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Texas Lutheran, boasting an 8-0 record, swept all first-place votes Wednesday in the NAIA Division II football poll.

Linfield (Ore.) scored a 15-14 victory over Pacific (Wash.) Lutheran (Wash.) and moved into the No. 2 spot with a 7-0 record.

The rest of the top 10: 3, William Penn (Iowa); 4, Hanover (Ind.); 5, Missouri Valley; 6, California Lutheran; 7, Pacific Lutheran (Wash.); 8, Midland Lutheran (Neb.); 9, Northwestern (Iowa); 10, Millikin (Ill.).

Kings' Goring last of NHL sportsmen?

Goring had to wear the coat, which a fellow club member gave him, over his head like a cape or else the sleeves would be too long.

The nickname didn't fit either.

In fact, the 5-foot-9 Goring is one of the growingly unfashionable Mr. Nice Guys in the NHL. In the past three seasons, he has only been called for three penalties. He was third in last year's voting for the Lady Byng trophy for sportsmanship and high standard of play.

"Fighting certainly glamorizes the game," admitted Goring, the Kings' leading goal and point scorer last season. "but it's just not in my makeup. I've never played that way. I just can't go down and slash somebody. As far as body checking people and high sticking, I just don't feel it's part of the game.

For Goring, in his sixth year as a King after being a low 58th choice in the 1969 amateur draft, that is what matters. Staying on the ice. Last year, he accumulated more playing time than any other King, except goalie Rogie Vachon.

It has paid off. Goring is the No. 1 center for the Kings, who are off to their best start and have been the league's hottest team through the first six weeks of the season.

Despite his tough sounding name, Goring hasn't let his hockey play suffer because of shying away from what is sometimes called being "aggressive." He is fierce on the ice. He just believes in playing by the rules.

"I think the majority of the time people take penalties because they are just a little bit lazy," said the 25-year-old Goring, who is also one of the Charlie Hustles of the NHL.

"They don't feel like skating and, as a result, they get behind the guy and have to trip him up just because they didn't feel like taking an extra stride.

"I feel if I'm working hard I'll be close enough where I can check the guy and I don't have to take a cheap penalty."

If Lady Byng is the St. Boniface, Manitoban's patroness, though, Lady Luck has not been so kind.

Most of Goring's second season was spent with the Kings' farm club because of a bout with mononucleosis. When he missed the first seven contests this year because of a shoulder injury, it marked the third straight year he has been sidelined.

"It just seems I get these weird ones," Goring said. "I guess it's the way I handle myself and get up on piles and things like that.

"I've had injury problems but they're not your run-of-the-mill kind of thing. How often do you get cut on the leg with a skate? It was just a fluke, something that happens once in a blue moon.

"Every injury I've had is not because someone's run into me or knees. It's just something that's happened because I was turned the wrong way. It's just called hockey luck."

Goring, who has set a personal goal of a point a contest this year, doesn't think the Los Angeles Kings are a fluke, though. He expects the team to be in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"I think we have an excellent run at it," Goring said. "A little bit of harmony is setting in. You have to suffer for a few years and stick with the people the organization feels would make a good, solid hockey team.

Retired Ringling Brothers aerialist

He foresakes trapeze for the life of a letter carrier

By WENDY L. WENNER
United Press International

In the quiet Gulf Coast city of Sarasota, Fla., winter home of the "Greatest Show on Earth" before the circus moved to nearby Winter Haven, there lives a man who has flown through the air with the greatest of ease. Now he delivers Emmett Kelly's mail.

"That is so funny, because I worked with him years ago," Willie Krause, 54, said of his old friend, the famous circus clown. Krause himself retired from the smell of the greasepaint and the roar of the crowd 20 years ago.

In his younger days, Krause was a member of the aerialist team of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus. He and his companions were the "flyers" or "leapers," small and agile enough to jump from one trapeze to the hands of a catcher who "hooked" him from another trapeze.

Krause and three other Ringling Brothers employes have retired to a more leisurely life. They passed Civil Service exams and became Postal Service mail carriers or sorters in Sarasota.

"I was 34 and we wanted to start a family," Krause said. "I thought it was time to settle down. So I asked myself, what am I trained to do? How do you tell an employer that for the last 20 years you've been flipping over your backside up in the air?"

Alva Johnson Jr., who traveled with the circus for 16 years as an "outside man," doing everything from "buying hay for the horses to food for the people," said from Sarasota in a telephone interview there were days when it wasn't always fun.

"A lot of the time the ground was muddy or the days were hot," Johnson, 52, said. "Then it was worst for the aerialists, who had to climb to the top of the tent where, because heat rises, the temperature sometimes reached 135 degrees."

Willie Krause was so good he was hired as a consultant for two circus movies. In 1950, he was borrowed from Ringling Brothers to help in filming of "The Greatest Show on Earth." Four years later, after he he had joined the Postal Service, he got a leave of absence to consult and perform stunts in "Trapeze."

"I did backflips on the mailroom floor and handstands on the mail sack iron bars to get in shape," Krause said.

In "Trapeze," Krause did stand-in stunts for all three stars, Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis and Gina Lollobrigida.

Gina Lollobrigida?

Krause, who is 5 feet 4 1-2 and weighs 140 pounds, laughed when he recalled how everyone was stunned at his resemblance to the Italian beauty in the film.

"The stunt girl broke her nose and they needed someone quickly, so I was dressed up in sequins, wigged, and from a distance, I locked pretty good."

"The circus taught me tolerance and respect for everyone," he said. Now, on his mail route, "I never meet a stranger."

Johnson and Krause deliver mail to Sarasota homes, while Bill Chapman, 58, once a circus tumbler, works inside as a clerk. William Edelston, 51, who also used to be a flyer, is a letter carrier along the Sarasota beach route.

"I joined the Clyde Beatty Circus for a year because I loved to work with animals," Johnson said. Now there's no trouble even with the worst dogs. "I have respect for the individual personality of animals and so can make friends with them," he said.

Although none of the four men's children has chosen a circus career, the men maintain their ties with the circus and manage to keep in shape by coaching local teen-agers, who put on a yearly circus show of their own.

"Once they are too old to perform themselves, they become managers and take their kids on the road," he said. "This way, they never have to quit the circus."

As proud as Krause and his companions feel about settling down as postal employes and providing a stable life for their families, the circus will never completely leave their blood.

Krause reflects: "You'll be on your route, sorting letters, opening mailboxes, and then sometimes it flashes back—the crowds, the net, the trapez—the goosebumps come back."

INTRODUCING OUR "INFLATION FIGHTERS."

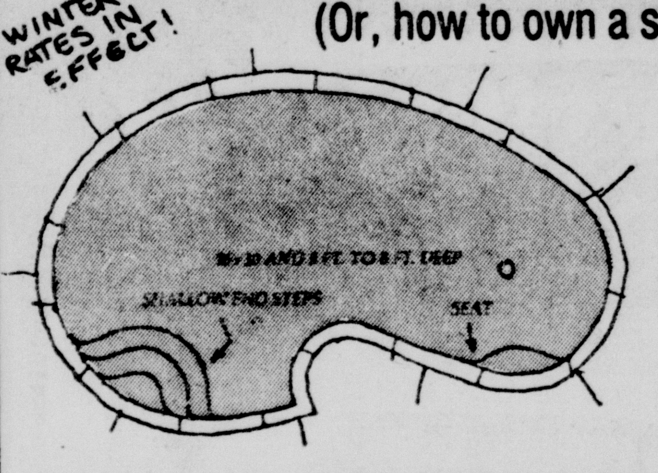
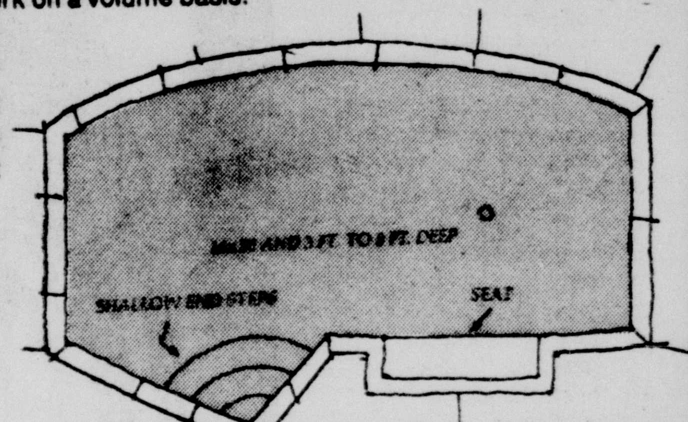
WINTER RATES IN EFFECT!



With the rising costs of today, and practically everything increasing in cost monthly, you've probably felt that a good swimming pool is out of reach or at least a few years of saving away.

Because we understand, California Pools introduces two complete pools which we call our "Inflation Fighters." It wasn't easy doing this, a lot of arrangements had to be made, and it could only work on a volume basis.

These pools were designed to fight inflation without giving up the best in equipment, the best in service and the very best in price.



The specifications are as follows: Pool size: 16x30 ft., 80 perimeter ft., 380 sq. ft., 3 ft. to 8 ft. deep. Engineered plans and permits, excavation and dirt removal (access 7 ft.) non-corrosive plumbing, steel-reinforced Gunite construction, filtering system (10 ft. max. from pool), 1 h.p. bronze pump, shallow end steps, deep end swimout, automatic skimmer, complete pool plastering, 500 watt light, 6 in. waterline tile trim, with custom coping edge around pool water line, filter, cleaning tools, and start-up service upon completion.

If you would like to know the exact cost, and exactly how we can do all of this for so little money, call us and we'll tell you, or fill in the coupon below.

$500 million a year industry

Space satellite business boom

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Space satellite hardware has become a $500 million a year industry that is likely to affect the lives of nearly everyone.

It is speeding video, telephone and telegraphic communications in a matter of seconds compared with minutes and even hours sometimes by submarine and underground cables. Ultimately, it also will have an enormous impact on television programming around the world, according to Jack Greene, president of Comtech Laboratories, Inc., a Smithtown, N.Y., firm that makes satellite hardware.

Just recently the broadcasters and the cable television companies staged a bitter fight in hearings in Washington before the Federal Communications Commission. It concerned the CATV operators' determined effort to get the commission to relax its rules severely restricting the use of a reservoir of 18,000 motion picture films on CATV with a special per film charge to the set owner.

This donnybrook was extremely complicated but it revealed clearly the future of television programming and the billions of dollars it earns is very much up for grabs despite the apparently entrenched positions of the broadcasters and the networks.

In the United States, TV programming is financed and dominated to a significant degree by advertisers working with the networks and the producers of syndicated programs. Most of the rest of the world either has government controlled programming or government networks competing with commercial systems. Some people see such a hybrid system beginning to develop in the United States through the public service stations which carry no direct advertising although many of their programs are financed by grants from big advertisers who get a bare mention of their names on the air for their money. These stations and a company that produces programs for them do get government aid.

Public service broadcasting is winning an appreciable share of the TV audience but it isn't growing fast enough to hurt the commercial broadcasters.

In entertainment appeal and profitability to the people who turn them out, American TV programs are by far the most popular around the globe. They sell in every land. Even the Communists buy some of them.

However, American TV programming does not meet with universal approval. There are critics at home and abroad.

President Echevarria of Mexico recently ordered Mexican stations to drop 37 popular programs, most of them made in the United States. He said the programs promoted violence. Echevarria went farther. In a speech to a world communications conference at Acapulco, he said television, far from improving communication between human beings, does just the opposite, that "it has broken down the interpsychic relationship that is a characteristic of civilization. I think," Echevarria said," TV contributes to the loneliness of modern life and makes people isolated and passive." He demanded that broadcasters change their policies and adopt programming that informs people, makes them think and does not separate them from their fellows.

Comtech's Greene says space satellite communications can help do what the Mexican president urges. He says the satellite system can diversify and improve the quality of TV programming all around the globe with the underdeveloped countries getting the benefits first because they have no expensive investment in older systems to cling to.

"It will make possible the gathering and transmission at relatively cheap cost of thousands of live programs from many parts of the world — sporting events, musical attractions, festivals, political events, action news coverage, travelogs and dramas that are expensive and hard to gather by present methods,"he said.

The telecasts of President Nixon's trip to China and of the 1972 Munich Olympics were foretastes of what is to come, he said.

"The technology already exists for an extensive international exchange of programs that will allow Americans to see at low cost the best programs of British, French, German, Spanish, Italian, Scandinavian and Soviet television," Greene added.

ROCKET GUIDANCE gimbals are inspected by Trudi Berryhill at Honeywell's Aerospace Division in St. Petersburg, Fla. These NASA Centaur rocket gimbals keep a rocket's guidance system on an even keel. Although these gimbals are sophisticated, they basically are the same device which held oil lamps on old sailing vessels to keep lamps level in pitching seas as the ship tossed and rolled.

Sputtering market spurts, moves out for slight gain

By FRANK W. SLUSSER
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Concern about a looming coal strike and shrinking money dampened Wall Street enthusiasm over the Democratic landslide and declining interest rates this week as the stock market ground out a slight gain in fairly active trading.

Some legal matters also influenced the market as the Dow Jones industrial, aided by a 17.52-point spurt Tuesday in anticipation of the election outcome, managed to gain 1.88 to 667.16 for a week.

The closely watched blue-chip indicator fell 5.63 points on Wednesday when the Justice Department followed up a 1969 antitrust suit with another motion to restructure International Business Machines, the computer giant. IBM fell 10⅜ that day, but finished the week with a gain of ½ to 190½. The company has frozen worldwide employment until the end of the year.

Other averages also posted gains. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.03 to 74.91 The New York Stock Exchange common stock index added 0.69 to 39.63.

Advances topped declines, 1,191 to 571, among the 1,999 issues crossing the tape this week.

Volume climbed to 85,675,610 shares from the 78,617,485 traded last week, but was slightly lower than the 87,111,633 traded in the same week a year ago.

Investors became uneasy when negotiations between the United Mine Workers union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association broke down twice during the week and it became obvious there would be a strike.

The UMW and BCOA continued to negotiate in Washington, and there were hopes a settlement could be reached this weekend. Since it will take 10 days to ratify a new contract, a two-week strike seemed inevitable.

By the end of the week, there was a growing concern the strike may be a lengthy one, which would hurt the nation's already slowing economy. There was some question whether UMW members at the local level would accept a new pact. "If they reject it, there's a new ball game," one analyst said.

"The market now is trying to put a lengthy strike into proper perspective," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp.

The trendsetting First National City Bank of New York, second largest in the nation, provided a boost to investors Friday when it lowered the prime lending rate it charges key corporate customers to 10½ per cent from 10¾ per cent. A few banks followed, while others lowered their rates to 10¾ or 11 per cent.

The prime reached a historic high of 12 per cent months ago and has been a persistent depressant to Wall Street. The rate has declined over the past several weeks as the Federal Reserve Board gradually eased its tight monetary policies.

But late Thursday, the FED announced the nation's money supply decreased by $2 billion in the latest reporting week. The previous period it declined $2.1 billion.

Airline fare war

GENEVA (UPI) — A majority of airlines flying North Atlantic routes apparently favors some form of low price fare to stay in competition with cut-rate charter operators, airline officials said today.

Negotiations on a new fare structure to come into force next Feb. 1 still are in the exploratory stage, however, the officials said.

The 30 carriers flying North Atlantic routes agreed on new fares in August to become effective Nov. 1 but had to cancel the arrangement because charter operators failed to increase their rates.

The August package passed on the assumption charter fares would be hiked.

Where there's a will

There is a way to protect estate

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Where there's a will there's a way for the person about to retire or already retired.

The need for a will is there, whether you are a millionaire or the only property is the shirt on your back. Even if you own nothing, you're an estate —in the form of your life, your health, your rights as a citizen.

The thought is grim, but just suppose you were hit by a truck and after several expensive weeks of hospitalization you die. Who is to pay the bills, take care of burial details, and who would you want to receive the considerable proceeds of a claim against the owner and operator of the truck.

The fact that every adult should make a will is brought out forcefully in a new publication from the National Retired Teachers Association-American Association of Retired Persons (NRTAAARP).

The booklet is titled ' Your Retirement Legal Guide'' and although it is directed to the 21 million persons 65 years and up who are retired, its advice is just as applicable to any age.

"While most men recognize the need for a will, many women do not," it says. "Even if you depend entirely on your husband for support, you undoubtedly have property of your own. If you die without a will, the property may not go automatically to your husband. Your parents or children may very well be legally entitled to a share.

The guide advises that one should have a lawyer —no matter what the age.

Most people know next to nothing about their legal rights and responsibilities...it is terribly risky not to know what the law can do both for and to you. Finding a lawyer can be a challenge, however. The guide suggests one way is to find a satisfied client —"so talk to your family and friends". Or, consult the Lawyers Referral Service in your community.

Estate planning is another area covered —whether to establish trusts through banks to provide for wife or other relatives. "Estate planning is often regarded as chiefly a problem of the rich," says the publication. "But...that simply isn't so. Even if your total assets amount to a modest sum in a savings account, you and your heirs will benefit from carefully figuring out just how it can be most economically and purposefully distributed."

"Your children, naturally would never start a family squabble over furniture" but the booklet cites an instance of a couple with three married sons to whom they left their entire estate, but completely ignored the division of personal effects.

But be advised a wholly responsible person should be chosen. It will be his or her duty to handle all legal and financial matters after your death.

"So what do most people do? Entirely too many name their Aunt Eleanor who has been a housewife all her life. An estate that has taken a lifetime to build should not be placed in the hands of a financial incompetent in order to save a fee," it continues.

"In some cases your lawyer may be a good choice. He has, after all, helped plan your estate."

The lawyer also is an authority on saving on estate and inheritance taxes. One way to trim, says the publication, is, "Give it away while you can."

(Editor's note: A free copy of "Your Retirement Legal Guide" is available from AARP-NRTA, Box 2400 Long Beach Calif., 90801).

Women's movement head teaches seminar

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — The mother of the women's movement, Betty Friedan, is teaching Yale College students about "The Sex Role Revolution: Stage II."

Men and women admitted to her three-credit seminar consider themselves lucky. More than 120 applied but only 18 could be accepted. It's the most popular seminar on campus.

At Ms. Friedan's invitation, I sat in on the two-hour class and in an interview later she said her students were going to explore the male-female roles at Yale before and after the school went coed in 1969. Yale College once was your typical male chauvinist school. Women were sex objects.

The research also will get into changes among Yale institutions since the introduction of female students. How, for example, has the Yale Daily News changed? And what is the effect on choral selections since the Glee Club was integrated.

No institution, not even Mory's, the tavern where the all male Wiffenpoofs sing, will be untouchable. To counter the Wiffenpoofs, women have their own singing group —The New Blues.

The idea, according to Ms. Friedan, is to show how these once male institutions have been modified or restructured since girls came to campus as students. Over 30 per cent of the undergraduate body is female; 40 per cent is the goal.

Even the Bulletin of Yale College, showing programs of study for 1974-75, has made a move to get around references to him, his or he.

A footnote on page 13, says:

"The pronouns he, him and his in this Bulletin are used in their generic sense to refer to both men and women," as in this sentence: "It is important for him to seek aid and counsel from advisers."

The Friedan course explores the impact of the movement on marriage and the family, childrearing, the economy, the professions, architecture, theology.

Ms. Friedan says the sex-role revolution will not be complete unless institutions are restructured.

She believes the first feminist movement in America, which got the vote for women, fell flat because it failed to reorganize institutions.

"The work of the second wave of the contemporary feminist movement is restructuring the institutions of family, work, professions, economy, church and state which embody and perpetuate the polarized, unequal masculine and feminine sex roles."

During class, a student and Friedan expressed horror at the extent to which women in an Israeli kibbutz, which both had observed, do much of the hard and menial work while the bigger, better jobs go to the men.

They also agreed that the socalled equality of the sex roles in Israel does not exist.

The best arrangement for the family of the future, it was suggested, may be seen in Sweden where apartment-dwellers share a common dining room and kitchens, communal cooking and eating.

There are communal playgrounds and other facilities. When the family is in its apartment, there is the emotional climate that is good for families —but not the kitchen work, the dish-washing chore, and so on.

Some students discussed their fear of old age. "I was in St. Petersburg," a male student said. "I looked around and I said to myself —when I am that age I don't want an extended vacation."

By contrast a female student said that when she visited her grandparents in a retirement community it relieved her fears of growing old in America.

Friedan then told about her mother, in her early seventies, who "has just buried her third husband," goes horseback riding and stays busy.

Friedan said women in Communist countries do not have equality. They do men's work but "when they return home they still have the menial family work."

AUTUMN FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Hillie Thurn, chairman for fashion show to be held Saturday at Orlando's, nods approval as Mrs. Ayland Gillespie, center, and Mrs. Kenneth Davis model gowns they will wear in fashion show.

For scholarships

Zontians schedule luncheon

"Autumn Horizons" will be the theme for the annual fashion show luncheon of the Zonta Club of Pomona Valley Saturday.

A salad luncheon will be served at the 1 p.m. party at Orlando's, 1700 W. Holt Ave.

Fashions from Casa Colina Hospital's boutique shop will be modeled by Ann McNicol, Freddie Thomas, Sharon Eazell, Jane Anderson, Betty Kubicki, Connie Castro and Dorothy Gillespie. Mrs. Jack Hoxsey will serve as commentator.

Zonta International is a classified service organization of executive women in business and the professions. Proceeds from the show will go toward the scholarship and service projects of the club.

Arrangements are being completed by Mrs. Hillie Thurn, general chairman; Mrs. Margaret Flint, tickets and awards; Mrs. Teddy Biewener, models; Mrs. Dorothy Ranson, door prizes; and Mrs. Margaret Boggess and Mrs. Evelyn Bolinger, decorations.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Flint, 626-4006, by Tuesday.

Magic of story hour

Children returning to feet of the storyteller

HONOLULU (UPI) — The days of "once upon a time," when spellbound children would sit for hours listening to a village storyteller, are back again in Hawaii.

Youngsters bombarded with television, movies, tape recorders and phonographs are turning to the simple pleasure of listening to a well told tale of far away lands and adventure.

Hawaii is restoring the magic of "story time," through a pretty young woman whose soft voice and graceful gestures have brought the art of storytelling to life again.

"It's like keeping up an old heritage," explained Delia Fukuji. "With all the electronic media children are exposed to today, storytelling with its personal contact is a medium that should not be lost."

"I consider storytelling an art," Mrs. Fukuji said. "Anyone can pick up a book and read. But I learn the story, practice and present it."

Although Mrs. Fukuji studied cataloguing in college, the library wanted a storyteller and the idea "challenged and frightened" her.

"I didn't have any dramatic experience and wasn't sure I could handle it," Mrs. Fukuji said. But the eager anticipation on the children's faces when she started telling tales encouraged and inspired her.

"There are two schools of storytelling," Mrs. Fukuji said. "One is almost like a play, with the storyteller practicaly an actor, using props, a lot of movement and changing his voice with the characters in the tale."

"But the method I use is more subdued," she said. "I want the children to enjoy the story so much they will ask for the book."

Although Mrs. Fukuji occasionally tells the old familiar stories, such as Cinderella or Snow White, she makes a special effort to search the folklore of the different ethnic groups in the islands for stories the youngsters haven't heard before. Many of her stories come from oriental and Hawaiian lore.

"I read the story over and over again," Mrs. Fukuji said. "Then I memorize it so well it becomes a part of me so I don't have to worry about forgetting it."

Mrs. Fukuji practices in front of a mirror, tape records the story, and finally tries it out on her husband. "He's very honest," she said, "and if he likes it, then I think it must be good."

In the children's section of the library, Mrs. Fukuji relies on the words, pitch of her voice, facial expressions and slight hand movements to convey her tale.

"I don't change my voice to sound like a character in a story, such as an old man," she said, "because I want the children to listen and use their imaginations to create the story in their minds."

"I always look at the children, not at a book," she said. "You lose the personal contact when you read aloud." Occasionally Mrs. Fukuji points out pictures if the illustrations in the book are particularly colorful for younger children.

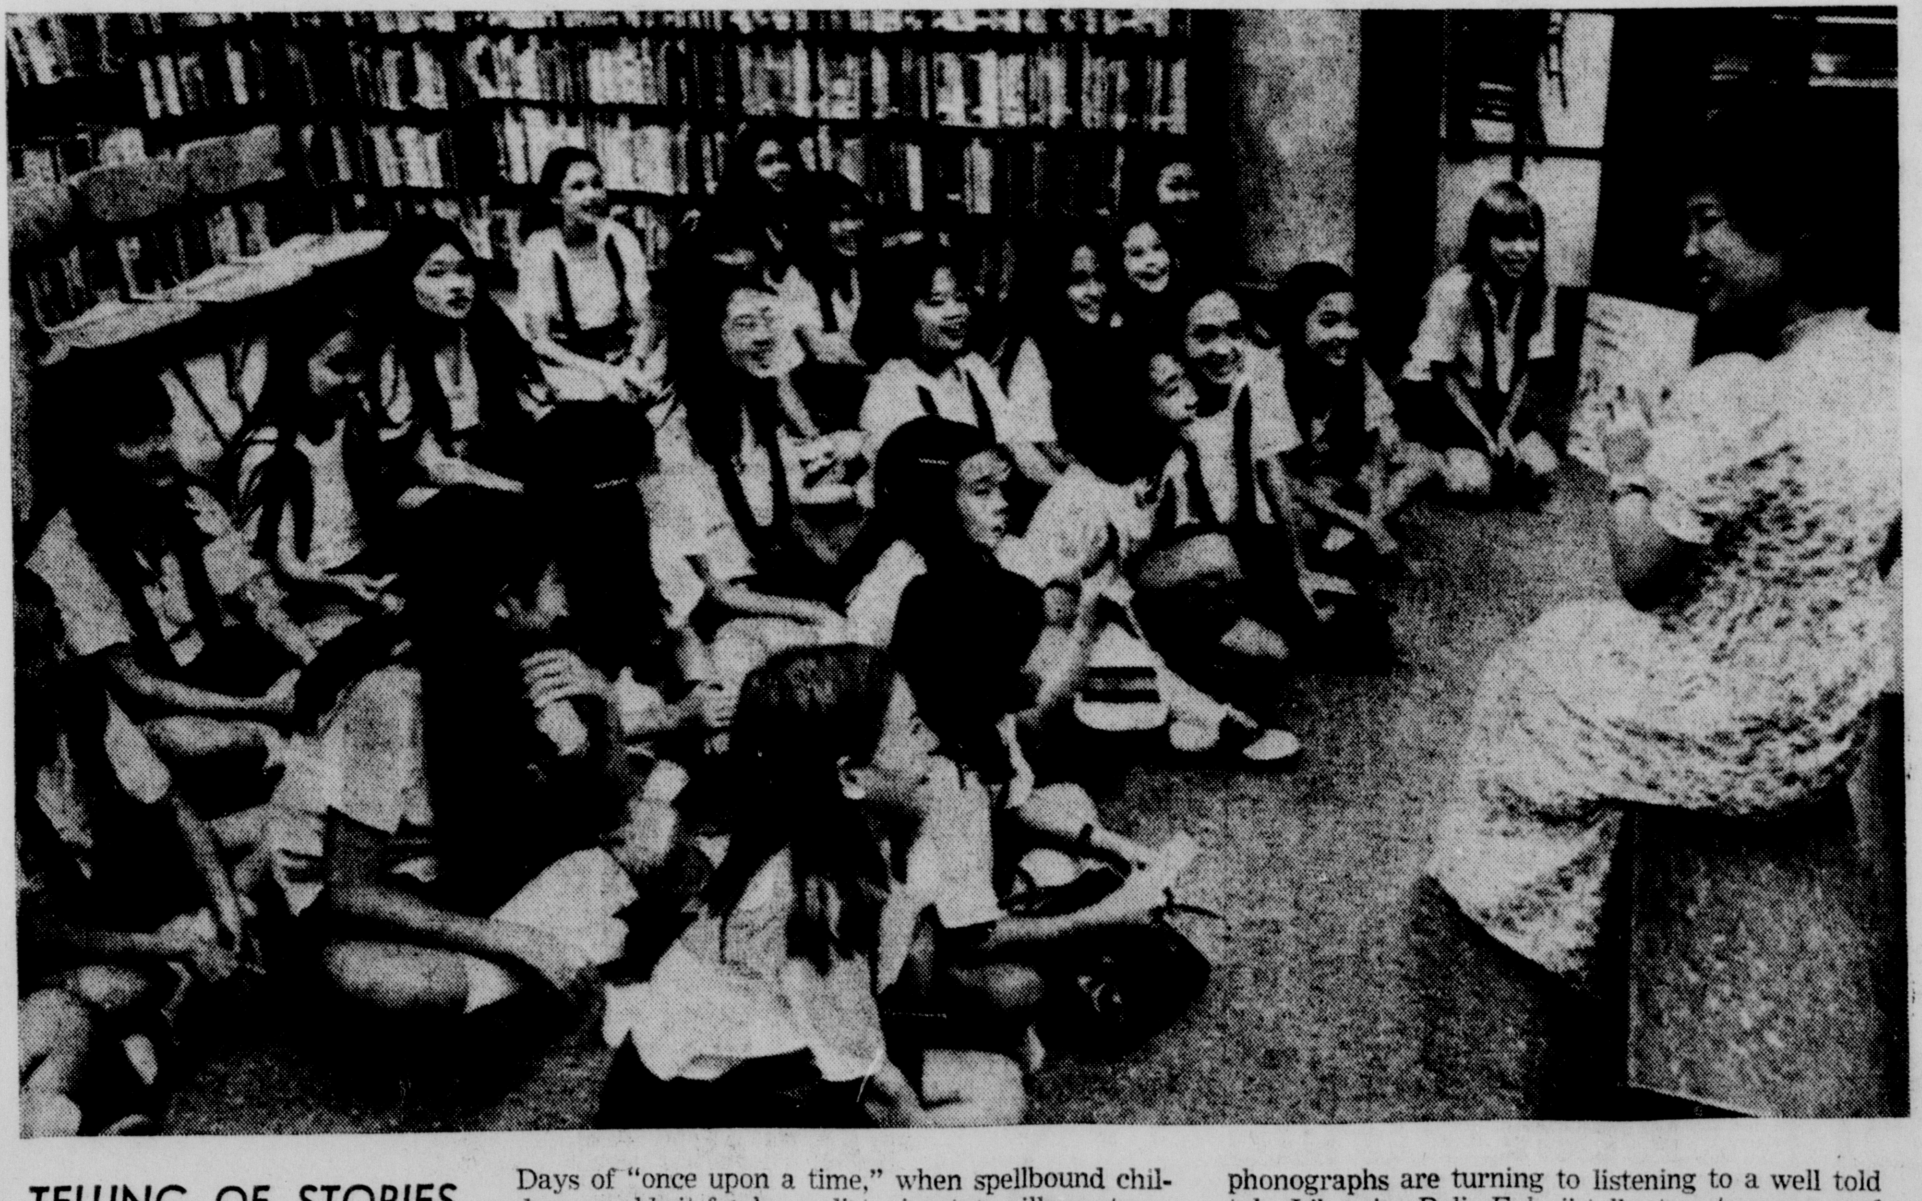
Her eyes open wide in excitement, a smiling Mrs. Fukuji shares the stories she has learned three times a day with school children brought to the library. Elementary school teachers are particularly enthusiastic about introducing their young students to libraries in such an enjoyable way. Mrs. Fukuji's stories range in complexity and length depending upon the ages of the listeners, but she always looks for tales with "lots of action."

"I'm particularly happy when the story inspires the children to borrow the book from which it was taken," she said, "and sometimes they're hanging on to every word."

"Youngsters have enough television, movies, and people reading to them from books," Mrs. Fukuji said. "They're not used to sitting down quietly, using their imaginations and having someone tell a story.

"We carry this on because we feel it's important.

"It's encouraging that today's children, so used to mechanical entertainment, still get excited when they hear, 'Once upon a time.'"



TELLING OF STORIES BACK AGAIN

Days of "once upon a time," when spellbound children would sit for hours listening to a village storyteller, are back again in Hawaii. Youngsters bombarded with television, movies, tape recorders and phonographs are turning to listening to a well told tale. Librarian Delia Fukuji tells story to a group of eager listeners in a library in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than six weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a black and white picture of the bride only.

St. Paul League sets show

"Creative Fashions" is the theme for the fashion show sponsored by the Women's Service League of St. Paul Congregational Church, 616 S. Sycamore St., Claremont, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Fashions for the evening's show will be provided by Express-Sew Fabrics in Claremont.

Boutique items will be for sale. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the service league or at the door.

Chapter conducts ritual

Xi Theta Gamma Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, recently held a welcome ritual for Colleen Rodrick, a transfer member from Pasadena.

On Sunday the club will have a booth on the Montclair Plaza for the annual charity bazaar.

SHERRI SPOHN

Couple sets December wedding date

Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Lowrey of Ontario announce the betrothal of their granddaughter, Sherri Sophn of Pomona, and Dave Sanger of Pomona.

Miss Spohn attended Garey High School.

Mr. Sanger is the son of Elmer Sanger and Mrs. Kathrine Cerasoli of Staten Island, N.Y. He is employed in El Monte.

Hand care

Wear gloves on cool, dry days to protect skin.

Gateway House plans auxiliary development

Gateway House, a cooperative apartment house located in Pomona which offers low-cost housing to young mothers and their babies, will soon have an auxiliary.

The board of directors of Gateway House recently voted to establish an auxiliary.

An evening program to discuss the formation of the auxiliary will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in First Presbyterian Church, East Holt and Gibbs Streets, Pomona.

The program will feature a film, "Growing Up Together," produced by the Children's Home Society of California. The film is a documentary which gives the stories of three young mothers who kept their babies.

An open invitation is extended to all interested persons in the valley. High school and college students will be welcome.

Gateway House has been in existence for over two years, and 35 young mothers have lived there for varying periods of time. It is a pioneering kind of experiment.

Consumer Affairs topic for meeting

A program on Consumer Affairs will be presented by Mrs. Arnold Ristow, Upland Woman's Club district chairman on consumer affairs, when the club meets for luncheon at noon Tuesday at the Upland clubhouse.

Chairmen for the luncheon will be Mrs. Ralph Bentley and Mrs. C. H. Hennessey. Decorations will be arranged by Mrs. Alden Bond and Mrs. Donald Jarvis. Greeters at the door will be Mrs. George Keen and Mrs. Cecile Elser.

Special guests will be women's editors from valley newspapers. Scholarship recipients from Chaffey College will also be guests.

Assisting with arrangements are Mmes. Florence Andrews, Edwin Ayers, Thomas Brizinski, Wesley Cummings, William Donnelley, Gordon Hoefer, Josephine Rhodes, Stanley Warburton, Edith Wieman, B. G. Yahne and Anton Zenz.

The choral group, under the direction of Islay Maxwell, will meet for practice at the clubhouse at 10 a.m., Tuesday. The drama group will meet at 10 a.m. Monday.

Series of discussions scheduled

The next century will see the people of the world making alternative choices concerning new life styles and purposes.

These alternatives will be the subject matter for a series of discussions co-sponsored by the Covina and Walnut Junior Woman's Clubs and the Mt. San Antonio College Community Services program opening Nov. 18.

Dr. Eva Schindler-Rainman will be featured in the first discussion Nov. 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Covina Women's Club, 128 S. San Jose Ave., Covina. There is no admission charge.

A human ecologist, Dr. Schindler-Rainmen is a behavioral scientist, community consultant, teacher, author and lecturer. She received her bachelor's degree from the University of California at Berkeley and her master's and doctorate from the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Howell is honored by chapter

Mrs. Paul Howell, junior graduate regent of Pomona Chapter 542, Women of the Moose, was honored at the annual convocation held in Richmond. Mrs. Howell received her green cap award which signifies that both she and the chapter had an outstanding year.

Author scheduled at library

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 19, in the library meeting room at 145 N. Walnut Ave. and is open to the public.

Mrs. McDermott is co-author of "California Cooks!," a best selling cookbook on the cuisine of California.

She has been a consultant on the development and marketing of new food products for over 40 corporations and advertising agencies in the United States, Europe and the Orient. She is the owner of The Creative Kitchen, a Los Angeles based consulting firm.

At the conclusion of the program, autographed copies of "California Cooks!" will be available for purchase.

Rieblis to mark anniversary

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Riebli of Montclair will be celebrated today at an open house hosted by a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Millspaugh of Diamond Bar.

Participating will be other children of the couple, Sid Riebli of Ontario, Mrs. Steven Lemaster of Montclair, Walter F. Riebli, stationed in Guam with the Navy, and Theresa, Raymond and Valerie Riebli, all at home. The couple has one granddaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Riebli are part owners of Woody's Market in Upland.

They were married on Nov. 11, 1949 at St. Joseph's Church in Pomona. Mr. Riebli graduated from Chino High School. His wife, the former Frances Lawrence, graduated from Pomona High School.

"30 YEAR OLD ULCER GONE"

Says Louis Pleshe, "I had an ulcer 30 years. Life was miserable all those years. Tried lots of diets and doctors. None helped me. Had just about given up when I saw Dr. Wing. After taking his treatments 10 weeks I feel wonderful. It has been over 6 yrs. now and I have not taken any medicine nor had any reoccurance."

Dr. Wing, Famous Chinese Doctor, 900 E. Holt Ave., Pomona, Tues. 3-6; Fri. 9-12 Noon, 629-3910; Los Angeles, 1429 S. Vermont Ave., DU 2-2801; San Bernardino, 2336 Sierra Way, TU 6-8609. "Regain Health Naturally." Adv

Book reviews planned for fellowship

Book reports will be presented at the meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the Lincoln Avenue Reformed Church Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Bert Rapp of the Pomona First Baptist Church will review "Mix Butter with Love," by Joyce Landorf and "Tell Me Again Lord, I Forget," by Ruth Calkin.

Mrs. Ed Robinson is chairman for the continental breakfast to be served at 9:30 a.m.

The church calendars will be for sale in December and may be purchased from Mrs. Otto Wiersma.

Women of the congregation are invited to the program and nursery care will be provided.

Wedding scheduled on Dec. 26

Dr. and Mrs. Gerald W. Juergens of Claremont announce the engagement of their daughter Karen, to Fred Prudhomme of Helena, Mont.

A Dec. 26 wedding is planned by the couple.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Claremont High School, the University of Southern California and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

She majored in speech therapy and is a speech therapist at a school for mentally retarded children in Boulder River, Mont.

Mr. Prudhomme is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Prudhomme of San Diego. He attended the University of Idaho and served four years in the Air Force. He is studying ceramics at Bray Foundation in Helena.

Thanksgiving dinners provided for public

For the 23rd year, a free Thanksgiving dinner will be served to the public by Mrs. Lorene Shawnee and her committee of devoted volunteers.

Dinner, complete with turkey and all the trimmings, will be served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Westmont Community Center, W. 9th Street and Goldenrod Place. While the volunteers are no longer able to deliver dinners to shut-ins, they will prepare take-out dinners if someone will call for them.

During the past years, the group has served over 2,000 free dinners at Thanksgiving. This year, Mrs. Shawnee is still seeking two turkeys to complete the menu. Persons interested in donating to the project may call her after 5 p.m. at 623-9829.

An additional highlight of this year's dinner will be the showing of films on the Holy Land, presented by Mrs. Ray Lepire, wife of the Mayor of Pomona.

Claremont clubwomen set Wednesday meet

Speaker at the Wednesday noon meeting of Claremont Women's Club will be Rabbi Moshe M. Maggal. He has chosen "Acres of Happiness" as the title for his talk.

Rabbi Maggal was born in Hungary and was ordained at the Jewish Theological Seminary in Budapest. In 1936, he emigrated to Israel, where he did graduate work at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and lived for 15 years there working as a Rabbi and a journalist.

He received his first pulpit in this country in 1950 at Claremont, N.H., and came to Los Angeles in 1954. He was Rabbi in Alhambra and later at Temple Beth Kodesh, Canoga Park.

At present, he is a board member of the Beverly Hills Zionist Organization. He is a member of the Free Enterprise Speakers Bureau sponsored by Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Miss Lucianne Buchanan, Miss California and first runnerup in the Miss America contest, will be guest of honor at the luncheon.

The luncheon will be prepared and served by the November Service Group with Mrs. John Morgan as chairman. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Azalea George, 624-7495, or Mrs. Georgia Butler, 985-5769.

Warm clothing, canned food and toys will be collected during the month for American Indians.

Travel and Landmarks Section will meet for a potluck supper at the clubhouse at 6:30 p.m. Friday. Mrs. Kenneth Russell will present pictures and narration of Egypt and Lebanon.

The Book Section will meet at 10 a.m. Friday in the home of Dr. Mable Hammons with Mrs. Charles Farrand reviewing "Secret Life of Plants."

RABBI MAGGAL

Mutual Service Week luncheon scheduled

Members and friends of the Greater Pomona Valley YWCA will join other YWCA groups around the world in celebrating World Mutual Service Week, beginning today, with a luncheon Wednesday.

The noon event will be held at United Church of Christ Congregational, 233 W. Harrison Ave., Claremont.

Highlighting the luncheon will be a presention, on "Latin America, 1974," by Dr. Patricia Tudbury. Dr. Tudbury recently returned from a trip to the area.

Entertainment will include guitar selections and a Mexican folk dance performed by Tony Rivas, Jose Rivera and Maria Zaldivar, all students at Chaffey High School. The Y-Teens of Garey High School will bring the program to a close.

Names of foreign students are available at the Y office for anyone desiring a guest from a foreign land. Costumes from other areas of the world may be worn by guests. Funds received from the luncheon will help support the programs of the YMCA in 83 countires.

Reservations may be made by calling the YWCA at 622-1269. Child care will be available at the church.

Woman's Club sets program

National interests will highlight the program for Pomona Woman's Club Monday when the group meets at 1:30 p.m. in the home of the president, Mrs. Agnes McVaigh, 1650 N. San Antonio Ave.

Mrs. Alta Visnac will discuss plans for the observance of the National Bicentennial as outlined by the Pomona Comittee. Roll call response will be national events since 1776. The thought for the day will be offered by Mrs. Winona Crow.

Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Georgia Grosdidier and Mrs. Kay McClellan.

Field trip charted Wednesday

The second in a series of special field trips cosponsored by Mt. San Antonio Community Services and the Walnut Junior Woman's Club is scheduled Wednesday.

A tour of the Gamble House, the Hurschler home, which displays a collection of tapestries from 16 countries, and the Huntington Library Gardens, 100 acres of beautiful gardens- boasting shrubs, trees and flowers from all over the world, is scheduled to leave at 9:30 a.m. by chartered bus from the Eastland Shopping Center near Wallich's Registration must be made in advance by calling MSAC Community Services, 595-2211, Ext. 361.

Holiday Homes Tour scheduled

Three outstanding homes in the Claraboya area above Claremont will be opened for the Pomona Valley Community Hospital Auxiliary's Holiday Homes Tour on Dec. 11.

The homes of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cox, Dr. and Mrs. Albert N. Monterastelli and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Richardson will be professionally decorated in keeping with the holiday season for the 2 to 9 p.m. tour.

Mrs. Ila Hamilton is general chairman for the special event which assists the Sick Baby Fund of the auxiliary.

AAUW books professor for program

Dr. Fred Sontag, professor of philosophy at Pomona College, will be the speaker at the November meeting of Claremont Branch, American Association of University Women, when the group meets Thursday.

Dr. Sontag will lead the group in a discussion of "Spiritual Renaissance." He is the author of many books and contributor to numerous publications in the fields of philosophy, theology and ethics. He also has been visiting professor in Italy, Denmark, France, Japan and Hawaii.

The meeting will be held at 7:45 p.m. at Pomona First Federal Building, 393 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont. Prospective members, husbands and friends of AAUW members, and interested members of the community will be welcome.

Churchwomen chart sale of rummage

A wide assortment of good children's clothing will be available at the rummage sale of the Dorcas Circle, Church of the Open Bible on Thursday and Friday.

The sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 250 Pomona Mall West will also feature adult clothing, furniture and plants.

Mrs. Grace Adamson, general chairman, says proceeds will assist with mission work and the support of youth camps.

High school students will speak

"Government in Action" is the theme for the Monday meeting of the Claremont Business and Professional Women's Club.

The 7 p.m. dinner will be at Griswold's, Claremont.

Speakers will be two students from Claremont High School, Miss Linda Laird and Andrew Vogel. Miss Laird is the representative selected by the Keith Powell Unit No. 78, American Legion Auxiliary, to attend Girls' State at Squaw Valley this past summer. Mr. Vogel is one of the students from Claremont High School who spent a week in Washington, D.C., meeting with government officials, members of Congress, the press, Diplomatic Corps members and lobbyists.

Reports will be presented by delegates Mrs. Marge Bellot and Miss Elva Gary who attended the Sierra Mar District conference in Anaheim.

By HIAWATHA ESTES

It would require considerable time to locate a home with a more exciting and glamorous exterior and entry than is featured in this attractive design. Low planters of different heights help to accent the recessed, distinctive archway which is lined with brick and flanked with elegant lighting fixtures. From the arch a quarry tile floor with planting areas on each side leads to the striking twin entry doors. Wooden panels of the same design as the doors are located above the doors to further enhance the entry.

Outstanding traffic flow is available from the wide entry. A guest closet opens to the entry.

To obtain a maximum of privacy, the master bedroom suite is at the rear of the plan. It consists of a large bedroom together with a dressing area and a private bath. Both this bath and the family bath have pullman lavatories.

This is a wonderful plan for entertaining. The fore formal living room is at the front of the house and the huge family room-dining area at the rear, next to the kitchen. In fact, only cabinets — which include an eating bar — separate the two. Sliding glass doors open to the secluded patio.

This same basic exterior is also available in four different three and four bedroom plans, at a different price structure, and are illustrated in our book, Prize Homes and Ranch & Modern Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 21012 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $7.42 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until February 27, 1975. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.59; Prize Homes — $1.59; Hallmark Homes — $1.59; Town & Country Homes — $1.59; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.59; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.39. All six books — a $10.34 value — for only $8.22. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, California 91324.

Grumpiness blamed on ailing feet

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bad feet are often the cause of teachers' grumpiness, the Academy of Ambulatory Foot Surgeons reports.

Dr. Abram Plon, Elkins Park, Pa., academy president, told the association's annual meeting that teachers tend to suffer from painful corns and bunions because they spend a lot of time on their feet.

He said a survey showed teachers often put off needed surgery because they fear losing time in the classroom. "Consequently, they suffer needlessly," he said.

He said such ailments as corns and bunions can be "easily and quickly corrected through painless surgery in a podiatrist's office."

Construction will begin Dec. 1 on new Lewis project

The development will be located on the west side of Carnelian Avenue, south of Banyan Avenue. The one and two story homes will be priced from $43,000 to $50,650, with FHA and VA financing available.

The homes will have shake roofs, custom designed fireplaces, formal dining rooms and shag carpeting in the living rooms, dining rooms, hallways, bedrooms and wardrobes.

Similar homes are under construction by Lewis Homes at 15th Street and San Antonio Avenue in Upland. Model homes are open daily.

Early buyers of homes in Alta Loma and Upland may select choice lots and floor plans and also receive price protection. The builder anticipates at least two price increases prior to completion.

Work is also underway at the Countryside, a 292 home masterplanned community between Chino and Schaeffer avenues and Pipe Line and Norton streets in Chino.

The first two units, consisting of 54 and 20 homes, were sold out before the homes were completed, said officials.

The third unit now underway is expected to sell faster than the first two units, they added.

Early buyers also have the advantage of selecting their homes at pre-construction prices.

Lewis Homes has a few homes remaining at two Upland locations. The Classic Series is located on 14th Street a half block west of Mountain Avenue.

JOHN J. LUMBLEAU

Red Carpet has speaker at seminar

John J. Lumbleau, board chairman of the Lumbleau Schools, will be speaker Thursday at a seminar being held for salesmen of Red Carpet Realtors in the San Gabriel and Pomona valleys.

The all day seminar, held at Griswald's Restaurant in Claremont, is to promote the continuous education of Red Carpet personnel. Discussions will be held on a variety of topics related to the real estate market and financing.

Some 130 salesmen are expected to attend the program. Lumbleau is an author, lecturer and real estate broker who has developed his skills as a "sales trainer."

Builders to host speaker

Tom Jones, vice president of Pomona Federal Savings and Loan Association, will be speaker Nov. 21 at the Building Industry Association, Baldy View Chapter, monthly meeting.

The program, starting at 6:30 p.m., will be held at Orlando's Restaurant. The speaker will discuss the money outlook and local economy for next year.

The group is a trade association of builders, developers, contractors active in the local construction industry.

Los Angeles, Orange counties

Existing house sales are down

Sales of existing homes in the Los Angeles-Orange County area are down about 40 per cent from last year as a result of the tight money market, but the decline has been less than the new home market.

Prices of existing homes are still increasing, but there has been some leveling off in recent weeks. In most other major markets in the West and throughout the nation, there has been a more noticeable flattening of existing home prices since midsummer.

These are some of the findings of Advance Mortgage Corp.'s economic research bureau, which reported this week on existing home trends in maor markets.

"Listings are in short supply," said Chris Avren, Advance Mortgage area manager, "and have been for several months."

"Homeowners haven't been selling because of the high discounts and the shortage of mortgage funds. But it now appears the recent sharp drop in discounts is beginning to open up the market again.

"Savings flows at the banks and savings and loan associations have improved, and some of these institutions have come back into the mortgage market.

"There is still some tendency for potential homebuyers to hold off to see if interest rates will drop, but the reduction in the prime rate has had a good psychological effect on realtors. It has given them a needed incentive to redouble their sales efforts."

Nationally, the existing-home market has held up much better than the new-home market in the renewed tight money period which began this —May. In the three months after that — June, July and August — the number of existing homes sold some 13 per cent, tight money period which began this — May. In the three months after that — June, July and August — the number of existing homes sold was down some 13 per cent, according to the monthly survey of the National Association of Realtors. The decline was steepest in June, some 18 per cent. For August, the latest month reporting, the drop was 13 per cent.

Existing-home prices are stabilizing now. A critical stage of buyer resistance to inflated prices has apparently been reached and the median price of existing homes sold in the next few months may actually decline.

According to the National Association of Realtors, the median price of an existing home sold in the U.S. increased some 7.5 per cent from mid-winter to mid-summer but has now flattened. In the Northeast, where prices had shot up 18 per cent in 1973, the increase since January has been just 4 per cent — and a slight decline since mid-summer. In the West, where prices rank second only to the northeast, the escalation in existing homes was as strong as ever during the first half of the year (8 per cent) but has now stopped.

In the Midwest, where prices have risen about 8 per cent in the past year, the median price of an existing home is still below $29,000. NAR Statistics show that less than 45 per cent of Midwest existing homes sold for more than $30,000 this summer, compared with 65 per cent in the Northeast, 57 per cent in the South and 65 per cent in the West.

'Big Ben' gives him jolly start

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — You've heard of waking up to music from the radio?

Dave Frizzell, who spent 12 years at sea as a ship's radio operator, wakes up each morning to the tolling of London's famous Big Ben.

Frizzell wired a short wave radio at home to turn on at 6 o'clock each morning when Big Ben tolls on a BBC radio broadcast.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When traveling with children I place a complete and co-ordinated outfit for each day in a plastic bag so a child can just grab a bag out of a suitcase. The children no longer are confused as what to wear with what. — DOUG.

●

DEAR POLLY — When taking baby on an outing put powder on the diapers before putting them in the diaper bag. This saves space as well as time. — SHARON.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, ℅ this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — My husband became so disgusted with the sopping-wet towels left after wiping the shower's glass doors and tile walls that he bought a window squeegee just for this chore. No more soggy towels! — LUCILLE.

●

DEAR POLLY — I use lids from prescription medicine bottles on the legs of the kitchen chairs and table to help prevent scuff marks. To fasten, place a strip of freezer tape, folded, sticky-side-out, inside each lid. Press a cap on each leg. Repeat the fitting if it doesn't stick the first time. — MRS. W.A.W.

●

DEAR POLLY — My 4-year-old draws at least four crayoned "art" masterpieces each day and never wants one thrown away. I partially solved the problem by writing letters to close relatives on the backs of these art pieces. My daughter is pleased that they are seen by others in the family and they provide me with very personal stationary. — MRS. P.S.

DEAR POLLY — When starting seedlings indoors, plant the seeds in old ice trays. The compartments are just the size for one small plant and they are easy to remove when transplanting. — MRS. C.C.

© 1974 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY — Locks on sliding glass doors are sometimes flimsy. Place a snug-fitting wooden dowel stick in the glide rod after the door is closed and it will be impossible to push the door open. — PAT.

●

DEAR POLLY — If you have, or can find, an old bunk-bed ladder, turn it into a whatnot shelf by attaching, upright, to the wall to hold your little treasures for display. — SUSAN.

●

DEAR POLLY — When the joints in wooden chairs become dry and develop squeaks, I attack them with a can of sewing machine oil. Squeeze a few drops around the joint, rub well into the crack, add a few more drops for good measure and allow the oil to penetrate for a few days. Repeat oil again, if necessary. It probably won't be. — DAISY.

A DOCTOR DISCOVERS VERMONT'S SECRET

WHY PEOPLE IN VERMONT ARE HEALTHIER, LESS OVERWEIGHT, STAY YOUNG LONGER, LIVE LONGER THAN PEOPLE OF ANY OTHER STATE IN THE UNION

Did you know that:

- You were designed by nature to live an average age of 105?
- A high protien - low carbohydrate diet is unnatural for you and dangerous to your health?
- Overweight is caused by bad nutrition which also causes other common visible disorders such as loss of hair, acne, arthritis, nervous tension, insomnias, etc.
- Senility, and loss of productivity in old age can be avoided and in fact is not in natures plan?
- The average American diet creates a perfect blood chemistry for the growth of harmful bacteria that leads to both minor and serious diseases?
- You can get high without the use of drugs if you have the proper nourishment that nature intended.
- Everything you need to lead a longer, healthier life is right at your local grocery store?

These are just a few of the discoveries made by Vermont doctor, D. C. Jarvis M. D., in his life-long study of the unbelievably effective health practice known as VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is a practice that can help you achieve good health, increase your life span, avoid senility, become more attractive and more productive. For 200 years, before publications by Dr. Jarvis, this practice has been known only to native Vermonters.

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was developed by countless generations of Vermonters. Dr. Jarvis M. D., a respected doctor of modern medicine himself, states that VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is superior to modern medicine for the following reasons:

- VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was developed from natures plan - not man's. It was developed by watching the animals who rely on their instincts provided by nature. This is the same way the super-effective defense arts of Judo, Karate and Kung Fu were developed. How can anyone expect to develop a better system than the designer of it all - Mother Nature?
- VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE works. It was developed by trial and error over a 200 year period. This also means it has passed the acid test of time.
- Although it contains some of the best cures known to man, which cannot be found in medical books, the main design of VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is to prevent disease before it starts. Modern Medicine is directed, mainly at curing disease - diseases you should never have in the first place.

D. C. Jarvis, M. D.

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is based on the premise that man does not have to undergo psysical impairment and weakening with age. In Vermont you can see people in their eighties putting in a full days work in the fields with sound minds and bodies.

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was designed to help man live his full average life which by nature's plan should be 105 years. Yes, it's true. It is a common fact that an animal lives to be 5 times his maturity age. A horse matures at 4 years and easily lives to be 20. A cow matures at 2½ years and easily lives to 12. A dog matures at 1½ years and easily lives to be over 8-many live much longer. Man is an animal. BUT, THE AVERAGE MAN IN THE U.S. WHO MATURES AT 21 WILL DIE AT AGE 62. THAT'S 43 YEARS BEFORE HIS TIME! With the exception of a notorious retirement state, which can't be counted, Vermont leads all other states in percentage of population over 65. Not long ago it had 40,000 persons over that age, and each year nearly 2500 reach it!

Short lives, senility, excessive disease, and so on are not in nature's plan. What's the culprit? The free will of man! Although free will is indeed a wonderful thing, it does have some bad side effects. Unlike the animals, we stray away from our childhood instincts.

The first thing discovered by VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is that each species is designed to have a different diet. Nature's plan for man's diet requires a high intake of carbohydrates represented by fruits, berries, edible leaves, and honey, and a low in take of protien represented by eggs, meat, milk, cheese, etc. Man was also designed to eat foods derived from corn and rye and not from wheat, which produces an alkaline blood condition.

Nature designed nearly all animals to have a natural blood condition on the acid side. Blood which leans toward the alkaline side is a health hazard. Medical school studies show that harmful bacteria breeds best in an alkaline environment. Also, alkaline blood is thicker than acidic blood. This makes it more difficult for the blood to nourish cells, and increases the probability of heart attacks.

So, everyday Americans are killing themselves with high protien-low carbohydrate diets which contain many wheat products. In turn, the diets are 1) hard on the system, 2) do not provide the correct elements for nutrition.3)Produce the bad alkaline condition in the blood. Many of these diets are the result of weight watching. Little do these people know that overweight is caused by 1) bad nutrition of the glands, 2) a blood condition which is not acidic and 3) a wrong carbohydrate consumption. The correct carbohydrates burn up instantly and do not turn in to excess fat.

The following are symptoms of bad nutrition and a diet that is contrary to nature's plan: low energy, depression, insomnia, itchy skin, chronic headache, sensitivity to temperature, sinus trouble, lingering colds, dizzy spells, gas and indigestion, poor blood circulation, falling hair, dandruff, blemishes, lack of skin color, and overweight.

Two important foods in VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE are honey and apple cider vinegar. They are a major contribution toward providing the correct carbohydrates, the correct nutrition and an acidic blood condition.

Why honey? Nature intended that we have a trickle of sugar passing thru the intestinal walls at all times and one teaspoonful of sugar in our blood stream at all times. The latter is ultra critical. In honey, the sugar has already been digested in the bee's stomach. Therefore, honey contains two natural sugars dextrose and levalose, which go into the blood stream immediately. Honey is free from bacteria. Experiments show that bacteria will not live in honey. Honey is a mild, natural sedative which is calming to the body. Honey is a mild, natural laxitive. Honey is nonirritating to the digestive track. Honey is, of all sugars, handled best by the kidneys. Honey is rich in vital minerals from the flowers. By an infallible instinct, the bee has a way of knowing which flowers are high in quality and which are not. Therefore, honey is a perfect food derived from only the healthiest plants. In Vermont there is a saying, "We've got to trust someone - why not let it be the bee?"

Why apple and vinegar? Apple cider vinegar carries with it all the vital life elements of the apple. Apple cider vinegar maintains the proper acid level of the blood. Apple cider vinegar can maintain your proper weight. Dr. Jarvis's book describes a method using apple cider vinegar where the person eats normally but will gradually lose weight until the body finds its proper weight level. With this method women will gradually see their dress size go from 20, to 18, to 16 and gradually stop at their natural body size. Men will see a 40 inch waist line drop to 38, then 36 finally to the proper size as the body properly burns off excess fat because it is in the proper chemical state that nature intended.

It is not enough, however, to only know the ingredients of good health. You must know how and in what combination to use honey, vinegar and other vital products of nature. Dr. Jarvis has published the results of his life long study of VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE in his book titled FOLK MEDICINE. In every day language he tells you how to use VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE. Here are some of the highlights of this book:

- How VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE can help you live a longer, fuller, healthier life.
- How to use honey and apple cider vinegar to: 1) gain renewed health and energy, 2) as part of prenatal care to produce a strong healthy baby, 3) Produce sound sleep, 4) Reduce your susceptibility to disease, 5) Reducc the chance of heart attacks, 6) Produce a relaxed comfortable state of being.
- How to use honey and apple cider vinegar to cure: 1) morning sickness, 2) sinus, 3) migrain headaches, 4) dizziness, 5) arthritus, 6) bed-wetting, 7) coughs, 8) hay fever, 9) colic in babies.
- How to use apple cider vinegar, castor oil, and corn oil to 1) produce beautiful healthy skin and bring color back 2) clear up blemishes, 3) get rid of dandruff, 4) grow healthy hair and eyelashes, 5) cure hives, 6) cure hemorroids, 7) get rid of moles, 8) relieve lameness, 9) treat poison ivy, 10) treat shingles, 11) eliminate night sweats, 12) get rid of varicose viens, 13) get rid of ring worm, 14) treat impetigo, 15) get rid of hangover.
- How to get your daily requirement of the all important minerals phosperous and potassium which: 1) form healthy bones, teeth and hair; 2) maintain proper growth control; 3) replace wornout tissue; 4) fight disease; 5) cure high blood pressure; 6) cure heart trouble, 7) cure migrane headaches.
- How you can rebuild your body after age 50 and be alert, active and productive in your eighties and beyond.

At this point I would like to insert the opinion of the writer. Today there are many exagerated claims and falsehoods. I can tell you that everything you see written here is true. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE and Dr. Jarvis's studies do exist. A phone call or letter to any official office such as the Greater Vermont Chamber of Commerce will verify this. As a reporter, I rarely get excited about a project. But, before writing this article, I used the diets and methods described in Dr. Jarvis's book for 3 months. Few Americans have any idea what it is like to be truly healthy as nature intended. Life was meant to be very pleasant. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE has had the following effect on me: I feel very calm and at peace with the world. I have an abundance of energy and endurance. I look better and healthier. But, most of all, I just feel good all over. In fact, at times, I feel so good that I tingle all over and feel like I'm walking on air. If people would only know what it's like to feel as nature intended, they would never take drugs. Nature's plan allows you to get high without drugs.

For those interested in obtaining a copy of Dr. Jarvis's book, FOLK MEDICINE, the following information is given: The book is being distributed by PCA - The Publishing Corporation of America. On a blank piece of paper write the words, "FOLK MEDICINE," followed by your name and address. Mail this along with $9.95 in cash, check or money order to P.C.A.; Dept. C-41; 6233 Whipple Avenue N.W.; Canton, Ohio 44720. The price includes postage and handling. Make checks payable to PCA.

Today, if you wish, you can get this book at a large discount. P.C.A., in a survey, would like to know what age group is interested in this book. During this survey, those who include their date of birth along with their order will get a bonus discount. The cost to you, if you submit your date of birth, is only $6.95. You get a full 30% discount. To qualify, simply write your month, day and year of birth after your address.

Should you spend a couple minutes and a few dollars to acquire this valuable health knowledge? Studies show that people will think nothing about spending hundreds or thousands of dollars on homes and cars, but are reluctant to spend a few cents on themselves. As the proverb goes: "When you have your health you have everything - lose your health and nothing else really matters."

"The Godfather," Academy Award winner for Best Picture in 1972, has its television premiere in two parts on NBC Saturday (Nov. 16) and Monday at 9PM each night. Marlon Brando was voted Best Actor for his powerful portrayal of crime syndicate czar Don Vito Corleone. Francis Ford Coppola, who also directed the film, and Mario Puzo won Oscars for their screenplay, based on Puzo's best-selling novel. Less than one minute has been trimmed from the film, according to network officials. Editing was supervised by Coppola. NBC paid Paramount Pictures $10 million for the single showing of "The Godfather," biggest boxoffice hit in movie history.

Sandy Duncan stars in a special, designed as the pilot for a projected series of musical variety shows for CBS, Wednesday at 8PM. Paul Lynde, John Davidson, Valerie Armstrong and special guest Gene Kelly join the saucy little star of "The Sandy Duncan Special" for a series of comedy vignettes involving carnivals, psychiatry, wedding cakes, roadside diners and dogs. Kelly is highlighted with Miss Duncan in a medley of songs and dances from his most famous films.

The history of a .38 police special handgun is traced from the time the gun is made until its final owner, passing through the hands of some 10 people in "The Gun," the ABC Wednesday Movie of the Week, at 8:30PM. Produced by Richard Levinson and William Link, no strangers to controversy as witness their "That Certain Summer" and "The Execution of Private Slovik," the movie makes a strong statement on guns and current gun laws. John Badham directed from the teleplay by Levinson and Link. Scenes showing the actual making of the gun were filmed at the Pachmayr Gun Works on South Grand Street in downtown Los Angeles, the first time a film company has been allowed to shoot (sic) scenes there.

'CANCER DISCRIMINATION'

Two years ago a 17-year-old girl with face cancer was treated in an operation that left one side of her face temporarily paralyzed. Today she is considered unemployable and will remain in that category for three more years despite recovery. Dr. Walter Dishell, series' medical advisor, treated the young cancer victim and watched her recovery. However, she was refused readmittance into a teacher-training program with the Los Angeles Board of Education.

The young woman became another victim of cancer discrimination—a widely-practiced personnel policy that denies former cancer patients employment for five years from their cure—and the subject of Medical Center, Monday, 10PM on CBS.

"But the story we came up with is not just based on her. It's based on the problem of a former cancer patient who is denied gainful employment on the basis of a stigma of cancer," says Dr. Dishell. "In head and neck cancer most cases will recurr in the first year, about 80%, and only 10% in the second year. After that you rarely find a recurrence."

American Cancer Society California President Robert J. McKenna, M.D., recalls three patients attempting to return to work as engineers in aerospace firms. Each one was unable to pass the physical because of a history of cancer. McKenna's committee on Employability of Recovered Cancer Patients located former cancer patients faced with an unanticipated employment problem in a wide variety of areas.

"We found a major problem in civil service, among schoolteachers, and others employed by City, County and State government."

Children's Hospital uncovered "a whole population of cancers, a common problem in children now compared to years ago. New advances mean more kids are cured and returned to school. When they graduate and try to get a job, they can't." Dr. McKenna believes part of the problem is a popular misconception that cancer is incurable.

"You ought to individualize. The reason is that people with one cancer may have a very optimistic outlook, a 90% chance of being cured. We ought to educate personnel people and the public in general that those with cancer should be given equal opportunity. It's one thing to have a cancer and fear that you may not be cured. But it's another thing to fear you don't have a job and you can't get a job even though you feel perfectly well."

Presently there are no statistics available and no accurate measurement of the size of the cancer discrimination problem in reality. But "it's had really no public attention at all," according to Dr. McKenna. Using Medical Center as a vehicle of communication is an aim toward two objectives. "First, to focus on the problem that is present; and second, to get former cancer patients who are facing this hurdle to report their circumstances to the American Cancer Society so we can do something about it."

'MENUHIN CONCERT'

And, for Menuhin, it's been an adventure in music. For 51 years, Menuhin has been one of the world's leading violinists. He's written about music, organized music festivals, led major orchestras and has launched a school for young musicians. His musical interests are vast — but the keystone of them all is Menuhin's incredible ability to play the violin.

Monday, at 8:30PM on KCET, Channel 28, Menuhin gives a full-scale demonstration of that ability as he appears In Performance At Wolf Trap. Menuhin's concert was taped as it was performed at the Wolf Trap Farm Park for the Performing Arts near Washington, D.C. this past summer.

Before the concert, Menuhin chatted with his friend, Alexander Schneider, the internationally-known conductor who led the Wolf Trap American University Academy Orchestra for Menuhin's concert. The two men talked — mostly about music. And they joked — mostly about each other. But then, as concert time approached, the talking and joking stopped. As he has done for the last 24 years, Menuhin devoted the last 15 minutes before the concert to his practice of Yoga.

Menuhin began violin playing when he was very young and made his debut with the San Francisco Symphony orchestra when he was seven. Four years later, he astounded the classical musical world with a masterful interpretation of the Beethoven Violin Concerto with the New York Symphony in Carnegie Hall. Albert Einstein was so moved that he gathered the boy in his arms and exclaimed, "Yehudi, now I know there is a God in heaven."

Menuhin successfully made the transition from prodigy to internationally-acclaimed adult master of the violin. He's been given the French Legion of Honor and commended by many other nations. He has honorary degrees from Oxford and Cambridge and a host of other universities. He's recorded more than 44 albums and gives 120 to 150 concerts each year.

At 58, his world continues to be filled with music that involves people. "Music must always speak of the human condition. Our concern," he explained, "is with people, with human beings, with life itself."

Caine (series star David Carradine) and Nan Chi (guest Barbara Seagull), a comely Shaolin temple nun desired by a Chinese warlord, are fleeing from his soldiers in this scene from "Ordeal by Love, Part I," first of a two-episode story directed by Carradine, on ABC's Kung Fu, Friday at 8PM.

'BRIEF ENCOUNTER'

"I'm a serene person. I don't like to make a fuss. But I am very serious about my acting. I'm not happy unless I know I'm doing the best I can when I work," said Sophia Loren, as she sat in a bare white room which was part of an unused wing of a hospital in Winchester, England.

The room, part of the Royal Hampshire County Hospital in the historic city, had been temporarily turned into a set for the Hallmark Hall of Fame production airing Tuesday at 8:30 PM on NBC, "Brief Encounter," which co-stars Miss Loren and Richard Burton. In the scene which was prepared in the hospital room, Miss Loren, as Anna (the heroine of Noel Coward's bittersweet love story) is shown speaking with a woman patient with a bruised face. The sequence was filmed a number of times and the long hours before the cameras did not alter the calm demeanor of the brown-haired Italian star.

She said: "I don't mind doing something over again if it means it will be good. Our director, Alan Bridges, knows what he is doing. And I want it to be the best that it can be."

Asked why she chose this new adaptation of the Coward play to make her television dramatic debut, Miss Loren replied: "I've always liked the play, and I especially like this new approach. It is contemporary and yet it retains all of the richness of the original story."

Discussing her role as Anna, Miss Loren said: "The story is as Coward wrote it. Except, now the girl is Italian and she lives a quiet life in England for 17 years after marrying an Englishman. All of a sudden, she meets another man and finds another kind of affection. So she falls in love with this man, Alec. The story takes place today, in 1974; the woman works (she didn't in the original British film) and she has an active social life."

COVER CLOSE-UP

'BACK TO LA—THE LONG WAY'

Until he played the bass violin in the pilot for his series Paul Sand in Friends and Lovers Paul Sand had never played a note on the instrument. Until he travelled to Boston to meet the Boston Pops Orchestra's renowned conductor Arthur Fiedler, Sand had never sat in with a symphony orchestra. The talented young actor had travelled to Boston to soak up a little background for his role as Robert Dreyfuss, a bass violinist with the Boston Symphony in the comedy series seen Saturdays at 8:30 on CBS.

Sand's meeting with Fiedler and his "fellow" musicians took place during the orchestra's rehearsals for its nationally famous Boston Pops season. During his visit Sand talked with Fiedler, picked up some tips from the orchestra's members and was given the rare opportunity of actually sitting in with Boston Symphony.

Sand is quick to point out that "sit" in was all he did. "I have too much respect for the talent and training of those musicians to even place the bow on the strings of the bass violin they were nice enough to provide me," he says.

SYMPH
TRANCE

Sand, who has appeared on stage in New York and Europe, admits that he's always wanted to be an actor. At a very early age he was trying to convince his parents it's what he wanted to do, but in the beginning they discouraged it. During that period, Sand pointed out, the frustration of knowing what he wanted and not being able to do it, led to a great deal of unruliness on his part. "I did poorly in school," he says, "and was even somewhat of a discipline problem for my parents and teachers."

Finally at the ripe old age of eleven, Sand began studying acting, although his parents, wanting to avoid the child star syndrome, refused to let him work professionally. "Once I started studying to act," he explains, "my whole life straightened itself out. My frustrations were gone and I was able to pay attention to my schoolwork, participate in sports and suddenly I was no longer a problem to anyone."

It wasn't until he was eighteen that Sand began working professionally with one of his first jobs being that of a mime with Marcel Marceau's troupe in Paris. After a year in Paris, Sand returned to the United States and was selected to appear in a series of concerts with Judy Garland. He later went on to join the "Second City" company in Chicago and New York and followed that with appearances in "The Mad Show." His performance on Broadway in "Story Theatre" won Sand a Tony Award for best supporting actor. He made his motion picture debut in "The Hot Rock."

It was Valerie Harper who first brought Sand to the attention of Jim Brooks and Allan Burns, creators of The Mary Tyler Moore Show, who cast him to play the shy internal revenue agent who audited Mary's tax return. The response to Sand's appearance in that one episode was enough to convince Brooks and Burns to build a series around the talented young performer.

It's been quite a road for the Los Angeles born actor to travel from California to Paris to Chicago, New York and home again, but it's one, he says, he's enjoyed traveling.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR RAQUEL WELCH, star of "The Wild Party"*

● When people teased me (and some still do) I was resentful, especially if it was done with a sneer. I was embarrassed the first time I saw myself on the screen. But not any more. I'm used to it, and I feel there's a need for what I project. People think every sex symbol wants to change her style. There's no stigma in being a sex queen. I've gotten lots of range out of it. I'm interested in new roles—but I don't really want to lose my image.

FOR PRESIDENT FORD

I was quite impressed to hear that you weigh within six pounds of your college football playing weight. Has your waist size changed much?—T. F. Morgan, Sacramento, Calif.

● My waist size has gone from 32 to 38. While my weight has stayed close to my playing weight, my body structure has slipped a bit.

FOR KURT VONNEGUT, JR.,
author of "Breakfast of Champions" and other novels

What thing in your life most influenced your unique style of writing?—Ken Fasman, New City, N.Y.

● There have been millions of influences, of course,but the biggest ones were my parents and my brother and sister, all of whom spoke English beautifully and were marvelous at making jokes. My humor is Indiana humor, and I was taught by newspapermen to keep my sentences terribly simple.

FOR MORTY GUNTY, actor and comic*

Has your recent major surgery had any effect on your work? —R. H., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● It's made me appreciate work all the more! (I almost died when 90 percent of my stomach was removed.) The biggest adjustment is to eat small amounts often, and to stop while I'm still hungry. If I don't, I'll get sick. I don't drink, because I can now get drunk on one drink. I must eat every two hours, even during the night. I've also had my spleen removed.

FOR CONGRESSWOMAN BELLA ABZUG (D-N.Y.)*

Why do you always wear a hat?—Yvonne Wilcox, East Lansing, Mich.

● I began wearing hats as a young lawyer because it helped establish my professional identity. Before that, whenever I was at a meeting, someone would ask me to get coffee—they assumed I was a secretary. Nothing wrong with being a secretary—but I had other plans. Wearing hats became an asset when I ran for Congress the first time and did street campaigning. People asked, "Which one is Bella?" And the reply was, "The one with the hat."

FOR LORETTA SWIT of "M*A*S*H"*

What effect has the popularity of "M*A*S*H" had on your private life?"—J. S., Utica, N.Y.

● I find I'm known wherever I go. Consequently I go to fewer and fewer places. I can't handle the crowds and attention. I do appreciate it, but I can't cope with it.

FOR REX REED, movie critic*

Some people say that the lack of good movie roles for women is a political conspiracy by male chauvinists. Do you agree?—John Townsend, Austin, Texas

● No, it's a commercial conspiracy, not a political conspiracy. The film industry is now run by ten people. They're all men, and these men are not in business to lose money. So they're going to keep doing copies of things that have been successful.

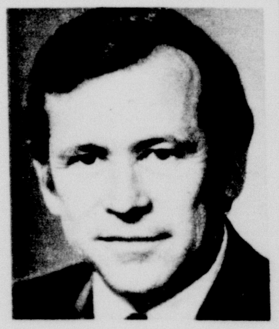
Why were the American people not given the freedom to vote for or against prayer in schools?—Mrs. Joan Mansfield, Hertford, N.C.

● As sponsor of proposed legislation to reaffirm the right of voluntary prayer, I share your concern. Overwhelming support for voluntary prayer has been expressed in state referendums and resolutions in state legislatures. Several days of hearings on this issue were conducted last year, but as yet no conclusive action has been taken.



FOR DELLA REESE

How does your daughter feel about your being a celebrity? —F. G., Stockton, Calif.

● She doesn't! She thinks of me as just her mother. There's no such thing as a "celebrity." We're merely human beings with different jobs. "Dumpsey," who's 15, flips over The Jackson Five. But she has no professional interest in singing —she wants to be a lawyer.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

The old-style circus in a tent seems to be a vanishing breed. Why? And why are there fewer and fewer animal acts each year?—A. Gibson, Hamilton, Ohio

● According to George Hamid, who owns the Steel Pier in Atlantic City as well as the Hamid-Morton Circus, the tent-style circus is fading out for two reasons: economics and transportation problems. It's far cheaper and there are fewer headaches in moving personnel for an arena-type presentation than there are in moving a tent with all its equipment and accessories. As for animals, the Endangered Species Act is primarily responsible. Every year, new restrictions are imposed upon circus owners, making it more and more difficult for them to acquire and train animals. This applies to domestic animals, such as dogs, as well as to the exotic lions and tigers. In Hamid's view, it's not the animals who are endangered—it's the American circus.

By Jonathan Livingston Seagull's Creator:

In a Pilot's Brush With Death–The Meaning of Life

Jill Krementz

On that day, Richard Bach made a proud landing—and heard an accusing voice within.

By Richard Bach

Author of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and the new book, "A Gift of Wings" (Delacorte, $8.95).

It was supposed to have been a simple inside loop, out off the airways, way up high, just for fun. With the wind shredding itself in a great thundering hundred-mile cry through the flying wires, I lifted the biplane's nose through a steep climb, through straight up, through an inverted climb . . . then stalled there, hanging from the seat belt upside down over thirty-two hundred feet of clear and empty air. The control stick went dead in my glove, the airplane wallowed lazily this way and that, and fell flat, like a giant slow-motion pancake, out of the sky. Dust and hay from the cockpit floor poured up past my goggles and the wind changed from clean thunder to a strange loud buffeting hum, a thirty-foot bumblebee in agony.

The nose made no particular effort to point down, the engine stopped in zero G, and for the first time in my life I was pilot of an airplane that was falling . . . just as if it had been derricked off the ground and cut loose.

I was annoyed at first, then apprehensive at the way the controls didn't respond, then I was quite suddenly afraid. Thoughts flicked through me like tracers: This thing is out of control there's altitude to bail out but my airplane will be killed this is the lousiest loop I am the worst pilot what's this falling, airplanes don't fall like this c'mon get that nose down. . . .

"The biplane fell down from the sky, wallowing, buffeting. What am I doing here, the voice screamed. It took a second to answer. I'm living."

Through it all, the observer behind my eyes watched with interest, not caring whether I lived or died. Another part of me was scared to panic, and cried this is not fun I don't like this at all WHAT AM I DOING HERE?

What Am I Doing Here? The question has fired itself, I'll bet, at every pilot who ever lived. When John Montgomery set himself to cut his glider loose from the balloon that carried it aloft, he must have thought, What am I doing here? When Wilbur Wright knew that he couldn't get the wings level before the Flyer hit the ground; when the test pilots discovered that the Eaglerock Bullet or the Salmson Sky-Car, after fifteen turns of a spin, would not recover; when the mail pilots, lost above a sea of fog, heard the engine die on the last of its fuel—they all heard that question from the terrified voice within them, though they may not have taken time to answer.

"Any pilot who says he's never been scared," goes the saying, "is either stupid or a liar." There are exceptions, perhaps, but not many.

For me it was spins, as I learned to fly. Bob Keech would sit calmly over there in the right seat of the Luscombe and say, "Give me a three-turn spin to the right." I'd hate him for it and go tense as steel and dread the moments ahead and bring the stick full back and force right rudder, my face dead as old soap. I'd hang on, eyes squinted to count the turns, recover at last. I'd think in pain as I leveled, I know what he's going to say. He's going to say, Now give me three turns left. And Keech would sit over there, arms folded, and say, "Now give me three turns left."

Yet that hour would fly past and we'd come skimming into the pattern and land and I'd barely set foot on the ground when my fear was forgotten and I was desperate to fly again.

What Am I Doing Here? The student on cross-country hears the question while he searches the checkpoint thirty seconds overdue. Many other pilots hear it when the weather around them turns from good to not-so-good, or when the engine misses a beat or the oil temperature turns a shade too high and the oil pressure a shade too low.

It is one thing to lean back in office chairs and talk about how great it is to fly, it is another thing entirely when you are up in the air and the engine blows up and the windshield goes liquid gold in oil and the only place to land is that little tiny oat field down there, along the crest of the hill, with a fence at the end.

When it happened to me, there was a continuous dialogue all the way down to the ground, or, more precisely, there were two monologues. One part of me is intent on turning to final approach, holding airspeed just so, shutting off magnetos and fuel, judging the glide, steepening the bank because we are too high. . . . The other part is gabbling in fright. "See? You're scared, aren't you? Big deal, you've flown all these airplanes and you think you like to fly but now you're afraid! First you were scared the engine was on fire, now you're scared you'll miss the field, aren't you? YOU'RE A COWARD, YOU'RE ALL BLUFF AND TALK AND YOU'RE NOT HAPPY NOW AND YOU WISH YOU WERE ON THE GROUND AND YOU ARE AFRAID!"

That day we made the landing in fairly fine style, propeller stopped, oil streaking the airplane in the strange beauty of liquids blown by the wind, and I was a proud peacock to set it down without a scratch. But even as I congratulated myself on the landing, I remembered that accusing voice telling me how scared I had been, and was distressed to admit that it had been right. Afraid or not, though, here was the

. . . and the Marine Corps was born.

Now, every November 10th, we celebrate. But it is more than a birthday party.

It is a time at which we remember all our valorous comrades who fought . . . on the angry beaches of Iwo Jima . . . in the now peaceful woods of the French Argonne . . . in the frozen mountains of Korea . . . and the sweltering valleys of Vietnam.

We remember carrying the banners forward, and hating the fight, and the noise . . . and pressing the enemy until it was quiet again.

We respect those memories this day. And every day.

By the way we look. The way we march. The way we train our men:

We deliver United States Marines.

If there are a few good men ready to stand with us . . . we're open tomorrow morning. November 11. Early.

TRY THIS NEW PIPE "FREE"

So different that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT patent number 3267941

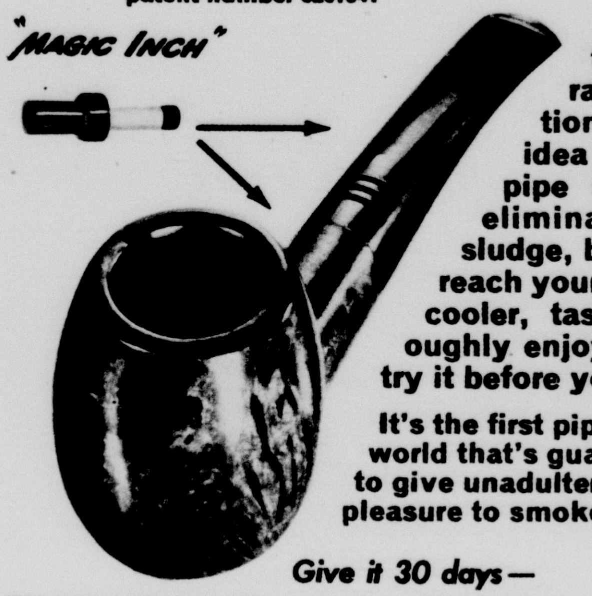
FOR 30 DAYS!



This top grade Mediterranean briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking-in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. You get cleaner, cooler, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking. You can try it before you buy it.

E.A. Carey

Give it 30 days—

No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged Mediterranean briar — but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

It's Not a Filter

The "Magic Inch" is not a filter that gets soggy and loaded with foul smelling goo. A soggy, foul smelling filter transmits its stale foul odor into each successive puff of smoke, creating more problems than it solves.

It's Not a Trap

It's Almost Magic

Not my magic but NATURE'S OWN MAGIC. Warm winds pick up moisture by evaporation from the oceans, lakes, rivers, and streams, lift it high into the atmosphere where the cooler upper air squeezes it into drops of water that fall back to earth in its most perfect state of purity. Just as the colder upper air of the atmosphere causes rain, the cool air entering the "Magic Inch" chamber through the special louvers of the patented Carey stem, causes immediate condensation of the moisture in the smoke where it drops to the bottom of the chamber, is absorbed by the natural fiber sleeve of the "Magic Inch," and in turn, is evaporated into the outside air. No accumulation ever remains to form sludge or slugs of bitter tasting goo. The "Magic Inch" also mixes purifying oxygen with the smoke from the tobacco, in perfectly controlled proportions, cooling the smoke, eliminating all tongue bite, and creating MELLOWNESS, MILDNESS, and SWEETNESS that was never before enjoyed in pipe smoking.

Today, over one hundred and fifty thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They all got started by accepting my most unusual offer to test a Carey Pipe for 30 days, without any risk on their part whatsoever.

They were all granted the same option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it; if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

What Am I Doing Here is not supposed to have an answer. The voice that asks is hoping we'll reply without thinking, "I shouldn't be here at all. It is a mistake for man to fly and if I get out of this alive I will never be so foolish as to fly again." The voice is content only when we do nothing at all, when we are completely and wholly idle. It is the voice of paradox, of self-preservation carried to the point of death.

The way to make time pass slowly is to stay absolutely bored. Bored, minutes are months, days take years to pass. The way for us to live the longest possible life is to sit ourselves in a blank gray room, waiting for nothing, through the years. Yet there's the ideal that the voice asks us to choose—to stay in this body, this room, for as long as we can.

What Am I Doing Here has another answer, however, one we aren't supposed to find . . . I Am Living.

Remember, as a child, the challenge of the high board at the swimming pool? There came the time, after days of looking up at that board, when you finally climbed the cold wet steps to the high platform. From there it looked higher than ever, the water looked a thousand feet down. Perhaps you heard it then, What am I doing here? Why did I climb up here? I want to go back where it's safe. But there were only two ways down: the steps to defeat or a dive to victory. No other choice. Stay on the board as long as you wish, but soon or late you must choose.

You stood on the edge, shivering in the hot sun, deathly afraid. At last you leaned too far forward, it was too late to retreat, and you dived off the edge. Remember that? Remember the joy that fired you back to surface so that you broke clear like a porpoise, streaming water, shouting YEEHOO! The high board was conquered in that instant, and you spent the rest of the day climbing steps and diving down, for fun.

Climbing a thousand high boards, we live. In a thousand dives, demolishing fear, we turn into human beings.

That's the charm, that's the siren song of flight: Flight is your chance, pilot, to destroy fears on a grand scale, in a high and beautiful country. The answer to every fear, be it of high board or of three-turn spin, is knowing. I know how to hold my body as I leave the board, so the water will not hurt me. I know how the wing stalls and the rudder forces it to spin. I know that the world is going to blur like a runaway green propeller and the controls will fight against my hand. I know the opposite rudder pedal will be hard to push for the recovery, but I know I can push it, and the spin will stop at once. Before too long, knowing, I climb high and do spins for fun.

It is only the unknown that is fearful. As clouds lower about us, for instance, we are unafraid if there's a runway in sight to land upon. We fear low ceilings only when the unknown lies below . . . fields or hills or treetops to come down in, when we have never once landed on field or hill or tree. But if we have landed in fields for years, if we know what to look for and how to control our airplane throughout, then landing in grass is no more frightening than landing on a mile of concrete.

Every pilot first conquered the fears of a narrow envelope of flight. We first knew our airplane and ourselves well enough only to fly around the pattern on sunny days. Then we knew more and flew into the practice area; then out into the world, then into cloud and rain, over seas and deserts—all without fear, all because we know and control the airplane and ourselves. We grew toward becoming human, and we fear only when we lose control.

We learned to avoid when we could not control, which is to say that we began to overcome stupidity. Don't Fly Through Thunderstorms is an axiom most pilots accept without testing. Never Trust Your Life To An Engine is a less heeded one, most often ignored by those who have never heard an engine stop in flight. Those pilots who fly without parachutes on black-night cross-countries and over seas of fog have no idea of where they might land if the engine quits, and without knowing haven't a prayer of controlling the crash.

It is a terrible empty feeling to have a guaranteed certified approved modern engine snap its crankshaft or swallow a valve or run out of gas when the tank gauge reads FULL. The feeling is all the worse when one can't see to land, worse yet when one can't bail out, and reaches ultimate despair when one finds he is a trapped and helpless passenger in his own airplane.

Certainly there are hundreds of pi-

Shirley Temple Black Talks About Her Times of Tears, Her Times of Triumph

Ellen Graham

"I live with the future. I love the past, but I don't live in it. . . . Except for a few stumbling blocks, I've had a good life."

"I don't have many Hollywood friends. I knew a lot of people when I was a child, but most of them have gone to the Great Beyond. Anyway, I was so young, I wasn't close to many people."

The house in Woodside, Calif., is English Tudor. The garden is beautifully kept; the interior, tastefully decorated. The walls are full of pictures of famous people, from President Nixon to President Sadat of Egypt, all of them autographed to the mistress of the home—former movie star Shirley Temple Black.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Do you see many films now?

SHIRLEY: The only time I look at pictures today is on planes. And I'm not sure I'm a good judge. I fell asleep when they showed "The Sting." It won an Academy Award. I also fell asleep when I saw "The French Connection" on a plane. And that one won an award. Maybe when I fall asleep, it's a good sign the film will win an award.

SHIRLEY: That you need a sense of humor to survive!

SHIRLEY: When I was asked about the operation, I said I had lost an old friend. I don't think that necessarily shows that I have a sense of humor, but at least I didn't let it get me down.

FW: You had a press conference in the hospital room and wrote a story about the operation. Why?

SHIRLEY: I felt that if women, my sisters in the world, heard about my experience, it might save a life. It might help to convince them to examine themselves and go to a doctor if they're worried. But before I discussed my own operation, I talked it over with my family to see how they felt about it, and they agreed I should.

FW: Are you perfectly all right again?

SHIRLEY: Absolutely, 100 percent.

SHIRLEY: I got over 50,000 letters, and I know of at least one case where it saved a life. One lady wrote me that she examined herself after watching the press conference in the hospital and became aware of having the same problem I did. And she did something about it.

FW: Were there any disadvantages, as far as your children were concerned, in the fact that their mother was the famous Shirley Temple?

SHIRLEY: When Lori was seven and suddenly found out that her mother was a movie star, she became quite upset because the other children teased her at school. So I told her to find out what their fathers and mothers did and then tease them right back. I told them every occupation is important and is nothing to be ashamed of.

FW: Were you strict with them?

SHIRLEY: Yes, I was. They had their allowances and worked summers to make pocket money.

SHIRLEY: I don't know if I can call it a problem, but I seem to be a born volunteer. I volunteer for simply everything. Sometimes this gets me into trouble, like when I volunteered to go to Prague on behalf of multiple sclerosis. I got there in time for the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia, but I got out all right. [Shirley led a motorcade from Prague to the Austrian border.]

FW: Do you see a lot of your former Hollywood friends?

SHIRLEY: I don't have many Hollywood friends. I knew a lot of people when I was a child, but most of them have gone to the Great Beyond. Anyway, I was so young, I wasn't close to many people.

FW: When you travel, do most people still recognize you?

SHIRLEY: Some do. But then—well, not long ago I posed with the President of the General Assembly. When we finished, he said to me, "Thank you very much, Miss MacLaine."

FW: Is that the only time you have been taken for Shirley MacLaine?

SHIRLEY: Nope. I tried for years to get into Red China. I didn't think I would have a hard time because I was one of three people who signed a petition asking for China's admission to the United Nations and sent it to President Nixon.

FW: What happened to it?

SHIRLEY: When I mentioned it to Henry Kissinger, he said, "Shhh, don't talk about it." I didn't know he was preparing for China's entry into the U.N. Anyway, an answer to my application to get into Red China never came, but I heard Shirley MacLaine got a letter inviting her to come to China. I am sure the letter was meant for me. They got their Shirleys confused.

FW: Who is the most fascinating person you've ever met?

SHIRLEY: I think Golda Meir is the most fascinating woman, and Sadat the man with the most charisma. Now, that's said like a true diplomat, isn't it?

SHIRLEY: I've always been interested in people and projects. Maybe I should have been a reporter. But I don't go looking for work. When there is a need and I can do something about it, I am happy to do it. I am also happy to say that I've made no enemies that I know of. The only people who won't talk to me are the Albanians. But then, they won't talk to anyone else either.

SHIRLEY: Linda Susan is 26 and is doing the third rewrite on a novel that I haven't read yet. Lori's in a college in another state and is a music major. Charles is 22 and is majoring in political science. He wants to become an international lawyer specializing in sea law, which is marvelous since his father is so involved in it. [Shirley's husband, Charles Black, is a specialist in marine-resources development.]

SHIRLEY: That's the question I am asked most frequently, and the answer is no, because I wouldn't enjoy them. I was there when they were made, I know what's happening, and I am not nostalgic. I can't wait to find out what's happening tomorrow. I live with the future. I love the past, but I don't live in it, and I consider myself lucky. Except for a few stumbling blocks, I've had a good life. fw

Silk & Silver

Eighth in a series:

She's Betty King Barker, industrial designer who can list among her credits 4 careers, 3 grandchildren, 2 sons, and 1 husband. She also manages to find time for tennis, golf and looking after her good looks. To keep her silvery hair bright and beautiful, she uses Silk & Silver, Clairol's long lasting color lotion in Silvery Pearl* #14.

"So easy," says Mrs. Barker, "I just shampoo it in every few weeks—it colors away the yellow, adds lots of body and wonderfully rich deep color." And it has no peroxide.

How You Can Win Contests!

Discover 14 Secrets to Winning . . . and Cash In On Exciting Vacations — Luxury Cars — Money and Thousands of Other Fabulous Prizes to Be Given Away This Year

If you dream of having enough extra cash to spend any way you would like. If you have longed for a few of the luxuries in life before you are too old to enjoy them. If you receive a special thrill when you are named a winner. Then continue to read and learn how to make your dreams come true.

To be a winner, the first thing you must do is forget about being lucky.

If you follow any kind of sports activity closely, you know the best prepared team wins. They don't leave anything to chance.

The same systematic approach can help you win contests. If you prepare — if you have the proper tools — if you know how to make the law of averages work for you . . . you will soon be winning such valuable prizes as color television sets — tape recorders — radios — appliances. Even cash and vacations to exotic places.

Why am I so confident you can win — and win big?

Because I am doing it. I know the thrill of winning. I know what it takes to be a contest winner. I know if you are determined you can win too.

Until a few years ago, my wife and I were like the average person. We would occasionally enter a contest that caught our attention . . . with always the same results. Nothing. You may have experienced this same thing.

All my efforts left me frustrated. I knew I had to do something different to win. I decided to find out how I could improve my chances of winning. I started by interviewing the people who knew what it was all about. Contest judges.

I spent hours in writing letters and talking to judges. I studied carefully their advice and the techniques they suggested. With their help — and my own trial and error — I developed 14 simple — but effective rules — for entering and winning contests.

Believe me, this is not luck.

To prove what I am saying is true, here are just a few of the letters I received announcing my winnings:

— You will be happy to know that your entry has been selected as one of the winners in the Purina Dog Chow $150,000 Triple Treasure Sweepstake Spectacular.

— Your entry has been selected as a winner in the Armour "Win a Wish from the Wizard" Sweepstakes.*

— Congratulations . . . you are a winner in the "007 Colgate-Palmolive Sweepstakes." Please allow six weeks for delivery of your RCA Tape Recorder.*

— Your Polaroid camera is being forwarded to you as a winner in the Libby's Fine Foods Contest.*

My name is Haywood Kelly. My wife and I have won thousands of dollars in valuable prizes. You can be a big winner too — it's easy when you use the 14 simple steps I have discovered.

Without contests and a systematical way of winning, these prizes were only a dream . . . but now a dream come true.

Now you can make your dreams come true and experience the thrill of winning. You can master in a few hours what it took me two full years to discover.

I have written down every successful technique I have used. Every proven secret I have learned. And have included each of them in a book I have written, entitled "How to Win Contests."

Even though this book could mean hundreds, perhaps thousands of dollars to you in valuable prizes, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, winning contests is not luck. It is SYSTEMATICAL PREPARATION.

I will teach you the fourteen rules you must follow to be successful.

I will teach you the "golden rule" of winning.

I will show you how to be selective and enter only the contests that provide the best chance to win.

I will tell you how to use the rules of the contest to your advantage.

I will give you the formula for a winning strategy.

I will show you how to beat the law of averages by entering more than once. The trick is in the timing of your entry.

I will show you how to keep posted on current contests so you won't accidentally miss out on the best opportunities to win.

I will show you a secret trick to make sure your entries aren't overlooked.

I will teach you how to use logic to take the "chance" out of winning.

I will show you how to hit the jackpot time and time again.

At first you will find your winnings hard to believe. Even your friends won't believe it — they will think you struck it rich.

So, forget about being lucky. Don't take as long as I did to find out what it takes to be a systematic winner.

Give in to that impulse. There's nothing to lose.

I'm not asking you to believe what I have said. Just try it. I guarantee you will be a winner. It's as simple as that.

Guaranteed Winner

To prove there is more to winning than luck — you have this 100% no risk guarantee. Order my book "How to Win Contests." If you don't like it when it arrives, return it for an immediate refund. No questions asked. Or, keep it and enter several contests using my 14 successful rules. If in one year's time you have not won at least two national contests, return the book. You still get your $3.00 back.

Smart Cooking
Day Before Payday

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a delicious dinner for four with frankfurters and apples. Says Marilyn: "You don't have to sacrifice taste to beat the high cost of living. Here's a simple three-step recipe made from economical ingredients."

A Tasty Skillet To Make– With Frankfurters!

APPLE AND FRANKFURTER SKILLET

- 2 tablespoons margarine or bacon drippings
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 jar (1 lb.) red cabbage
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon allspice
- 1 lb. frankfurters or knockwurst
- 2 large Golden Delicious or Winesap apples, cored and sliced

2. Add red cabbage, vinegar, salt and allspice; toss together.

3. Slash frankfurters halfway through and arrange with apple slices on top of cabbage mixture. Heat to boiling. Cover and simmer about 15 minutes, until apples are tender and frankfurters are heated through. Uncover and boil rapidly a minute or two to reduce liquid, if necessary. Serve with mashed potatoes. Makes 4 servings

Don't tell the kids that Frosted Carrot Cake is good for them. All they need to know is that it tastes good!

FROSTED CARROT CAKE

- 4 eggs
- 2½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tablespoons wheat germ
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups vegetable oil
- 3 jars (4½-oz. size) strained carrots
- ½ cup chopped walnuts
- Cream Cheese Frosting, recipe below

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease 15½x10½-inch pan.

2. In large bowl, beat eggs at medium speed of electric mixer. Add flour, wheat germ, sugar, cinnamon, baking soda, salt, oil and carrots. Beat at low speed to combine, then at high speed until well-mixed.

3. Stir in walnuts. Spread batter smoothly in pan. Bake 30-35 minutes, until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

4. Cool completely on wire rack. When cool frost with Cream Cheese Frosting. Cut into 3x1½-inch bars. Makes about 3 dozen

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) cream cheese, room temperature
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
- 1¾ cups confectioners' sugar
- ¼ teaspoon pure vanilla extract

1. In small bowl, combine ingredients. Beat at low speed to mix, then at high speed to blend smoothly. Makes about 1½ cups

Doctors Prove You Can Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieve Pain And Itch Too.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind.

You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H® also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure and try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

WHEN YOU ORDER BY MAIL from companies that advertise in Family Weekly, allow up to four weeks for delivery. Sometimes unintentional delays occur. If they do, write: Lynn Headley, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022.

CAN YOU QUIT SMOKING? READ THE EVIDENCE

In the past twenty years thousands of people all over the world have stopped smoking with the aid of Bantron®. In actual clinical tests among smokers who wanted to quit, more than 4 out of 5 did so easily and pleasantly with its help. Meanwhile less effective smoking deterrents have disappeared from the drug store. If you have been disappointed by one of these, do not let this keep you from trying Bantron. Bantron's long record of success is your assurance that it can help you. Bantron is not habit forming and does not affect the taste in any way. It works by acting as a substitute for the nicotine in your system. Get it at any drug store without a prescription.

People Quiz

Little-Known Ways You Can Influence People

By John E. Gibson

True or False: One of the best ways to get someone to change his mind about something is not to talk to him about it at all. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you want someone to do you a big favor, get him to do you a small one first.

2. One of the best ways to get someone to change his mind about something is not to talk to him about it at all.

3. The best way to get people to do what you want is to soften them up with a humorous approach—tickling their risibilities with jokes or witticisms to put them in a receptive mood.

4. The best way to convince someone of your good points is to let somebody else mention them.

5. The most difficult person to influence is the individual with low self-esteem.

ANSWERS

1. True—as shown by Stanford University studies which have demonstrated that complying with a small request makes a person much more prone to comply with a larger one later. This principle, as one leading investigator observed, is extremely useful in persuasion.

2. True. If a person has made up his mind about something, trying to talk him out of it—no matter how persuasive you are—is likely to arouse resentment and provoke argument. Psychological studies show that the best way to operate is to marshal your most persuasive facts but instead of directing them at the person you want to convince, arrange for him to overhear them. Example: Excuse yourself while you "make a phone call," during which you wax as eloquent as you can with your most convincing arguments, favoring the point you wish to put across and permitting the other party to "overhear" your conversation. Research has shown that "persuasions counter to the attitude held by a person were more effective when 'overheard' than when the same persuasion was made directly to the subject."

3. False—at least where young people are concerned—according to a series of studies at Ohio State University, where humor was found to be a very risky and unreliable ingredient when used in connection with persuasion. Results of tests showed that "in general, humor did not increase, and sometimes decreased, the persuasive effect of the message."

4. True. University studies have shown that another person will be far more impressed with your good points if they are presented by a third party rather than by yourself. However, if the person you wish to impress is likely to hear negative things about you, it's far better if he hears about them directly from you.

5. False. Studies show that he is the easiest to influence. As Profs. John R. Wenburg and William W. Wilmot observe in their definitive treatise, "The Personal Communication Process," "the low-esteem person . . . is easier to persuade because he has little confidence in his own personal opinions."

The First Danbury Mint Christmas Bell

- Limited edition available only until November 30, 1974, and only directly from The Danbury Mint. Not available in stores.
- Each fine silver covered bell is hallmarked and registered.
- Guaranteed delivery for Christmas, attractive gift package.
- A prized first edition and a uniquely beautiful Christmas gift.
- Priced at only $35.00

The First Danbury Mint Christmas Bell is issued in strictly limited edition only for orders postmarked by November 30, 1974. After that date it can be acquired only from original owners who are willing to part with it.

The 1974 Christmas Bell is based on an enduring work of art. The angel that sits majestically atop the bell was inspired by the famous Bernini angel in St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome. This adaptation of a great work of art by a master sculptor makes the bell truly distinctive.

As a gift, for yourself or someone else who is special, it is a unique first edition that could well be the beginning of a most interesting and rewarding tradition.

"I think that fear is something to be conquered in a fair fight, not ignored or swept under a rug of illusions. . . ."

lots who fly without fear through black nights and over miles of fog, but their peace comes not from knowing and control, it comes from blind faith in the crate of metal parts that is an engine. Their fear is not overcome, it has simply been masked by the sound of that power plant. When that sound fails in flight, I give you fear, stronger than ever.

I've been called Daredevil for flying passengers from wide clear hayfields, Chicken for refusing to fly them from a narrow runway facing hills and trees. Wild Crazy Irresponsible for picking up handkerchiefs with a wingtip, Overcautious for deciding not to fly at night without a parachute. But still I think that fear is something to be conquered in a fair fight, not ignored or swept under a rug of illusions that engines never fail. Fear, fear—you are a demanding enemy.

The biplane fell down from the sky, wallowing, buffeting. What am I doing here, the voice screamed. It took a second to answer. I'm living. And I bail out if we're not flying by the time we reach two thousand feet. At two thousand feet I'll pull the seat belt release and fall free, clear the airplane, and pull the ripcord. A shame to lose it because I can't fly a simple loop. I'll never live it down.

Slowly, like a big floating safe, the nose of the biplane eased downward. The terrible throbbing buffet began barely to fade, and the airstream to smooth. Maybe. . . .

We roared through two thousand feet pointing straight down, under control again, and the engine blazed once, coughed, and burst back into action. Oh boy, the voice said. You nearly had it that time and you were scared as a rat. Scared to death. This flying business is not for you, is it?

We climbed back to three thousand feet, put the nose down till the wind shredded itself in a great thundering hundred-mile cry through the flying wires, and this time with a good positive pullup we flew a fine loop, the biplane and I. Then another, and another.

What are we doing here? Overcoming the fear of death, of course. Why are we in the air? We're practicing, you might say, what it is to be alive.

NORMAN ROCKWELL

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

THE HAMILTON MINT PROUDLY PRESENTS

NORMAN ROCKWELL'S FOUR FREEDOMS

A Memorable New Limited Edition of Pure 1000 Grain Silver Ingots The Largest and Heaviest Ever Struck by The Hamilton Mint

ALL ORDERS MUST BE POSTMARKED BY NOVEMBER 30, 1974

NORMAN ROCKWELL, by far America's greatest and best loved artist, has for fifty years brought joy to millions of Americans young and old.

Now, by exclusive permission of The Saturday Evening Post, The Hamilton Mint is extremely proud to issue, and thus preserve, forever, in stunningly beautiful silver ingots, the greatest of all his works, "The Four Freedoms."

Rockwell created the original masterpieces during World War II in a burst of patriotic fervor. They depict those great values held very dearly in the hearts of all Americans. And they are just as truly inspiring now as they were then.

The Hamilton Mint believes that in these troubled times, our nation sorely needs to rededicate itself to these great beliefs: Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Worship, Freedom from Fear and Freedom from Want. So with great pride, we present this magnificent collection.

Mr. Rockwell Talks About His "Four Freedoms"

"When Roosevelt and Churchill issued their famous Atlantic Charter, with its Four Freedoms proclamation, I tried to read it . . . but I hadn't been able to get beyond the first paragraph. The language was so noble. Then one night . . . I thought, that's it! I'll illustrate the Four Freedoms using my Vermont neighbors as models. I'll express the ideas in simple, everyday scenes . . . in terms everybody can understand."

Norman Rockwell depicted these great beliefs with his own inimitable and unique brand of genius. Freedom of Speech is portrayed by a man unafraid of reprisal as he speaks his mind at a town meeting . . . Freedom of Worship shows all people free to worship according to their own dictates . . . Freedom from Want is depicted by a family sharing their Thanksgiving meal together and Freedom from Fear is shown tenderly by a mother and father as they snuggle their children safely in bed for the night. Rockwell himself says "The Four Freedoms was the best idea I ever had."

A Strictly Limited First Edition

This First Edition will be of special interest to knowledgeable collectors because they represent Rockwell's greatest work and traditionally, first editions have always been the most valued. To insure the integrity of this edition, ingots will be struck to fill orders postmarked by November 30, 1974. Once those orders are filled, no more first edition ingots will ever be minted.

An Exclusive Treasury in .999 Fine Silver of Rockwell Masterpieces

The original Rockwell paintings shown at right, are of epic proportions. And so will be the ingots. Each beautifully sculptured ingot will measure 1¾" x 2¼" and will contain 1000 grains of .999 fine silver, the purest and finest silver available. These will contain more than twice the silver of our standard ingot. Each will be struck in high bas-relief with a satiny image and antique finish to clearly show every detail of the great art.

Your Valuable Personal Serial Number

Your First Edition Collection will be minted expressly for you and each ingot will be inscribed with your personal matching serial number along with The Hamilton Mint Hallmark. In addition, you will receive a certificate of authenticity to certify the limited edition status and precious metal content of each ingot.

Significant Investment Potential

We feel that many limited edition silver mintings are good investments but none do we feel has the potential of this particular Rockwell collection. And this comes at a time when leading economists are predicting that silver and gold will continue to become more valuable in the years ahead. Collectors have already realized bonanzas. For example, a 1970 Christmas Ingot was issued for $12.00 and now brings $195.00. A 1972 Thanksgiving Ingot containing 1 oz. of silver originally sold for $4.50 and now brings about $25.00. So please act promptly to share in the excitement of owning this magnificent collection.

Guaranteed Price Protection

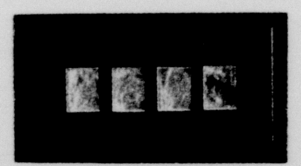
Subscribers to The Four Freedoms are guaranteed the original purchase price, no matter how high the price of silver may escalate. You will receive your first ingot soon after your application is accepted and the three additional ingots at monthly intervals thereafter. The Hamilton Mint will not accept any orders postmarked after November 30, 1974, any orders received after that will regretfully be returned.

Quotations from "My Adventures As An Illustrator" by Norman Rockwell

Deluxe Edition of 24 KT. Gold on .999 Fine Silver

This special edition is the ultimate in beauty and combines the Pure Silver ingots with a layer of 24 KT. Gold to further enhance the potential value of this edition. Each ingot will also be individually hallmarked and serially numbered.

Special Display Frame



As a subscriber to The Four Freedoms Ingot Collection you will receive, at no additional cost, an easel-backed display case custom designed to hold your complete collection. This versatile display case of finely stained wood with a fine walnut finish, will proudly sit on a desk or shelf, or hang on wall.

EVEL'S RIVAL
A first for women

While Evel Knievel was busy preparing himself to be shot by missile across the Snake River Canyon in Idaho for $6 million, a more modest jump was being organized by British secretary Mary Connors. She was preparing herself to be the first person fired from a cannon across the Avon River. The drop may not have been as dramatic as Evel's, but Mary's derring-do was admirable enough. And unlike Evel, she made it! After her first voyage, Mary, a part-time stunt girl, repeated it once a day during a week-long fair.

Is a fish just a fish? Listen to one of the world's most expert fishermen: "Now and then I hear some bass man say the largemouth will outfight a big trout or steelhead. That's a lot of pure malarkey! A big bass just doesn't fight like a trout of equal size. He's too smart for that. A bass doesn't come blasting out, crazy-wild, like a steelhead or coho salmon or a big rainbow trout. No, indeed. He'll show you some of that power in the first couple of lunges. From then on he's got one of those mean eyes peeled for the nearest stump, brush, pad or something else he can wrap the line around and bust free. A bass has a personality. He's a real character. Nobody I know goes out and gets a big bass anytime he happens to want to." From "Catch More Bass," by Stan Fagerstrom. Copies of this oversized paperback are available from the author at Box 27, Silver Lake, Wash. 98645. Price is $7.95.

INGRID BERGMAN
How "Bell" tolled success

QUOTE (about the scene that made Ingrid Bergman a star forever): "The most important film in the making of a star is the one that follows the first big hit. If the second picture disappoints, the star-building process is aborted, the star-to-be becomes a flash-in-the-pan and has to start virtually from scratch. But if it is possible to follow one great success with another, the career is well and truly launched. Ingrid Bergman's crucial time came after 'Casablanca.' In her case, a fortunate set of circumstances fell into place to provide her with that second smash hit. It was Ernest Hemingway's 'For Whom the Bell Tolls.' . . . When Gary Cooper grabbed her in 'For Whom the Bell Tolls,' when they went into that sleeping bag together, something powerful happened in darkened auditoriums the world over." From Garson Kanin's "Hollywood" (Viking Press, $8.95). UNQUOTE.

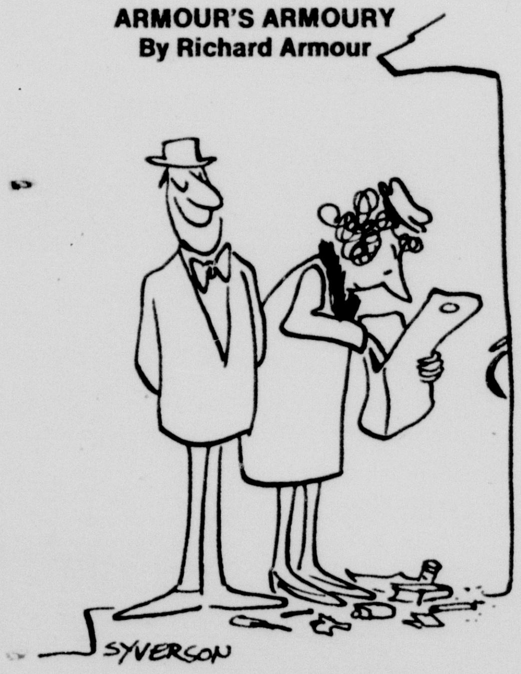
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



MY WIFE'S HANDBAG

"It's in my handbag," says my wife,
Referring to a stamp, a knife,
A ticket, a receipt, a quarter,
A key—and I've the job of sorter.
I poke around, I shake, I shift,
I closely look at what I lift.
Each hand's a sieve or else a cup. . . .
At last, defeated, I give up.
My disappointment it may soften
If when my wife gives me a breather
And searches—she can't find it either.
